TO PUSH CAMPAIGN THERE

INSURANCE MEN AT WORK

Lead in Great Business Movement to Continue the Present Administration in Office.

The Mitchel-Fusion campaign managers were greatly elated yesterday over the announcement from United States Senator William M. Calder, Eugene M. Travis, State Controller, and Frederick J. H. Kracke, City Commissioner of Plant and Structures, that they would support Mayor Mitchel for re-election. All three are from Brooklyn and have been "on the fence" since the Republican primary election was won by William M. Bennett. Their advocacy of the Mitchel cause is expected to have an important effect upon the fortunes of Mayor Mitchel in Brooklyn, where it is conceded he is weaker than in any of the other boroughs. Their announcement that they had definitely lined up behind the Mayor gave the Bennett camp a distinct shock.

The "Big Brooklyn Three," it was also announced, intend to take an active part in the campaign and speak at many Brooklyn meetings. Senator Calder is scheduled to take the stump immediately in behalf of the Mayor. All three declared that the question of loyalty to the Republican organization was not the point at issue, as the main fight was to keep the control of the city out of Tammany's clutches. State Controller Travis went further and declared that loyalty to the National Government was the main issue, and that he was "an American citizen first and a Republican after."

"After mature consideration," said Senator Calder, "I am convinced that the Mayoralty contest lies between Mayor Mitchel and Judge Hylan. The supreme issue is whether Tammany shall seize the city government and destroy for at least four years all that has been won by fusion. I confidently expect to see Mayor Mitchel re-elected. I think it is the duty of Republicans to support him. I am for him because I am a Republican and also because I am a citizen of New York City and realize that he has given the city the best municipal government it ever had. It cannot be said too strongly that there is no question of party regularity involved. The Republican Party is committed as distinctly and unequivocally as a party can be to non-partisanship in city affairs."

Best Fitted for Fight.

"Here in Brooklyn our fight, as Republicans, has always been against Tammany Hall. We have consistently given our best to the end that Tammany might be overthrown. No other candidate in the field has the equipment, the experience, or the confidence of the community to the extent that they are combined in Mayor Mitchel, and in speaking for him I wish to speak also for Controller Prendergast, Mr. Adamson, Borough President Pounts, and Borough President Marks, who have combined to make the strongest team of municipal officials the city has ever seen."

Controller Travis said: "The paramount issue in this campaign is the preservation of good government in New York City. The three weeks' campaign has clearly demonstrated to me that the issue is Judge Hylan or Mayor Mitchel. I do not believe that any other candidate can be elected. I am an American citizen first and a Republican next, and the welfare of my home city compels me to act as above indicated. I shall vote for Mr. Mitchel."

This is Commissioner Kracke's statement: "Of course, the fact that I have not severed my connection with Mayor Mitchel's administration conveys the assurance that I am supporting him for re-election. However, apart from these obligations of loyalty, it is in accord with good citizenship to do the most effective thing to prevent the incoming of Tammany Hall with its accompanying waste, inefficiency, and special privileges. Clearly the most effective thing to do is to support Mr. Mitchel, who is the only candidate who can defeat Mr. Hylan."

The Pioneer Republican Club of the Bronx has declared for the re-election of Mayor Mitchel. At a meeting held Saturday night resolutions were passed indorsing his administration and pledging hearty and loyal support of the Fusion ticket. The resolutions state in part:

"Mayor Mitchel's courage, fearlessness, ability and uncompromising Americanism command our admiration and should commend him to all intelligent and patriotic Americans, regardless of the country of their birth or ancestry. We must guard against clothing with power those who are supported by dangerous un-American influences."

So that every branch of business, professional, and trade circles can be reached, the Fusion Campaign Committee has enlisted the services of representatives of every line of endeavor to interest members of their respective trades and business in Mayor Mitchel's re-election. The Real Estate Committee is one of the first to get into the field.

Hillquit Alone of Candidates Won't Aid Liberty Loan

All the principal candidates for Mayor have subscribed to the Liberty Loan, it was learned yesterday, with the exception of Morris Hillquit, the Socialist candidate. Mr. Hillquit stated flatly that he had not subscribed to either the first or the second loan and did not intend to. The best way to protect the soldiers, he said, was for the Government to "immediately initiate a move for peace."

"I am not going to do anything to advance the war," Mr. Hillquit declared. "I would subscribe with all my heart to any fund whose efforts are for the advancement of peace."

At the Democratic Fusion headquarters it was learned later that Judge Hylan, Tammany candidate for Mayor, had subscribed $500 to the first loan, and $100 to the second loan. William M. Bennett, Republican candidate, said he had purchased several thousand dollars of the first loan issue, and that he had bought three Liberty bonds of the second issue, one for his son, and one for each of his two daughters.

Mayor Mitchel said he had subscribed $1,000 to the first issue, and up to date had subscribed $1,000 to the second issue.

"I have certainly subscribed up to the limit of my financial capacity. I am going to get some more if I have to jimmy my way in."

WISCONSIN TEST OF BIG WAR ISSUES

Election of Senator to Succeed Husting Is Expected to be a Historic Struggle.

LA FOLLETTEISM AT STAKE

Senator Likely to Have a Candidate Voicing Antagonism to War—Philipp as Contender.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—From the viewpoint of Washington politics, the special election to pick the successor to Senator Paul Husting of Wisconsin, shot and killed by accident yesterday by his brother while duck hunting, will test the strength of the La Follette antiwar propaganda in the State. Leaders of both parties here say the election will determine where Wisconsin stands so far as support of the nation's war policy is concerned, hence will have profound national importance. Senator Husting, a Democrat, was an ardent supporter of the Administration and a severe critic of La Follette's anti-war activities.

When the news of the death of Senator Husting was flashed to Washington late last night there was an impression that Governor Philipp of Wisconsin, a straight Republican and a foe of Senator La Follette, would have the right to appoint a successor to Senator Husting to serve until the next general election, in November, 1918. But reference to the Wisconsin law today showed that the successor appointed by the Governor might serve only to the time of a special election, which, under the Wisconsin statutes, is provided for if the death of a Senator or Representative occurs more than twenty days before the time of the next general election. This means that the Governor must call a special election to choose a Senator.

Political leaders here recognize that La Follette is a factor to be reckoned with. His hold upon the State in the past has been strong, and leaders in both parties admit that in the special election it will be a hard fight to obliterate the normally heavy La Follette majority.

A La Follette Candidate.

That La Follette will have a candidate of his own is a foregone conclusion, and it is believed the candidate will make the race on the La Follette anti-war platform. Senator Husting made too earnest a fight against pro-Germanism, or, as he himself put it, against anti-Americanism, to have the issue fade in the picking of his successor. What he fought for, they argue, will press itself into the campaign as the foremost issue, and they look forward to a battle at the polls with the line clear cut as between anti-war propaganda and loyal support of the Administration in the world conflict.

Before leaving Washington tonight for Wisconsin to attend the funeral of Senator Husting, Senator La Follette declined to declare his attitude in the forthcoming election. He asked to be excused, saying he could not talk on the matter at this time. He will return to Washington late in the week.

Politicians tonight said they believed they saw an opportunity for Governor Philipp to get into the race with more than fair prospects of winning the seat of Senator Husting. During the last month Governor Philipp has been going through Wisconsin making speeches for the Liberty Loan and bringing forward the issue of Americanism. From reports received in Washington his campaign has met with a warm response.

Until a month ago Governor Philipp kept himself aloof from nationalism in his conduct of his State office. He steered what might be characterized as a neutral course, avoiding all allusion in his public utterances to the Administration and its war policy. His recent attitude on the stump has been interpreted by Wisconsin leaders as an appeal to the American sentiment in his State and something entirely apart from politics.

Philipp Would Be Formidable.

HAIG WITH ALLIES MAKES NEW GAINS ON YPRES FRONT

ADVANCE 1,000 YARDS THERE

GERMAN CASUALTIES HEAVY

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Highly successful operations in the neighborhood of Poelcappelle, and, in conjunction with the French in the southern part of Houthulst Forest, north of Ypres, are reported in the communication from Field Marshal Haig tonight. All the objectives, including many strong points, were captured.

The British captured other valuable positions southeast of Poelcappelle beyond their objectives, and further north, co-operating with the French, captured the southern defenses of Houthulst Forest, besides a series of fortified farms.

The Allies are established firmly well beyond the southern boundary of the forest.

A Reuter dispatch from British Headquarters says that the advance toward the forest positions, which was made through a dense fog, was about 1,000 yards, and that there is a rumor that the Poelcappelle brewery, which has frequently changed hands, was captured by the British.

The Germans, by a strong counter-attack in the vicinity of the Ypres-Staden Railway, checked the British advance astride the railway, but elsewhere were unable to prevent progress. Heavy casualties were inflicted upon the enemy and 200 prisoners were captured.

The text of the afternoon statement follows:

Early this morning we made local attacks on both sides of the Ypres-Staden railway. The progress of these operations is reported as satisfactory. French troops co-operated on our left.

French Consolidate Flanders Gains.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—The French troops spent most of the day along the front to the left of the British in consolidating the ground which they gained in their early morning attack, when appreciable progress was made on a front of two-thirds of a mile.

On both the Aisne and Verdun fronts heavy artillery actions were in progress today.

The statement issued tonight by the War Office on the operations says:

In Belgium the enemy in the course of the day made feeble reaction with his artillery against our troops, who organized the ground conquered north of Veldhoek. Two field guns were included in the material captured in the attack this morning.

On the Aisne front the artillery action was violent in the section of Chevrigny ridge, Panthéon, and the region of Cerny. One of our patrols took ten prisoners, including an officer.

On the Verdun front there were spirited artillery actions in the Avocourt Wood and north of the Bois le Chaume.

The afternoon announcement reads:

In Belgium we attacked this morning at the left of the British Army on a front of one kilometer. Our troops attained all their objectives, making appreciable progress north of Veldhoek. A certain number of prisoners remained in our hands.

Reconnoitring parties penetrated the enemy lines at various points on the front, to the southeast of St. Quentin, near Mennejean Farm, at Panthéon and in the region of Tahure. We took ten prisoners.

Severe artillery fighting continued all along the Aisne front. German attacks between Rheims and Cerny and in the sector of Massiges were without result.

There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front.

Drumfire Preceded Ypres Attack.

BERLIN, Oct. 22, (via London).—Between Draelbank and Poelcappelle, on the Flanders front, French and British troops began attacks today, the War Office announces. The assaults were preceded by an intense artillery action on both sides.

Following is the German official report:

In Flanders yesterday the artillery duel again developed great intensity from Houthulst Wood to the Comines-Ypres Canal, and, increasing frequently to drumfire, continued violently until morning. According to reports at present at hand, Franco-British attacks have begun between Draelbank and Poelcappelle.

Front of the German Crown Prince—The artillery battle between the Allette region and Braye continued even during the night with the utmost employment of all fighting means and with only short intervals. In the middle sector of the Chemin des Dames the firing at times was very lively near Cerny.

Lieut. Nowell, U. S. C., Killed.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Penn., Oct. 22.—Mrs. Celhia Nowell of Hollidaysburg last night received a cablegram announcing the death of her son, Roger, a First Lieutenant in the British Royal Flying Corps, in an aerial duel on Oct. 15. Three British planes attacked a similar number of German machines over enemy territory. The combat was waged in a dense fog, and when the mist cleared away Lieutenant Nowell and his machine were missing.

French Cabinet Resigns, But Poincare Doesn't Accept

President Poincaré refused to accept the resignations on the ground that the Chamber of Deputies on Friday had voted confidence in the Ministry.

All the Ministers then placed the question of their resignations in the hands of Premier Painlevé, who is considering the matter.

The Government was sustained in the Chamber of Deputies on Friday by a vote of 369 to 95 after a general discussion of the Cabinet's policy. Painlevé has been in office only since Sept 13.

HINTS OUR ARMY IS NEAR ACTION

Baker's Guarded Review Taken to Mean That Soldiers Soon Will Be in Trenches.

ALLIES TO CONTINUE DRIVE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Secretary of War Baker issued a formal statement tonight which is interpreted in Washington as meaning that the bulk of the American expeditionary forces now in France will soon go into action in the trenches.

This is the construction placed upon significant phrases in his weekly review of the military operations in Europe, guarded in its utterances and carefully prepared after a consultation with General Staff officers, after a review of confidential information from military sources abroad.

In his review the Secretary of War emphasized the status of the Pershing expedition by giving it the most prominent position in his analysis of the military equation. He declares that "our men in France, after three months of intensive training, are in splendid physical condition and efficient fighting trim" and "now feel at home in the war zone."

The Secretary had no comment to make on the statement, but the interpretation placed upon his words, when carefully weighed here tonight, is that they mark the verge of the actual entrance of the American troops into the fighting line.

What gives further emphasis to this interpretation is the fact that in his statement Secretary Baker says "it is not anticipated that the Allies will go into Winter quarters this year," and that the "full importance of the battle in Flanders is beginning to be revealed."

The probabilities are that with the assignment of American soldiers to their places in the front an equivalent number of Entente forces will be released to reinforce the men employed in the steady driving home of the enlarging wedge in Flanders.

The Secretary's Statement.

Mr. Baker's statement follows:

"Our men in France, after three months' intensive training, are in splendid physical condition and efficient fighting trim. They have readily become acclimatized and now feel at home in the war zone. Our troops have met with the most warm-hearted and enthusiastic reception on the part of the armies and people of France. The health of our men overseas is reported as excellent.

"The week just closed has been one of relative quiet on all fronts.

"Bad weather already prevails along the western front. Winter conditions will soon set in, and this terrain will become increasingly difficult for attacking troops. Nevertheless, the potency of allied material and men, the accumulation of the technical means of combat, and the preparations which have been going on for many months will make it possible for the British and French commanders to triumph over natural obstacles, and with few short intervals we may expect the offensive to press forward.

"It is not anticipated that the Allies will go into Winter quarters this year. The full importance of the battle in Flanders is beginning to be revealed. In order to appreciate the real significance of this engagement and the effect it has had on the enemy's military plans and on the German army and the German people we must consider briefly the German attacks in the Riga sector, including the capture of Oesel, Dago, and other minor islands of the Finnish gulf.

Germany Extending Line in the East.

"While no attempt should be made to belittle the importance of the positions gained by the enemy, we cannot fail to record that it is apparent that the Germans undertook this expedition with a view to bolstering up the morale of the country, more particularly in order to be able to meet the impending internal difficulties which threaten to culminate in a renewed Cabinet crisis in the near future.

"The German higher command has invariably picked out a weakened objective in order to be able to record a success, which should be of political rather than military value. The islands of the Finnish coast in the hands of the enemy in no way offset the recent allied victories in Flanders.

Sound strategy demands that no such diversion of forces be undertaken at so crucial a moment.

"If the enemy had any confidence in being able to stem successfully the tide of the allied advance in the west he would throw every ounce of his strength into the balance in Flanders, and, if possible, by crushing the allied armies bring about peace with victory, which the German has often stated as his objective.

"Germany, by extending her lines in the east, has merely added to the length of her line of communications.

"Thus the events in Russia today should cause us to have increasing confidence in a final allied victory.

"Along the western front trench raids, as well as the usual artillery duels, are reported. Isolated country attacks were conducted by the enemy in such a manner as to indicate that no real success

LLOYD GEORGE CALLS AMERICANS BEST FIGHTERS

SEES NO PEACE PROSPECT

Bonar Law Says Britain Is Doing More Damage by Airships Than She Receives.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Premier Lloyd George and the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Andrew Bonar Law, were the principal speakers at an imposing demonstration in Albert Hall this afternoon to inaugurate the Autumn campaign for national economy. The hall was crowded, while on the platform were many distinguished men, including the Archbishop of Canterbury, General Smuts, members of the Cabinet, and allied diplomats.

The Premier, who received a warm welcome, said that the enthusiasm gathering in the fourth year of the war was the best proof of the determination of the country to prosecute the war until victory was achieved. The cost of the war was gigantic. It was heavy today and would be heavy tomorrow.

He spoke in enthusiatic terms of the help of America, saying that Americans were a people of volcanic energy, the best fighting material in the world, and were full of ingenuity and resourcefulness.

One hundred and twenty thousand workers on war savings committees, a fine army, were doing splendid work, the Premier said, and he thanked them for their labors in connection with the last war loan, which had been most successful, and also in connection with the food economy campaign, which had resulted in a saving in food supplies of 5 to 7 per cent. That in itself, he remarked, meant a saving of hundreds of thousands of tons.

The valor of Great Britain would be enormously enhanced, the Premier asserted, by the quickening inspiration of a righteous war. Another solacing fact was that the gigantic debt would be a debt which Britons owed to themselves, as Great Britain was borrowing daily from her children.

Lasting Peace Not in Sight.

After drawing a comparison between the extravagances of war time and peace time and making a plea for economy, the Premier said:

"The way to shorten the war is to prepare as if the struggle were going to be a long one. I am not going to predict when the end of the war will come—no man in his senses would prolong it one hour if there were an opportunity for a real and lasting peace. But it must be a lasting peace. It must not be a peace which would be the prelude to a new and more devastating war.

"I have been scanning the horizon anxiously and cannot see any terms in sight which would lead to an enduring peace. I feel that the only terms which are possible now would be terms which would end in an armed truce—I will say an armed truce ending in an even more frightful struggle.

"This war is terrible beyond all others, but, terrible as it is in itself, it is still more terrible in the possibilities which it has revealed of new horrors on land and sea and in the air.

"I ask those who are pressing (should there be any) for a premature peace to reflect for a moment on what might happen if we made an unsatisfactory settlement—all the best scientific brains in the lands, stimulated by national rivalry, national hatred, national hopes, devoting their energies for ten, twenty, thirty years to magnifying destructive powers. We must settle this once for all.

Next War Might Be Worse.

"The power in the air is in its initial stages, the infernal weapons of the deep are hardly developed. All these elements, which have been used for the first time, if their use is repeated after thirty years of scientific work and application, would mean the death of civilization. We must end a conflict of this kind now, and brute force must be dethroned forever. That is why we are putting all our strength into getting the right issue in the conflict now.

"Germany, in my opinion, would only make peace now on terms enabling her to benefit by the war, into which she wantonly plunged the world. That would mean that Germany would profit by her own wicked venture, and it would be an encouragement for any buccaneering empire in the future to repeat the experiment.

"Napoleon's failure taught France a lesson she never forgot. A similar lesson must be burned into the hearts and memories of every Prussian before this war is done with.

"It is not a question of territorial readjustment or indemnities, but pre-eminently a question of the destruction of a false ideal which has intimidated and enslaved Europe, or would have done so had it been triumphant. It is an ideal in which force and brutality reign supreme as against the ideal of the world peopled by free democracies and united in as honorable league of peace. That is the ideal enshrined at Potsdam, where they have been plotting and scheming how to enslave their neighbors. That has been their dream and our nightmare. There will be no peace, no liberty, until

GETS HERE FROM NORFOLK

Pomilio Scout, Piloted by Lieut. Baldioli, Covers Distance in 2 Hours and 55 Minutes.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Oct. 22.—The capabilities of Italian aircraft were demonstrated today by the arrival of two Italian machines at the field of the Mineola aviation school after non-stop flights from Langley Field, near Norfolk, Va. The first was a Pomilio biplane scout, piloted by Lieutenant Alilio Baldioli, which made the 330 miles in two hours and fifty-five minutes. The second, a big Caproni biplane, was piloted by Captain Antonio Silvio Resnati, and carried eight passengers. It took him four hours and twenty-five minutes to make the trip, but he established an American record for long-distance flight with such a load. Both machines are resting in the hangars at the Mineola field tonight, and will fly over New York on Wednesday in connection with the Liberty Loan parade.

Captain Resnati was accompanied on his trip by both American and Italian officers, and reports of the experiment will be made to both Governments. Lieutenant James Erickson of the United States Army took photographs all along the route. Lieutenant Baldioli started at 10:50, with Captain L. B. Lent, U. S. A., as a passenger.

Shortly before 1 o'clock students and instructors who were flying about the Mineola field saw an airplane coming up from the south. Its size and type were easily distinguished by the officers on the ground, and word spread that the Pomilo machine was coming. In a few minutes Lieutenant Baldioli had brought his machine down on the field, and was surrounded by an eager group of students who were surprised to find that he seemed to be no older than themselves. He is only 22 years old, and Captain Resnati, though a veteran of hard fighting along the Isonzo, is only 24. Baldioli's machine has a 350 horse power engine, and is equipped with a machine gun platform and places for six 65-pound bombs. He flew at a height of about 12,000 feet nearly all the way, and had no trouble, though he found the weather quite cold.

About 4:35 o'clock Lieut. Col. V. La R. Rockwell, Commandant of the school, sighted the Caproni coming down from the northwest. It was at first thought that she had flown up the Hudson and around to the north of the city, but Captain Resnati said later that he had come north from Jamaica Bay, and then had circled around to the field. Ten instruction machines were in the air when the Italians flew over the field, and the smaller planes circled about and gathered in from all sides in greeting as the big Caproni swept around the field, then turned, and oblplaned down.

Colonel Rockwell was the first to shake hands with Resnati, and he was followed by other American aviation officers at the camp, and by General Emilio Guglielmotti, who is attached to the Italian aircraft mission here. The passengers were huddled together in the forward part of the machine, which was decorated with the Italian and American flags, and though crowded in closely were unable to converse during the trip on account of the roar of the motors. They carried on some small talk, however, by means of a pad of paper on which sentences were scribbled. Muffled in their heavy coats, the party did not feel the cold very much. They said the lowest temperature recorded was 34 degrees; but they had flown for the most part at an altitude of about 5,000 feet, rising to 11,300 when near Asbury Park and continuing at that height for some miles.

In the earlier part of the trip Resnati followed the coast line, but when he rose to a higher altitude at Asbury Park he cut out to sea a little and drove straight for Staten Island. Upon getting over the island he turned a little eastward again, crossed over Jamaica Bay, and came down to Mineola. The machine had a wing spread of 72 feet and was equipped with three Isotta motors of 150 horse power each. The average speed, however, was only a little over 75 miles an hour, while Lieutenant Baldini made an average of 112, and at times as high as 140.

Resnati's passengers were Captain A. W. Hill, C. A. C.; Lieutenant M. W. Pollock, who represented Brig. Gen. George A. Squier, head of the Army Aviation Service; Captain Carlo Cappi of the Italian Aviation Commission, who sat at the alternative controls ready to take charge if Resnati wearied; Lieutenant A. Tantoni, Corporals J. V. Angelo and Giovanni Basso, Francisco Calletti, mechanician, and Lieutenant Erickson, the American photographer. All of them said that they felt in tiptop condition.

SUGAR PROFITEERS FACE HOOVER CURB

SALES METHODS ASSAILED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Retailers in New York and other large cities who demanded exorbitant prices for sugar because of the temporary shortage or who refused to sell it unless customers make other purchases ranging from $1 to $2.50, were put in the "undesirable citizen" class today.

Many reports that such practices were being carried on, despite the appeals of Herbert C. Hoover, Food Administrator, that all co-operate in a patriotic effort to serve the nation, were discussed today at a conference which was attended by Mr. Hoover, John Mitchell, and other members of the New York State Food Commission.

The official figures showing the price at which retailers obtained their sugar supply were made public in order that the consumers might know just how large a margin was being charged by the retailer. Here they are:

Price from refiner, $8.35 a hundredweight, or 8.35 cents a pound.

Price as delivered by wholesaler in the retailer under regulation of Food Administration, (average,) $8.60 a hundredweight, or 8.6 cents a pound.

An expert of the Food Administration asserted that the consumer in New York should not be asked to pay more than 9 cents a pound, or at the outside 9.23 cents.

It was pointed out that in many instances retailers obtained their supplies direct from refiners as the American Sugar Refining Company and the Arbuckle Company, which meant that they paid 8.35 cents per pound.

Offenders' Supplies in Danger.

Large stores and small, which refuse to sell sugar to customers unless they make purchases of other commodities aggregating $1 or more are in danger of having their supplies cut off by the Food Administration. As far as could be learned tonight, the Government has not the legal power to prosecute because of such dealings, but attention was called to the fact that the same situation had been faced in England and that the British Government did not hesitate to obtain an addition to the Defense of the Realm act which put this line of business under the ban.

The Food Administration, however, has full power to place under license and thus absolutely regulate all intermediate branches of the industry between producer and consumer, as well as retail concerns, doing a business of $100,000 a year or more in twenty food staples named recently by President Wilson. It is entirely possible to regulate sugar distribution, so that only retail firms which show the proper spirit of co-operation shall be considered, or at least to arrange priority of delivery so that firms which do not "play the game" are considered at the tail end of the list.

Large firms in New York and other cities may be asked to take the lead in displaying show window placards bearing the price at which they sell sugar. This step has been prompted by reports that salesmen in some instances had sold at varying prices.

It is believed that if the big stores will lead the way in this movement and join a campaign to sell only a limited quantity to each customer, much can be accomplished. Efforts will be made also to induce firms to try to avoid making sales to "repeaters" who are said to be making a tour of many stores and buying the small allotments prescribed by each.

Representatives of the Food Administration said today that the sugar shortage could be handled without creating a famine if retailers and consumers would co-operate. Best sugar from the West, it was stated, would appear in the Eastern markets within a month or six weeks, and Cuban and other supplies by Dec. 15. There was no reason for hysteria, it was said, as under the most discouraging conditions American

SPURT IN SUBSCRIPTIONS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Property and money amounting to $200,000,000, or more, belonging to German subjects or owed to them by corporations and individuals in the United States will be seized and used to buy Liberty bonds with which to finance the war against Germany. Already preparations are under way by A. Mitchell Palmer, Custodian of Enemy Property, to employ this money Against Germany.

Mr. Palmer, who qualified today as custodian and opened offices at 920 F Street, will be the largest individual purchaser of Liberty bonds. All the money he obtains in his official capacity will go toward the purchase of the bonds.

Upon coming to Washington today to take up his important duties Mr. Palmer found hundreds of letters from corporations and others offering to turn over to him large amounts of money in the shape of dividends from German-owned corporations in the United States as well as amounts due in settlements of estates and bills owed German business houses by American houses.

Inasmuch as the moneys can be easily received and their status does not require any great amount of investigation by the Custodian they will be received without delay. Mr. Palmer will completely qualify tomorrow when he will file a bond as large as that required by the Government of the Secretary of the Treasury, $150,000.

Transcending in importance the collection of money is the confiscation by the custodian of metals and materials owned by German citizens here, among them cotton and other products that go into the making of war materials. These will exceed in value the amounts owed German citizens in cash. It is estimated unofficially that the value of cotton, copper, steel, and oil stored in the United States for German corporations will amount to $150,000,000, although no official tabulation has been made of them yet.

Palmer's First Step.

As soon as Mr. Palmer can organize a force he will begin seizing materials. The first step in this direction will be formal notice to all corporations to inform the custodian of the materials held by them, as well as money owed German citizens. Under the law sixty days is allowed for making the returns. Therefore probably three months will elapse before the vast stores of German supplies in the United States are confiscated and finally employed for uses by this Government.

It is expected that Mr. Palmer will soon confer with William J. Flynn, Chief of the Secret Service, and that the first confiscation of materials will be that of cotton, of which there are millions of bales in the United States paid for by German money.

Inasmuch as the custodian will not be able to collect within the next few days any large part of the millions owed German citizens, it is believed that several powerful banks will buy heavily of Liberty bonds, and that the custodian will purchase these from the banks from time to time as the money comes into his possession. It is not his intention to wait until all the money is received before employing it in this way.

The alien property custodian may, under the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act, invest all funds or money in Liberty bonds. The money collected by him will be held until the end of the war, and then dealt with as Congress directs. One of the novel and important features of this portion of the law is the requirement that all money and quick assets paid over to the Government shall be invested in United States bonds.

The President has directed that they shall be Liberty bonds. Such a course is in line with the modern and advanced policy of dealing with private property in time of war. By this means enemy property is temporarily conscripted by the Government to finance this war, and to be paid back to the enemy or otherwise disposed of at the end of the war, as Congress shall direct.

Marked Boom in Subscriptions.

Subscriptions to the second Liberty Loan today showed a marked increase, and unofficial estimates placed the total amount so far obtained at from $2,000,000,000 to $2,500,000,000. There are five more days of the campaign, and some officials expressed the belief that the maximum quota of $5,000,000,000 might be reached. It is conceded that the minimum quota will be passed.

There is no disposition in official circles to be over-optimistic, but optimism is in all of the twelve Federal reserve districts are being urged to put forward every effort. In the last days of the campaign to raise the first loan subscriptions were offered in great volume, and it is hoped that the American people will repeat this drive.

The largest subscriptions are expected on Wednesday, which has been set as Liberty Day by President Wilson. Most of the officials are confident that the $6,000,000,000 mark will then be passed. Preparations are being made to stage a national holiday. The Capron airplane which flew from Newport News to Miscola today will drop "bombs" over New York City tomorrow urging the population to join in making Liberty Day a success.

Treasury Department Estimates.

The Treasury Department's statement of the situation follows:

"Marked increases in subscriptions to the second Liberty Loan, but not of sufficient volume to warrant confidence that the desired $5,000,000,000 maximum quota will be achieved, resulted today from initial efforts in the big final six-day drive.

"Indications from increases shown by the latest official report of sales and such scattering unofficial estimates of today's business as trickled into the Treasury Department are that the $2,000,000,000 mark has been well passed and that possibly $2,250,000,000 has been subscribed.

"Optimism is being expressed by many that the Liberty Day and eleventh hour sales will carry the total across the maximum quota mark. It is considered unlikely by careful observers, however, that these two elements alone will result in the larger total. They may, it is conceded by some, give the subscriptions a big boost toward the $3,000,000,000 minimum quota, but nothing more roseate than that is predicted for them.

"New York reported tonight that its total unofficial sales were $715,000,000, and official sales up to the close of business tonight $576,171,950.

"Complaints against the backwardness of rural investors came again today from the Chicago and Atlanta districts, with the latter making the most disappointing reports on the situation. 'The Government for several years has been making special laws to help the farmers, and they have got to the point where they think the bankers and the other fellow should do it all,' Atlanta official reports complained. 'The farmers have the money this year, and they are the fellows that are doing nothing to help the Liberty bonds. It is a very serious situation.'

Bright Spots in Middle West.

"Some sections of Chicago's report on the Middle West were encouraging. Des Moines is within striking distance of its $7,700,000 quota; Detroit has attained its quota and is heading for $50,000,000; Central Indiana, which has been somewhat backward, has raised 50 per cent. of its allotment; the Chicago flying squadron has raised $26,000,000, equaling its total for the first loan campaign, and will try for $50,000,00. German-American and women's committees are doing good work. Most of the subscriptions still are small.

"Cleveland started in with a rush and rolled up several millions. Bombs were fired from the top of a high building whenever another million was attained. Lord Northcliffe spoke to a large crowd there tonight in behalf of the loan.

"Bad weather continues to retard progress in the Minneapolis district, but constant gains are reported. The district already has subscribed more than 60 per cent. of its minimum total, according to unofficial figures, and promises further good results.

"The two Saints, Louis and Paul, have on a Boy Scout contest as to which city's boys will raise the larger amount of subscriptions. The contest is the result of a challenge uttered by the Mayor of St. Paul to the St. Louis boys. The contest will close with the end of the Scout campaign on Thursday. Reports from New York tonight were that Scouts there had received applications for $500,000 worth of bonds.

"Arizona has been aroused to renewed activity by the ranking of the Antilles, and we hope to oversubscribe our allotment in a sum sufficient to buy an Antilles II.," Harry R. Tritle, Chairman of the Arizona Committee, wired today.

"One of the larger individual subscriptions reported today was for $75,000 from A. C. Gutzeit of Louisville, a native of Germany. Silverbow County, Mon., workers wired today that in five days they had oversubscribed their quota by $1,325,000 and still were going strong. Fond du Lac, Wis., merchants are accepting bonds in trade at 105. The Kansas City Committee declined to accept 3,000 automobiles offered for use in the Liberty Day parade. Everybody will walk."

was expected, but merely to serve to keep up the aggressive spirit of the troops.

"It is evident that the terrible punishment by allied artillery fire is beginning to have a very decided effect along the western front. Never before in any series of engagements have so many German divisions, after brief encounters, been withdrawn and replaced by fresh troops. Deserters from German ranks taken into the allied lines have become increasingly numerous.

Doubts Austrian Offensive Reports.

"Rumors of an impending Austrian offensive directed against Italy have been current during the last week. Reports of concentration of Austrian and German divisions to take part in this attack are noted.

"Any one familiar with the situation can at once determine that these rumors are exaggerated. Even should the season permit it, the concentration of the number of fresh enemy divisions, estimated as high as forty, could not, as a physical possibility, take place in the narrow Trentino valley, fed by a single railway system.

"However, it is possible that the Central Powers, fearing further Italian successes along the Isonzo front, have massed a considerable number of troops in an effort to check the Italian advance and, if possible, regain some of the terrain lost during recent engagements.

"An interesting summary of troop movements in the United States shows that since the present mobilization began 414,195 persons have been transported by the railroads for the War Department, of whom 256,815 were transported in standard, or tourist, sleepers, the remainder in ordinary day coaches. This vast movement has been conducted by the railroads of the country without a single serious accident, and the co-operation between the railroads and the department has been most cordial and effective."

RIGA EXPEDITION REACHES MAINLAND

OPENS PETROGRAD ROUTE

U-BOATS IN GULF OF FINLAND

More Than 20,000 Prisoners Taken in Conquest of Islands, Berlin Says.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 22.—The Germans have landed troops on the Werder Peninsula, at the northern end of the Gulf of Riga, the War Office announced today. By thus obtaining another footing on the mainland of Russia, the way is open for an advance toward Hapsal, twenty-five miles north of Werder, from which a railroad runs to the fortified city of Reval, now in process of evacuation, 200 miles southwest of Petrograd.

The War Office statement says the Germans pressed back the Russian advanced posts and occupied the western part of the Werder Peninsula. Russian patrols watching the Gulf of Riga saw large German naval forces, and also transports.

German submarines have been observed in the Gulf of Finland.

The War Office statement says:

On the northern front the enemy, executing a manoeuvre, retired to his main positions which had been previously prepared in the regions of Skuli and Lemburg. Our vanguards pursued the retiring enemy. Elsewhere, save in the region of Dellatichi, where our artillery dispersed Germans attempting to fraternize, there were only fusillades and scouting.

Baltic Sea.—There were no naval engagements. German submarines have been observed at the entrance to the Gulf of Finland. Our patrols watching in the Gulf of Riga have observed large enemy forces. Transports have also been seen.

On Sunday at 10 o'clock in the morning the Germans, after having bombarded from destroyers our detachments which defended the coast, began to land on Werder Peninsula, east of Moon Island. Simultaneously enemy barges with horses were observed at the entrance to Matzal Bay, eight miles north of Werder, proceeding to the coast. Two enemy infantry companies which landed on Werder Peninsula pressed back our advanced posts and occupied the western part of the peninsula.

A telegram received by the semi-official news agency says that Esthonians who have escaped from Oesel and Moon Islands, recently captured by the Germans, report that Russian prisoners are being loaded into boats by the Germans, who tell them: "We have nothing with which to feed you. Go away." As soon as the boats leave they are fired upon with machine guns.

Submarine Attacks German Fleet.

The Russian naval units which have succeeded in getting out of Moon Sound are protecting the northern entrance to the Sound, the Marine Department announces. In the operations in the Gulf of Riga a Russian submarine sank one German transport and is believed to have damaged, if not sunk, a German dreadnought, at which two torpedoes were fired.

The Marine Department's communication says:

Despite the difficult conditions and the enemy's measures to prevent our sortie Moon Sound, we succeeded, without loss and in perfect order, in evacuating not only the bulk of our military forces, but also the whole of the naval installation in Moon Sound, notably the transports and smaller craft.

We left the whole of the abandoned base and the adjoining region in a condition rendering it entirely unserviceable for military purposes. Our naval forces are protecting the north entrance of Moon Sound against fresh attacks.

During operations in the Gulf of Riga a British submarine attached to the Russian fleet met an enemy squadron consisting of four dreadnoughts of the Markgraf type, (vessels built in 1914 of 25,293 tons and carrying a complement of 1,150 men,) cruisers, and a large number of torpedo boats. It fired two torpedoes at the leading dreadnought, but being shelled by seaplanes and riddled with shot, was obliged to submerge without noting results. The detonation of a torpedo, however, was heard.

Proceeding some distance and then rising, clouds of smoke were seen through the periscope of the submarine. A large transport, escorted by torpedo boats, made for the submarine. The submarine returned to the attack and sank one of the transports with a torpedo.

Werder Peninsula is opposite Moon Island, which is separated from it by Moon Sound, three to five miles in width. The village of Werder, a telegraph station, is situated on the coast, and presumably is now in German hands. Berlin recently reported the silencing of the Werder batteries by German warships.

Germans Claim 2,000 Prisoners.

BERLIN, Oct. 22, (via London.)—More than 1,200 prisoners, a number of guns, and large stores were captured on Dagö Island, the War Office announces. In nine days, the statement says, Oesel, Moon, and Dagö Islands, the key positions of the Eastern Baltic, have been acquired.

More than 20,000 prisoners and 100 guns were taken in the capture of the three islands.

The statement adds that "fresh proof is thus furnished of the striking force of our army and navy. Their co-operation here also can be called exemplary."

LONDON, Oct. 22.—All important munition works have been removed from Petrograd, according to a dispatch to The Times from the Russian capital. Zeppelins, it adds, are attacking towns some distance from the German fighting front.

SAILORS DROP POLITICS.

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Thursday, Oct. 18, (via London, Oct. 22.—A representative of the Central Committee of the Baltic fleet, which spent the fortnight before the German attack in bickering with the Government, has just made to the committee a report on his visit to the fleet. He says the sailors have forgotten politics for the moment and are devoting all their energies to preparations for defense.

According to his statement the fleet, despite the numerical superiority of the enemy, has been displaying great heroism. The Russian ships had stood in the Irbe Channel and the appearance of the Germans off the north of Oesel Island was unexpected. The observer noted the bravery displayed in particular by the men of the destroyer Grom.

On Moon Island, which is connected with Oesel by a mole, there happened to be at the moment of the German attack only six sailors with a machine gun. The Germans made unsuccessful attempts to seize the mole. Finally forty Germans pushed their way through, but were annihilated by the six defenders.

The observer speaks of the unanimity of the fleet. All the sailors are eager for battle and sometimes it is necessary to restrain their impetuousity lest they should harm the fleet by rash action. The crews are eager to take the ships out and fight the enemy in the open sea.

Kronstadt is working hard dispatching men and stores.

This glowing account must be received with a certain degree of caution, but the German attack has assuredly had a bracing effect on the Baltic fleet.

HOT FIGHTING RESUMED IN MACEDONIAN HILLS

Berlin Announces Positions in the Skumbi Valley Won From the French.

BERLIN, Oct. 22, (via London.)—The War Office statement today says:

Macedonia.—In the Skumbi Valley our troops and allies wrested some hill positions from the French in an attack and held the positions against strong counterattacks. Along the Monastir-Resna Road repeated enemy attacks failed. The firing duel here and in the broad sectors on both banks of the Vardar was intense.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—In operations on the Macedonian front yesterday the French troops captured fifty Austrians. The official report says:

Our artillery has continued to shell the enemy positions in the region of Doiran, the Vardar, and north of Monastir. At certain points our patrols entered the enemy trenches and brought back material. In the course of operations carried out northwest of Pogradetz for the purpose of clearing the approaches to our new positions our troops captured fifty Austrian prisoners.

WARNING FROM DANIELS.

Congress of Surgeons Asked to Aid in Making a Cleaner Navy.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—If any American citizen had fears that America's war preparation did not contemplate real action in France next Spring the light shed upon the grim game of hospital organization at today's sessions of the Clinical Congress of Surgeons of North America was enough to convince him of his error.

One of the most striking features of the evening meeting in Orchestra Hall was a startling expose by Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, of the dangers of social diseases to the efficiency of the military organization. The Secretary appealed to the medical profession "to end the false double standard that decreases military effectiveness." The profession, he said, must share the blame for the "unpardonable prudery that endured a festering evil rather than have it exposed and eradicated."

"There is not an army in the field whose effectiveness is not reduced by reason of immoral disease," said Mr. Daniels. "The navy suffers likewise, and business halts because preventable diseases destroy the manhood of workmen and fighters. During the last statistical year men of the American Navy lost 141,378 days by sickness from a small group of absolutely preventable diseases—or, rather, diseases preventable by men. This means that every day throughout the year there were 456 men disabled by this disgraceful malady. Add to that number those required to care for the disabled, and we have enough men on the non-effective list each day to man a modern battleship. And this does not count those who, though diseased, were not disabled, or the evil of the loathing danger of contagion to the clean members of the crew.

"The remedy? There is but one—continence. It must be preached in the home, in the school, in the marts of trade, in the pulpit and military camps, and among shipmates afloat. You, gentlemen, of the medical profession, deal with life and death. It is to this power that America calls upon you to use. Tell our youths the truth. It is a duty laid upon you, not by the moral law alone, but by the law of self-preservation that operates in nations as well as individuals."

Discussing the measures taken for conserving human life on the battle fields, Surgeon General Gorgas said at the evening meeting:

"The life of every boy who falls upon the fields of France while fighting under the Stars and Stripes will be saved if medical science and human care can do it. Every known expedient is being provided to give our men the best care possible. Seven physicians and surgeons are being provided to every thousand men. The youngest and most virile of these men will go to France for field duty. There will be as well one bed to every five men listed for part in the grand slam at Schrecklichkeit.

"Don't let any one tell you that the Medical Reserve is full. Continue to enlist men. We plan on having 22,000. We have 14,000 now. The difference we want and will get, just as we wanted and have got the pick of the medical profession to establish the foundation of our work in France."

Twenty-five hundred surgeons had registered up to noon, and most of these, with friends and relatives, were at the evening meeting.

CALLS AMERICANS BEST FIGHTERS

"There was a moment when time was a doubtful and dangerous neutral, rather disposed to favor our foes. Two things have changed that. The first is the advent of America, whose resources and man-power are twice as considerable as Great Britain's. You have there the best fighting material in the world. We have good reason to know that, (laughter and cheers,)—ingenuity, resolution, and bravery. They are indeed a formidable people, and their mechanical resources are unequaled in the whole world. They are throwing the whole of their volcanic energy into preparing for the conflict. Time is on our side."

More than twice as many German submarines were lost in the first ten months of this year as in all of last year, the Premier asserted. The British tonnage lost monthly now is not much more than one-third of the total destroyed last April.

The Premier paid a high tribute to Sir Edward Carson, First Lord of the Admiralty, and said:

"One of the reasons why we have succeeded beyond expectations in destroying so many German submarines and protecting our merchantmen is due to the insight, courage, and persistency of Sir Edward Carson. I fear he will not be popular at Potsdam."

Mr. Lloyd George said that "Bolshism" in all its shapes and forms should be looked out for.

"Beware of people who try to sow dissension, distrust, and suspicion," he said. "The enemy is trying to rattle our nerves. Keep steady and we will win."

The Premier said that Germany had laughed at the war declarations of China and Guatemala, but declarations such as this meant that most of the world's foods and raw materials were under the flags of Germany's enemies, which could reduce Germany to impotence and desolation.

"I feel," he added, "that these countries will use their resources to the utmost before they accept any terms but those making a renewal of this savagery impossible."

In conclusion the Premier said:

"The decisions of the coming allied conference will affect the whole course of the war and may determine its ultimate issue. We must be prepared to support and enforce those decisions with all our strength and power."

Chancellor Bonar Law, referring to aid raids, said it was impossible to prevent them, but Great Britain would make them as costly as possible. He added:

"Germany has carried out a kind of aerial warfare which is detestable. We would avoid it if we could, but the enemy is determined upon it. So be it. Our enemies will find that what they gave us will be returned to them in full measure, pressed down, and running over."

Mr. Bonar Law asserted that for many months the British air service has had priority over every other in military supply. During the last month at the front the British had dropped 8,600 bombs behind the German lines, and the Germans had dropped only about 1,000 behind the British lines.

"In one month," he said, "our airmen in Flanders did damage to the enemy far exceeding all the damage they have done to us in all their raids."

The Chancellor said the British armies were doing well. They were slowly but remorselessly going forward in Flanders, and the result was a mathematical certainty. The true battle front in the war, he added, was in the soul of the nation.

"I predict that you will be a very different people after this war," Bonar Law continued. "You are learning your lesson and standing your test."

Concluding, the Chancellor said:

"I can see no road to peace but in victory. It will come quickly when our enemies realize that the longer the war lasts the worse it will be for them."

WON'T ADD TO PEACE REPLY.

British Acknowledgment to Pope Stands, Says Balfour.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Replying to questions in the House of Commons today, A. J. Balfour, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said:

"There seems to be no reason at present for adding anything to the acknowledgment already sent by the British Government to the Pope's peace proposals."

Prevented at Pistol's Point—Victorious French Aviator Showed Great Pluck.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, Oct. 22.—The crews of the super-Zeppelins L 49 and L 50 have been interrogated and their replies confirm the supposition that they made up part of a single expedition against England. These two airships each measured 644 feet in length and 215,765 cubic feet in volume.

The pirate fleet numbered twelve, which left their stations separately. The prisoners say that when they reached the English coast they were much bothered by anti-aircraft guns, and even more by searchlights. They quickly dropped nearly all their bombs, and then rose to a height of three miles where they were caught in a strong northwest wind.

From the beginning of their return they seem to have been lost. The cold was extreme, the alternators did not work, and the pilots could not take their bearings. The men were frostbitten, despite their warm clothing, and the motors froze at dawn. One of the Captains thought he was over Holland or Westphalia, and it was only shortly before the end that French soil was recognized.

By The Associated Press.

BOURBONNE-LES-BAINS, France, Sunday, Oct. 21, (via London, Oct. 22.)—The Zeppelin L-49, which came down at Bourbonne-Les-Bains was inspected today by The Associated Press correspondent, and was found intact, as were also the machinery and instruments. An opportunity was given to some American officers to inspect the craft with French flying men.

When the commander, who with the crew remained under guard of French soldiers today, saw that it was impossible to save his ship he destroyed the wireless apparatus and tried to destroy the airship by firing his pistol at it.

The whole body of the Zeppelin is painted black except the top, which is silvered. There is a small German cross on each side amidships. The German naval ensign was floated.

The German airmen seem surprised to see the Americans who had an opportunity to talk with some of them, and also with the Zeppelin commander, a slight blonde Lieutenant, speaking excellent English.

A young French aviator told how he flew in pursuit of the Zeppelin to such an altitude that his cheeks froze, and how he succeeded finally in forcing the craft down with his machine gun. When he saw that it was bound to land, he dived to the earth. Other French aviators landed near.

At the point of a pistol the Germans were prevented from damaging the craft and were made prisoners.

COMMONS HAS FLURRY OVER ZEPPELIN RAID

Bonar Law's Blunt Refusal to Reveal Defense Plans—Nips Project to Force Adjournment.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—An attempt to move the adjournment of the House of Commons tonight during a debate on Friday's air raid came to naught. Speeches were made by Sir Francis Lowe, John Dillon, and W. Joynson Hicks, in which complaint was offered of the impunity with which Zeppelins were able to penetrate Central England and got away unharmed, and assertion was made that only the fog prevented a serious disaster.

J. Austen Chamberlain, Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and others depreciated the discussion. Bonar Law said he had no intention of giving any information as to the extent of the attacks on the Zeppelins. One thing Germany was anxious to know, he said, was what were the methods of defense against their attacks.

"If the Germans ever smiled at our way of conducting the war," said Bonar Law, "they would have a happy time over the British Parliament stopping its business to make this fuss over the greatest air defeat Germany ever suffered. It was not that the mist saved London, but that it saved the Zeppelins.

"Searchlights and guns would only have revealed London to the intruders. The same weather conditions which made it impossible to attack the Zeppelins properly was the real cause that they were lost and were brought down in France."

After this statement the motion for adjournment was withdrawn.

Previous to this flurry Sir George Cave, Home Secretary, said that the raid appeared to have been carried out by ten or more Zeppelins. Of these five failed to reach their objective, leaving the country without causing material damage. Of five which came near London four failed to penetrate the defenses. One drifted over London with her engines cut off, dropping three bombs.

British airplanes went up, but the atmospheric conditions were unfavorable for attack, and they were unable to bring the raiders into action.

The Secretary said the greatest credit was due to the French, but added that in justice to the British anti-aircraft service it should as remembered that when the Zeppelins were over France they were flying by daylight and at a lower altitude than that at which they kept while over England. The Government had already announced its intention of bombing German towns until an end was put to such cold-blooded attempts by the Germans on the civil population of this country. Two such attacks had already been made, and the House could rest assured that the process would be continued until this purpose was attained.

Sir George added that a naval inquiry would be held over the Germans' successful attack on a North Sea convoy wherein two British destroyers were sunk. He refused to entertain a suggestion that an inquiry be made outside of the Admiralty.

38,000,000 MEN NOW BEARING ARMS IN WAR

27,500,000 of This Number Are on the Side of the Allies, According to War Dept. Figures.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—At least 38,000,000 men are bearing arms in the war—27,500,000 on the side of the allies and 10,600,000 on the side of the Central Powers, according to latest War Department computations from published reports in various countries. These figures do not include naval personnel strength, which would raise the total several millions.

Against Germany's 7,000,000, Austria's 3,000,000, Turkey's 300,000 and Bulgaria's 300,000 are arrayed the following armed forces: Russia, 9,000,000; France, 6,000,000; Great Britain, 5,000,000; Italy, 3,000,000; Japan, 1,400,000; United States, more than 1,000,000; China, 541,000; Rumania, 320,000; Serbia, 300,000; Belgium, 300,000; Greece, 300,000; Portugal, 200,000; Montenegro, 40,000; Siam, 36,000; Cuba, 11,000, and Liberia, 400.

Military experts do not regard these figures as entirely accurate but believe they represent in round numbers the comparative strengths of the contending armies as published recently. The War Department has many confidential reports on the forces of the Allies and considerable data concerning enemy armies, but this information is not made public for military reasons.

Germany and Austria have made every effort to conceal the precise numbers of their armies, but careful estimates of Allied military intelligence departments have placed the total at about 10,000,000 with Germany's force more than double Austria's.

PUSH CAMP LOAN CAMPAIGN.

Plattsburg Total to Date $950,000—Gov. Whitman to Speak Tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Oct. 22.—The New York infantry students at the training camp went on the range again today, shooting at 100 yards, rapid fire, with silhouette target, each shot counting five or a miss. Good results were obtained.

Rumors that the camp would close early on account of cold weather instead of continuing to the end of November, as scheduled, were denied today by Commander Wolf.

The camp Liberty Loan campaign is being pushed. It is expected that by Wednesday evening nearly all the men will be subscribers. Governor Whitman is scheduled to speak at a big meeting Wednesday evening. Senator Calder will speak in the Liberty Loan campaign in the city Wednesday morning.

RAILWAY STATIONS BOMBED

Big Explosion Caused Near Saarbrucken—Two Airplanes Hit Before They Could Rise.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Six German airplanes were brought down yesterday by British naval airmen, says a statement from the Admiralty today.

An official report on army airplane operations on Saturday and Sunday says that British aviators carried out raids on German aerodromes in Belgium and on important objectives in German territory near Saarbrücken, northwest of Metz.

Nine German airplanes were shot down in these operations, and four others forced to descend out of control. The British lost three machines.

The text of the Admiralty statement follows:

At about noon yesterday raids were made by naval aircraft on the Vlisseghem and Houttave aerodromes. The bombs appeared to burst accurately. Both during the raids and on their return our bombing machines were attacked by enemy aircraft, two of which were shot down completely out of control. Our bombers returned safely.

During offensive and reconnoissance patrols five of our scouts engaged about twenty hostile scouts, two of the latter being destroyed and two driven down completely out of control. One of our pilots is missing.

Following is the text of the report on the army aviators' raids:

A further attack into Germany was carried out by our airplanes this afternoon. A foundry and railway junction ten miles northwest of Saarbrucken were bombed with over a ton of bombs. Bursts were seen on the foundry and the station, where a big explosion occurred. Many hostile scouts attacked the bombing squadron over the objectives, and four were driven down out of control. All our machines returned safely except one.

Saturday we carried out bombing operations vigorously. A total of 238 bombs were dropped on the enemy's aerodromes at Goinrode and Roulers, on the Cortemarck Station and on hostile billets and hutments. One aerodrome at Roulers was bombed from a low height. One bomb was seen to hit and blow to pieces a German machine on the ground, while another fell through the centre of a hangar. The enemy's personnel and machines on the ground then were attacked with machine gun fire from our airplanes. During this bombing attack our scouts operating in the neighborhood brought down seven German machines, which crashed in full view of their aerodrome.

At night the enemy's aerodromes were again attacked. A ton of bombs was dropped on the Ingelmunster aerodrome and railway station and on the aerodrome at Courtrai. At one of these a direct hit was obtained upon a hostile machine endeavoring to leave the ground.

In the course of the day a total of nine German machines were downed, and four others were driven down out of control. Three of our machines are missing.

French Down 20 in 12 Days.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—The official report issued tonight contains the following record of French aviation operations:

"A German airplane was brought down today in an aerial engagement, and six others were forced to land in a damaged condition inside their own lines. In the period of Oct. 11-20 nineteen airplanes and three captive balloons belonging to the enemy were brought down by our pilots or by the fire of our aerial guns. In addition, twenty-eight machines were seriously damaged.

BERLIN, Oct. 22, (via London.)—"Twelve enemy airplanes and one captive balloon were brought down yesterday," says the report from Army Headquarters.

Raiders, Straggling on Return Trip, Violated Neutrality.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROTTERDAM, Oct. 22, (Dispatch to The London Daily Telegraph.)—Movements of Zeppelins observed from the Dutch coast during the early hours of yesterday supplemented evidence from France as to the complete breaking up of the squadron which raided England.

On their westward journey all the airships could be seen in organized formation. Eight passed in regular order escorted by seaplanes.

Very different was the return journey. From various places come reports of three Zeppelins, each on its own course but all hopelessly out of their bearings and apparently depending on guesswork to make their return to Germany. Two violated the neutrality of Holland and both were fired upon by the Dutch defenders.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Germany has sent about fifty Turkish and Bulgarian aviators to Ostend for active service in the German Aircraft Corps, according to advices which have reached Washington from Switzerland through a diplomatic channel. These flyers have had a course of training in flying schools in Germany.

As Ostend is to be their base of operations, it is expected that they will be utilized with the German forces in the Flanders campaign and in future air raids over England.

KAISER HAILS SUCCESS OF GERMAN WAR LOAN

Praises People for Their Sacrifice "to the Happy Advantage of Our Peace."

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 22.—Emperor William has sent to Count von Roedern, the German Finance Minister, a telegram of congratulation on the seventh war loan. It says:

"I am pleased highly at the splendid result of the subscriptions to the seventh war loan, and I express to all concerned hearty thanks and congratulations for the successful work. Full of vigor and with a fixed aim before the eyes of the world, the whole German people stands in the fourth year of the war at the side of its heroic sons in the field and behind the Imperial Government and the army command, ready for sacrifices of blood and treasure until the honor and freedom of the Fatherland is assured against the assault of its enemies in superior force.

"May God bless all for their fidelity and self-sacrifice to the happy advantage of our peace."

consumers would not be called on to reduce their consumption to anything like the ration which has been adopted in England, France or Italy.

New York Situation Discussed.

The entire food situation in New York State and New York City was taken up at the conference which Mr. Hoover and his aids held with the members of the New York State Food Commission. A statement was issued as follows:

"The conference considered at length ways and means by which New York State could do her full share toward increasing the nation's exports in foodstuffs to help win the war and at the same time protect our own working people who are now suffering from the high cost of the necessities of life.

"It is hoped that the work of these organizations may result in the near future in the standardizing of prices, eliminating speculation and hoarding, and in the case of the more vital commodities, especially milk and bread, actually reducing the price to the consumer.

"The conclusion was reached that by the elimination of some of the wasteful and uneconomical practices in the handling and distribution of milk a substantial saving to the consumer can be effected."

The conference resulted in an agreement for complete co-operation between the New York State Commission and the Food Administration. A careful investigation of all conditions involved in the food problem in New York State will be made, and further conferences will be held at frequent intervals.

There was no definite information given as to the immediate steps which would be taken to lower prices of milk, bread and other commodities, but it is understood that a campaign will be started at once to educate the public in economy methods such as the "pay and carry" system advocated by the Federal Food Administration and other means of reducing the overhead charges of retailers.

It is probable that the new standard loaf of bread to be prepared from a formula obtained by the Food Administration experts after exhaustive experiments will get a thorough trial under the direction of the New York Commissioner, and that such trials will be made also in an effort to obtain an actual decrease in bread prices. The manufacture of fancy loaves and rolls will be discouraged.

Coal Supply for Farm.

The conference discussed the problem of the farmer with respect to labor and coal. A discussion was also held with Dr. H. A. Garfield, the Fuel Administrator, in regard to the scarcity of coal for farm operations. He promised, it is said, to see as far as possible that the State Fuel Administrator took care of the farmers' wants.

CONFERENCE HERE TODAY.

Officials to Discuss Distribution and a Check on Profiteers.

Henry Moskowits, Commissioner of Markets, announced yesterday that a conference on the sugar situation would be held at the office of the Refiners' Committee of the National Food Administration, 111 Wall Street, this morning at 10 o'clock. The Commissioner, members of the Food Administration, and representatives of the refiners, wholesalers and retailers will consider an equitable system of distribution and a plan to put some check on deliveries so that the extortioners can be deprived of their supplies. The meeting will also discuss what can be done to bring sugar from the West.

Commissioner Moskowitz, after conferences with retailers and wholesalers, said that the shortage would last about five or six weeks.

"Temporary relief is possible," he explained, "by obtaining through the aid of the Federal Food Administration some supply of sugar from the West. This the Refiners' Committee is attempting to do."

James H. Post, Chairman of the Refiners' Committee, and B. A. Oxnard, President of the Savannah Sugar Refinery, who is in New York, emphasized the need of economy in sugar. Owing to the impossibility of obtaining raw sugar, the Savannah refinery has been shut down temporarily. Mr. Oxnard said several refineries in the North had shut down and others no doubt would follow their example.

MITCHEL WILL GIVE NO REST TO HYLAN

Promises to 'Pillory Him Day After Day' While Questions Are Unanswered.

SAYS 'CUNNING' WON'T AVAIL

Declares Steam Roller's Day in City Politics Has Passed—Submits Record to Independents.

Mayor Mitchel in a statement yesterday again called upon Judge John F. Hylan, the Tammany Mayoralty candidate, to answer the questions the Mayor put to him concerning his past business and professional record. The Mayor said he had cited specific and definite instances " in which Judge Hylan has proved his unfitness for the office of Mayor," and that he would continue asking questions of Judge Hylan until the election.

"Let me say right now to Judge Hylan and to Mr. Murphy," said the Mayor, "that until Mr. Murphy's candidate comes out in the open, like a man and submits himself to my questions and the questions of his audience I shall pillory him day after day as the sort of man his past actions and his present silence prove him to be."

Recalling some of the questions he had put to Judge Hylan and Mr. Murphy, the Mayor continued:

"No doubt Mr. Murphy and Judge Hylan believe themselves extremely cunning in refusing to come out in the open, where the public can secure an impartial view of the man whom Mr. Murphy wants to make Mayor, but unless I greatly mistake the temper of this community, which is cunning will result in Judge Hylan's deserved defeat.

"The day of the steam roller has passed forever from New York City politics. No little group of professional politicians can control the actions of 5,000,000 people, and the great mass of honest and independent minded voters in this town are now silently weighing and judging the men who ask to be intrusted with the vast powers of government.

"They are not interested in Mr. Murphy's desire for power, except to frustrate it.

"They are not concerned with Hylan's cunning, except to make sure that this cunning shall not be exercised at the city's expense; and nothing that I can say concerning administration will have weight with them, unless they are satisfied with the manner in which public affairs have been transacted in this city during the last four years.

"To that great body of independents I am content to submit the record of my administration and abide by their judgment.

"If this were a community of slaves and illiterates," the Mayor said in conclusion, "the campaign of silence and deception of Judge Hylan and Mr. Murphy are waging might prove successful.

"If Mr. Murphy's orders were obeyed in every household, and if the voter could not learn of Judge Hylan's past, Mr. Murphy's figurehead might be the next Mayor. But the people of New York, who think and act for themselves, are too intelligent and too self-respecting to entrust their government to Judge Hylan.

"The man whom Mr. Murphy cannot control are too great in number to be beaten down by Mr. Murphy's steam roller."

NO TANGOIST, MAYOR SAYS.

Methodist Ministers Applaud Him—Tells of Excise Enforcement.

Speaking before the Association of Methodist Episcopal Ministers of New York at a meeting yesterday in the assembly room of the Methodist Book Concern, 150 Fifth Avenue, Mayor Mitchel told of the difficulties his administration had to overcome in order to enforce the excise law. Incidentally the Mayor assured the ministers that he had never danced the tango because he thought the steps too intricate to master at his time of life.

"I enjoy dancing because of the exercise it provides," said the Mayor, "but I must confess that the lure of the tango never attracted me. Mr. Hearst says I dance every night. Probably he thinks so because every time I do dance I find him among those present."

This refutation on the Mayor's part that he has spent much of his time at tango teas greatly pleased the ministers and there was prolonged applause. His refutation came after he had finished an adress in which he had outlined the good work accomplished by the administration and had invited questions. The first question had to do with his alleged tango record. Having acquitted himself on this score the Mayor was then asked to explain his presence at a dinner given by ex-Senator Reynolds which is said to have cost $150 a plate. The Mayor said he thought the question bordered on the frivolous, but he did not deny that he had been a guest at the dinner.

"I was invited by Senator Reynolds," he explained, "because he wished me to meet a number of mining men from the West. If the service cost $150 a plate, all I can say is that my host was robbed and that the dinner could have been duplicated anywhere at $15 a plate at the most. The expensive gift which you have heard was presented to Senator Reynolds consisted of a first-class suit-case containing some garments for the use of a gentleman about to retire for the night."

MITCHEL TO HILLQUIT'S AID.

Protests Against Socialist Candidate's Exclusion from Camp Upton.

Mayor Mitchel sent a letter to Gen. Franklin Bell, Commander of Camp Upton at Yaphank, L. I., yesterday protesting against the exclusion of Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor, from the privilege of addressing political meetings at the camp. He wrote:

"I am in receipt of a letter from James J. Bagley, Chairman of the Hillquit Non-Partisan League, protesting against the exclusion of Mr. Hillquit from the privilege accorded to all the other candidates of addressing political meetings at Camp Upton. Every one knows how completely I disagree with Mr. Hillquit and how utterly I abhor the un-American and unpatriotic doctrine that he preaches. It does seem to me, however, that it only fair that every candidate should be accorded the privileges extended to any.

"If Mr. Hillquit's doctrine is treasonable, it is violative of statute law, and he should be dealt with thereunder. If it is not treasonable, but is merely abhorrent to decent self-respecting and patriotic Americans, it surely will only have the effect of intensifying the fervor of the splendid young men who are gathered at Camp Upton as a part of the new national army."

MORGENTHAU FIGURES MAYOR A SURE WINNER

Estimates His Plurality at 40,000—Politicians Recall Murphy's McCall Forecast.

Henry Morgenthau, ex-Ambassador to Turkey, declared at Fusion headquarters at the Hotel Manhattan yesterday that Mayor Mitchel's re-election was a certainty. Mr. Morgenthau figured his plurality at about 40,000.

"Mayor Mitchel cannot be defeated," he declared. "I am not making this statement because it is my hope, but it is an absolute mathematical certainty. I was misquoted in the morning newspapers regarding what I said at Pacific Hall last night. I said the election was between Mitchel and Hylan, not between Hillquit and Hylan. Now to the figures. One-fifth of the population of the Greater City are Jews, but the vote cast by the Jews will be only one-sixth of that number. Say there will be 670,000 votes cast, or 112,000 Jewish votes. Of that number at least 50,000 will go to Hylan, Bennett, and Mitchel, leaving 62,000 for Hillquit. Of that 62,000, about 20,000 is the ordinary Jewish Socialist vote.

"Add to that number 25,000 strict pacifists who, no matter what argument will be brought forward during the next two weeks, will go to Hillquit. Then I give 18,000 to Hillquit from men whose motives cannot be explained. Then there are 15,000 more normal Socialist votes. This gives Hillquit a total of 120,000.

"Mr. Bennett no doubt will be fourth in the race. A vote for Bennett will not only be thrown away but will act as an aid to Hylan. I doubt that more than 50,000 will throw their votes away by voting for Bennett. The extreme Bennett figure is 60,000, but it is more likely to be 50,000.

"Now we will give Hylan the straight Tammany vote of 234,000 which McCall received four years ago. That is the strictly tiger organization, and I am very conservative when I say that at least 25,000 of these will go to Hillquit; certainly Hillquit is going to get at least a big part of his strength from Tammany, and this will leave 200,000 votes for Hylan. To be liberal, we will say that 20,000 discontented Mitchelites are going to vote for Hylan, which will give Hylan about 220,000. This leaves at least 290,000 votes for Mitchel. In my opinion, the moment the people feel confident that there is no chance for Hillquit, they also will refuse to throw away their votes, and will vote for Mitchel. Ninety-five per cent. of the independent people who are thinking of voting for Bennett and Hillquit think of Mitchel as their second choice.

"If we can organize a vigilance committee to show that the city can be saved from the onslaughts of the irresponsible, many people will consider it their duty to join. I am ready to take the chairmanship of such a committee, and I know many more business men who are ready to join. These men will willingly give eight or ten hours a day to guard the city and not let it be carried by the enemies of the Government."

Politicians who read the foregoing in the forecast furnished at headquarters of the Democratic Fusion Committee, giving the election to Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany's candidate, by a plurality of more than 175,000, recalled the estimate Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy gave on the eve of the defeat four years ago of another Tammany candidate, Judge Edward E. McCall.

It was "dough day" at the Wigwam when the district leaders went down to the Hall and left a sealed envelope containing an estimate of the vote in their districts on Mr. Murphy's desk and then came away carrying bundles of currency for their Election Day expenses. Mr. Murphy had received the envelopes and dismissed the leaders. Then he said to the reporters:

"My estimate is the same I made the other day. At that time I said we would win by 150,000. I see no reason to change the estimate now."

When we can say that you predict that Mr. McCall will be elected by 150,000 and that the entire Tammany ticket will win?" was asked.

"Yes, you can say that and put my name to it," said Mr. Murphy, with a grin.

This was on the Saturday before election. The returns showed Mr. Mitchel the victor by 113,227.

Mayor Mitchel led yesterday in the first day of a straw ballot taken by Columbia University by the student daily newspaper, The Spectator. The vote was: Mitchel, 341; Hillquitt, 250; Bennett, 49, and Hylan, 47. The vote will be taken every day this week, and the final result will be announced on Saturday. Hillquitt received most of his votes among the women of Barnard and Teachers Colleges and in the Columbia School of Journalism.

MAYOR DEFIES HYLAN TO CUT THE BUDGET

But He Warns Tammanys' Candidate That It Must Be Done Within Nine Days.

Speaking at four crowded, enthusiastic meetings in Brooklyn last night, Mayor Mitchel took up the twenty-nine-million-dollar increase in this year's budget over last year's. In doing so he challenged Judge Hylan to point to a single item which might be cut out.

"Judge Hylan and Mr. Murphy and Mr. Murphy's henchmen," said the Mayor, "no matter what statements I make, will go about repeating what is false in regard to the expenditures on this budget. Well, let them. Let Judge Hylan tell where it may be cut down. Let him make his announcement publicly and specifically within the next nine days, for then it will avail you somewhat. Otherwise the budget will be adopted."

The Mayor explained the general increase by the rising prices due to the war. He told of the saving in the Department of Water Supply, the Department of Bridges, and the Department of Docks. At the Prospect Hall meeting the Mayor laid the blame for the school riots and general disorder in the schools at the door of Tammany interference with pupils and teachers.

"Never have the schools," he said, "been dragged so deep in the mire of partisan politics as when those riots were organized."

and has circulated an appeal among real estate men which reads in part:

"We, the undersigned real estate men, Democrats and Republicans, believing that New York City is the heart of America at war, and knowing that the present city administration is honest, efficient, and absolutely loyal to the United States, earnestly ask you to 'bury politics in patriotism' and vote Mayor Mitchel back to office."

Insurance Men for Mitchel.

The Insurance Committee has attracted representatives from the majority of insurance companies, among the members being Darwin P. Kingsley, President of the New York Life Insurance Company; George T. Wilson, Vice President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society; Major A. White, President of the City of New York Life Insurance Company; Robert J. Rilley, President of the Fidelity and Casualty Company, and Walter Statler, controller of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. More than 100 members compose the Grocery and Food Specialties Committee, including representatives from the wholesale and retail branch of that line. The engineers and builders are also represented by a committee.

TAMMANY PLAN TO COST 2 BILLIONS

W. B. Ellison Estimates the Expenditure Necessary to Acquire Public Utilities.

NEARLY TWICE CITY'S DEBT

Says Damage Awards Would Raise the Cost of Many Properties Taken by Condemnation.

According to ex-Corporation Counsel William Bruce Ellison, it would cost the City of New York from $1,600,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 to acquire for municipal ownership and operation all the public utilities in the city—a project to which Tammany Hall stands committed through declarations in its platform and promises made on the stump by Judge John F. Hylan, its candidate for Mayor.

The Tammany platform declares: "Specifically we are in favor of public ownership and operation of all public utilities, including traction, gas, electric light and power, and the telephone." The speech read by Judge Hylan at all his meetings last night contained this flat declaration: "We must take over the great public utility properties of this city which the people support and which in the past have been a source of immense profit to a small group of individuals."

"In the light of such positive platform pledges and such unequivocal declarations by the candidate, it might be well to consider, in the first place, that the net bonded indebtedness of the City of New York on June 30 this year was $1,054,907,915.20," said Mr. Ellison last night.

Companies Which Would Be Taken.

Mr. Ellison classified the companies whose property and good-will the city would be compelled to take over in order to make good the promises in the Democratic platform and Judge Hylan's speeches as follows:

Gas corporations	17
Electric corporations	10
Electric subway companies	2
Gas and electric corporations	3
Water companies	7
Street railway, in my opinion, the moment the people feel confident that there is no chance for Hillquit, they also will refuse to throw away their votes, and will vote for Mitchel. Ninety-five per cent. of the	50
Electric supply and railway companies	1
Rapid Transit companies	5
Steam and electric railroads	21
Telephone companies	1
Wire companies	16
Steam and refrigerating companies	7

It would cost the city, according to the estimate made by Mr. Ellison, at least $840,000,000 to acquire the physical property of the chief local utilities, alone, excluding companies which do a large business outside of the city. Here are his estimates:

Gas property	$150,000,000
Electric railways	10,000,000
Water works	6,500,000
Street railways	180,000,000
Elevated roads and subways, (company's interest only)	361,000,000
Steam and refrigerating plants	2,500,000

"The estimate for elevated roads and subways includes only the property actually belonging to the private companies and the investment which they are making in city-owned lines," said Mr. Ellison. "It does not include any of the property or the contributions by the city.

"An estimate of the cost of the property of the railroad, telephone, telegraph, and other wire companies which perform more or less local business is much more uncertain. It is probable that the cost of their property within the City of New York, without any allowance for severance damages, would exceed $350,000,000.

"If these estimates are correct, the cost of acquiring the property of all public utilities in Greater New York would be at least $1,190,000,000—more than the present bonded debt of New York; if all were acquired the debt would be doubled. These estimates are based on the present wage scales for material and labor, but upon average prices prior to the war. If the appraisal were based upon present war prices, the cost of the physical property alone would doubtless exceed $1,250,000,000 for local utilities and $1,800,000,000 for all public utility properties within the city.

"These estimates are not based upon earning power of the property or upon the assumption that the city would be obliged to pay for franchises; they are merely appraisals of the physical property without regard to earnings or franchises.

Condemnation Would Increase Cost.

"Most of the franchises are perpetual, and, with few exceptions, the only way the city could acquire the properties would be by agreement or through condemnation proceedings. The city does not now have general power to condemn public utilities, but the Legislature could give it this power. It is doubtful, to say the least, whether the State would give the city power to acquire the terminals of transcontinental systems. However, assuming that the power were granted, the price paid by the city in condemnation proceedings would greatly exceed the cost of the physical property. This might not be true in every case, but in certain cases —especially where subways and elevated roads are concerned—the additional cost would be extremely large. Just what the total increase would be cannot be fixed with any degree of definiteness, but probably it would not be less than 30 per cent. This would increase the cost of local utilities to $1,100,000,000.

"In the case of railroads, telephones, and telegraph systems there would be severance damages to consider in addition to perpetual franchises. These would doubtless raise the cost of these properties to $500,000,000. Upon this basis, the total cost would be $1,600,000,000. Probably the total, with all considerations in mind, would run from $1,600,000,000 to $2,000,000,000."

RUSH GAINS 465 VOTES.

Recount of Nine Districts Completed in Contest with McAvoy.

The recount of the vote in the Democratic Judicial Primary between Judge John V. McAvoy and Thomas E. Rush was continued yesterday at the Board of Elections, and three Assembly districts were completed—the Sixteenth, Seventeenth, and Eighteenth. They showed a net gain for Mr. Rush of 465 votes. In addition 726 votes, according to Mr. Rush, were credited illegally to Judge McAvoy.

"This completes," said Mr. Rush last night, "the examination in nine Assembly districts, the result of which shows that Judge McAvoy has already lost 1,914 votes, and that in addition thereto he was and still is illegally credited with 1,924 votes, including 995 ballots showing erasures and 929 protested ballots which should have been marked for identification. If this rate continues throughout the examination in the rest of the judicial district, the result will show that I am entitled to the certificate of nomination by a very substantial majority."

Herbert R. Limburg, counsel for Judge McAvoy, said: "The statements issued by Mr. Rush regarding the results of the examination are 'bunk,' pure and simple, and intended to mislead the public. Irregularities and frauds in the Democratic primaries did not occur in more than 1 per cent. of the districts at the most. Where they did occur it was frequently in the interest of Mr. Rush. The alleged gain of Mr. Rush's 1,000 votes in one Assembly district, which was headlined yesterday, is not claimed to be based on any inaccuracy or fraud, but is due to a mistake of tabulation by clerks in the office of the Board of Election."

EJECT HYLAN'S HECKLER.

Tammany Candidates Speak at Five Brooklyn Meetings.

Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany candidate for Mayor, again shifted his political battle ground to Brooklyn last night, appearing before two large and three smaller gatherings. All but one of the halls in which he argued for his election and denounced the Mitchel administration were crowded to capacity.

The candidate took for his principal theme the four indictments returned by the New York County Grand Jury charging William H. Reynolds and others with conspiring to defraud the city.

While speaking in Arcadia Hall, 918 Halsey Street, Judge Hylan was interrupted by a well-dressed middle-aged man, who arose and asked: "Judge Hylan, may I ask you just one question?"

The candidate ignored the questioner, continuing to read his manuscript until a chorus of shouted demands that the man be put out drowned out his voice. A group of stalwart individuals closed about the interrupter and propelled him toward the door. Many persons had climbed on the chairs to see, and the Judge himself looked on, smiling broadly as the man disappeared beyond the doors.

Mr. Hylan called Mayor Mitchel "a petulant young man," whose "attempt to dishonor the flag" had met from the people "the scorn and disdain it deserved," and repeated much that he has said before about "the Rockefeller group and their allies, banded together to control the city."

The other meetings, at all of which he read the same speech, were in Eckford Hall, Collyer and Eckford Streets; Congress Hall, 2,692 Atlantic Avenue; Clark's Hall, Bedford and De Kalb Avenues, and Public School 84, Watkins Street and Glenmore Avenue.

SULZER CHALLENGES HYLAN

Says Murphy Will Rule if Tammany Candidate Wins.

In telling why he supported Mayor Mitchel in his campaign for re-election ex-Governor William Sulzer yesterday challenged John F. Hylan to tell the names of the men he had chosen, in case he was elected, as heads of city departments, and he asserted that he knew from his experience as Governor that Murphy would not tolerate an independent Administration. He said that the issue in the election was between Mitchel and Murphy, and that if Hylan were elected Murphy would rule the city. Mr. Sulzer spoke before an audience of 500 at the Harlem Fusion headquarters.

"Mr. Hylan," said Mr. Sulzer, "on the assumption that you are elected Mayor, what men you have chosen to be Police and Fire Commissioners and directors of the public school system?" asked Mr. Sulzer. "Stop reading canned speeches and tell us what kind of a Mayor you are going to be. If you are elected Mayor will you put Murphy out? If you will put Murphy out I'll vote for you. You know I cannot vote for Bennett because he was put up as a candidate only to defeat Mitchel.

"The issue in this campaign is between Mitchel and Murphy. If Mitchel is not elected, Murphy will be the next Mayor. Murphy puts up candidates who are stalking horses. He tells the real Democrats, who have the interests of the party at stake, to vote for this dummy or that wax man. I stood for a great deal from Mr. Murphy. Never did a man strive harder to do his duty than I strove. When he asked me to do his bidding or go to destruction, I said 'No,' and I would not do his bidding."

Mr. Sulzer said he supported Mayor Mitchel because the Mitchel Administration had developed "the finest police system New York ever had," and he declared that the work of the Mayor in caring for the public health and welfare was enough to re-elect him.

HILLQUIT'S PEACE VIEWS.

Socialist Candidate Says Party's Victory Would Kill Autocracy.

Morris Hillquit spoke last night in Bryant Hall to about 1,000 persons. There was applause when he said that the Socialist wanted a city government for the people as well as for the ruling classes. The party, he said, was now the only one that upheld the pure traditions of democracy. The Socialists, he said, had not been permitted to speak to the men at Camp Upton, their meetings in the streets had been broken up and their press throttled.

"We want peace, and early peace," he said, "but let me repeat again what we cannot repeat too often: We do not stand for a separate peace, which would save our own skins and leave the unfortunate nations of Europe to their own destinies. We want a general, negotiated, and permanent peace, which would bring relief and blessing to the peoples of all countries involved in this insane and disastrous war.

"We do not wish for a 'German peace' or a 'Kaiser peace.' There is not a party or a class of people, including Colonel Roosevelt and his fellow-members on the 'Vigilance Corps' who are so unalterably and consistently opposed to the Kaiser, Prussian junkerdom, and militarism, and to Kaiserdom and Junkerdom and militarism in all lands as the Socialists are, and I emphatically assert that a Socialist victory in this election would be a mortal blow to autocracy in Germany and in all other countries."

BENNETT DEMANDS BACKING OF G. O. P.

Determines to Force the Issue with the New York County Republican Organization.

CALL ISSUED FOR LEADERS

Hint That a Request May Be Made for a Share of the Campaign Contributions.

William M. Bennett is determined to force the issue with the Republican organization of New York County, where he is a resident voter, asserting that, as the Republican nominee for Mayor, he is entitled to its whole-hearted support. Thus far Mr. Bennett has been shut out of nearly all the Republican district clubs in Manhattan, and his supporters have been compelled to conduct their fight for the Republican candidate in the open air.

A letter was sent yesterday to all the Republican district leaders in Manhattan by the Bennett Campaign Committee, asking them to meet at Bennett headquarters, in the Bartholdi Building, this afternoon for a showdown. Here is the letter:

Dear Sir—The Republican district leaders of New York County have been requested to meet at the Bennett campaign headquarters, 2 East Twenty-third Street, Manhattan, at 4 P. M. tomorrow, , , ,

As you are the leader in your district, I am earnestly inviting you to be present for the purpose of organizing a campaign in the interest of the regularly nominated Republican candidate—Senator William M. Bennett.

I trust that you will be present, and look forward to meeting every leader in New York County. Very truly yours,

FRANK D. WILSEY, Chairman.

The managers of Mr. Bennett's campaign are anxiously awaiting the response. At the Bennett Campaign Headquarters it was said last night that no replies had been received to the letter, but that it was assumed every Republican district leader in Mr. Bennett's home county would take enough interest in the Republican candidate to come.

The Bennett campaign managers feel that they have many grievances against the Republican organization in New York County. One of these is that Mr. Bennett has not been invited to make the headquarters of the Republican County Committee his campaign headquarters, but has been put to the necessity of calling upon personal friends and supporters to defray the cost of establishing his present headquarters in the Bartholdi Building. It is likely that before the week is over he will make a formal demand on the Republican County Committee for the right of transferring his fighting base from the Bartholdi to the Tilden Building, where the County Committee has quarters.

It was intimated yesterday that—coupled with this demand—would be one for Mr. Bennett's share in the campaign contributions that are said to be flowing rather freely into the Republican coffers on the presumption that the money is to be spent for the re-election of Mayor Mitchel and the other candidates on the Fusion ticket. The fact is that the Bennett managers need funds badly with which to carry on the campaign.

"We realize that Controller Prendergast and Robert Adamson, who is a candidate for President of the Aldermanic Board, both of whom fairly won their nomination in the Republican primaries, are entitled to their share of any campaign fund that is being collected by the Republican County Committee," said one of the Bennett campaign managers yesterday, "but the committee has no right to divert any of the money to the purposes of the Mitchel campaign. Whether the money is to be split three ways or four ways, Mr. Bennett is surely entitled to an equitable share of it, and we think he will insist upon his rights."

Mr. Bennett's threat of an open-air campaign in front of the Republican district clubs thus far has gained him an entry to only two of the Republican clubhouses in his own borough. One of these, however, is the home of the Federal Club, the Republican organization of the Sixth Assembly District, where Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, is leader. Mr. Bennett spoke there last night. He has received, in addition, an invitation to speak at the club of the Seventh Assembly District, where Deputy County Clerk Herman W. Beyer is the leader.

The Hillquit Nonpartisan Committee of One Thousand for the Children of New York City and their Schools, of which Professor J. McKeen Cattell is the head, has obtained an option on Madison Square Garden for the Saturday before election, and yesterday sent an invitation to all the Mayoralty candidates to attend the rally and speak.

Mr. Bennett announced in his speeches last night that he would preach the funeral sermon of the Union League Club at noon today in front of their clubhouse at Thirty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue, thereby performing a service that he said should have been performed at the close of the civil war, when the Union League Club died.

The Republican candidate made speeches in Manhattan at the Federal Club in the Sixth Assembly District, at the Labor Lyceum, the Twenty-third Street Y. M. C. A., and the National Hall at Driggs Avenue and Eckfort Street, Brooklyn.

CASSIN, TORPEDOED, FOUGHT OFF U-BOAT

Veering Missile Hit American Destroyer After Commander Had Altered Course.

THEN SOUGHT FOE FOR HOUR

Officers and Seamen Commended by Admiral Sims for Coolness in the Emergency.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Coolness and quick manoeuvring by Commander Walter H. Vernou saved the American destroyer Cassin from possible destruction in an encounter with a German submarine in the war zone on Oct. 16, the Navy Department was advised today by Vice Admiral Sims in his full report of the fight. Meagre details of the incident were received last week, but the destroyer's name was withheld until today.

Before she had an opportunity to fire a shot, the destroyer was hit on the stern by a torpedo, which killed Gunner's Mate Osmond Kelly Ingram, slightly wounded five others of the crew, and put one engine out of commission.

The Cassin had been searching half an hour for a submarine first sighted five miles away when Commander Vernou suddenly saw a torpedo 400 yards distant, and making for the ship at great speed. He ordered full speed ahead and the wheel hard over. The patrol boat was just clear of the torpedo's path when the projectile broached on the surface, turned sharply, and hit its objective.

Admiral Sims reported that the behavior of the officers and the entire crew was admirable. He gave special credit to Commander Vernou. Many of the ship's enlisted personnel also were cited by the Admiral for coolness and qualities of leadership.

Text of Announcement.

The Navy Department's announcement was as follows:

"The destroyer recently mentioned in dispatches made public as being injured by a torpedo, was the U. S. S. Cassin, commanded by Commander W. N. Vernou; executive officer, Lieutenant J. W. MacLaran; junior officers, Lieutenant J. A. Saunders, Lieutenant L. R. Agrell, Lieutenant R. M. Parkinson, and Assistant Surgeon D. W. Queen.

"While this vessel was on her patrol station a submarine was sighted on the surface at about five miles distant. The Cassin immediately proceeded at full speed toward the submarine with her crew at their battle stations. She searched the area for about thirty minutes, zig-zagging back and forth, when the commanding officer, Commander Vernou, sighted a torpedo running at high speed near the surface about 400 yards away, headed to strike the Cassin amidship.

"Realizing the situation the commanding officer rang for emergency full speed ahead on both engines, put the rudder hard over, and was just clear of the torpedo's course when it broached on the surface, turned sharply toward the vessel, and struck the stern of the Cassin.

"Fortunately only one engine was disabled, thereby permitting the destroyer to remain under way, circling in search of the submarine. After about an hour the submarine exposed its coning tower long enough for the Cassin to fire four shots. Two of the shots fell so close to the submarine that it was forced to submerge immediately and was not seen again. The Cassin continued to search until dark when, having been joined by other British and American patrol vessels, she was taken safely into port.

"Vice Admiral Sims states that the behavior of the officers and the entire crew was admirable. There was no excitement on board; the men remaining quietly at their battle stations throughout the night except when called to other duties. He commends the British Navy for the prompt and efficient assistance rendered the Cassin.

"Admiral Sims gives special credit to Commander Vernou for his vigilance and prompt action, which probably saved the Cassin from total loss. He also commends Lieutenants MacLaran, Saunders, and Parkinson for their ingenuity in effecting temporary repairs, and for their coolness and efficient work.

The following men were cited by Vice Admiral Sims for showing coolness and qualities of leadership:

TAFT URGES WALL ST. TO SUPPORT WILSON

CALL FOR PATRIOTIC DUTY

Ex-President Praises Passage of Draft Act and Asks Sympathy for German-Americans.

A tribute to the patriotism of Wall Street, a psychological diagnosis of the war, an appeal to stand beaind the Administration, and a plea for greater consideration for the German-born loyal American were the striking features of ex-President Taft's address yesterday afternoon on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, where the leading bankers and brokers of the city had gathered for a Liberty Loan rally. The expansive floor was crowded to its capacity, as were also the galleries. Mr. Taft was loudly applauded as he entered with H. G S. Noble, President of the Exchange.

Mr. Taft said that the ultimate responsibility for the flotation of Government loans rested with the bankers of New York, who had been much abused, but whose patriotism was unequaled anywhere in the country. He warned the men of Wall Street not to measure their patriotism by the question whether it was approved by others, but to feel satisfied in knowing that they were rendering patriotic service. "It is a little bit like the old Puritan doctrine in reference to salvation," he said, "You have got to be damned before you are saved, and you gentlemen in Wall Street, whether you are willing or not, have been through that test."

Mr. Taft said he had a great sympathy for American citizens of German origin, and urged that they be treated more considerately.

"Of course," he said, "with the loud-mouthed, who do not know their allegiance and do not understand the value of American citizenship, I have no sympathy, and if they put their sentiments into overt acts I am in favor of visiting them with the heaviest punishment, but that is a small part of a very valuable body of citizens—men who came over here seeking liberty, who founded families and businesses that have added greatly to our civilization.

Says Issues Were Clouded.

"Then this war came on. The issues were clouded, Teuton against Slav, and this class of citizens naturally had a sympathy for the Fatherland and their brethren. They did not know the psychological conditions any more than we did until this war made them naked to the world, and the controversy that lasted for three years, of course, fixed their sympathies for the time being. And now we are in the war. They are loyal, but now it is a conflict, a feeling, and a hard change for them, and we ought to be considerate in knowing that they are loyal.

The speaker said that he expected that Germany would again resume her position as a peaceful member of society when militarism was stamped out.

Nation Forced into War.

"Why," Mr. Taft asked, "did Germany force this country into the war? It is because of this obsession that she had. In the first place she did not think the United States would fight; in the second place she had come to believe that we were a nation loving peace, who did not want to fight and had not prepared for a fight; and in the third place she did not think—at least her newspapers said that we were a tangoing nation and that we were too fat to get into the trenches. And so, at a time when the greatest war in history had been fought by these great nations and they had exhausted, or nearly exhausted their man power, their money, their food, and their resources, Germany deliberately forced—because we were forced—into this war the nation that is now able and will furnish more money, more food, more car equipment, and more men than any nation in the world.

"Now the end of this war must be psychological. Here we have a people whose heroic loyalty to their Emperor and to the cause that they have mistakenly adopted, of course, call for the admiration of the world. A people obsessed, indoctrinated with a false philosophy. But they are not supermen. They are not above those rules that govern with all men, and what they need in order to produce the certain psychological change is a licking, a defeat.

"Now, my friends, that will come, and then there will be a wedge between the German people and the Kaiser, and the ruling Prussian military caste, and when that comes the end will come, and it will be the result of the psychological operation of facts on the German mind."

Mr. Taft praised Congress for the passage of the conscription act, and declared that it was based on correct principles. He urged everybody to support the President, saying:

"Congress has been exceedingly generous in the framing of her legislation. She has given everything that it was reasonable to expect the Government to contribute to us, so that we ought to be optimists and not pessimists. Of course, we can criticise, but this is not the time to criticise. Now we have got to stand behind the pilot whom we have selected."

HOW TO CONVERT YOUR BONDS

Treasury Explains Exchange of 3 1-2 for 4 Per Cent. Issue.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Subscribers to the first issue of the Liberty Loan who wish to have 4 per cent. instead of 3½ per cent. bonds are to be permitted to convert their holdings at any Federal Reserve Bank or at the Treasury Department simply by surrendering their bonds of the first issue and taking in lieu of them bonds of the second issue with the dates of issue, maturity and interest payment that appear on bonds of the first issue. The Treasury Department has just issued a circular, No. 85, which describes this process. A statement issued at the Treasury tonight explains the transaction as follows:

"Conversion of the 3½ per cent. bonds may be effected at any Federal Reserve Bank or at the Treasury Department by surrender of the 3½ per cent. bonds, together with a request for conversion, at any time after Nov. 5, 1917, (but not after May 15, 1918,) but no 4 per cent. bonds will be ready for delivery prior to Nov. 15, 1917. If conversions are effected at any time before Dec. 15, 1917, payments to the Government to adjust interest will not be required, but on and after that date such payments must be made. The machinery for the adjustment of interest has been worked out, so that such adjustments will be made with a minimum of inconvenience if conversions are effected as of Nov. 15, 1917, or as of Dec. 15, 1917.

"Holders of bonds or interim certificates of the first Liberty Loan who desire to effect conversions and who also desire prompt delivery of their 4 per cent. bonds should surrender their holdings for conversion on Nov. 8, 1917, or as soon thereafter as possible. Conversions of bonds so surrendered will be effected as of Nov. 15, 1917, and holders thereof will thereby obtain the full benefit of the higher rate of interest from the earliest possible date.

"Subscribers for bonds of the first Liberty Loan who, for any reason, have not yet received either definitive bonds or interim certificates, and who desire to convert, should so notify the bank or trust company, or other agency now holding such bonds or interim certificates. To take advantage of the conversion privilege it will not be necessary for holders of interim certificates to obtain the definitive 3½ per cent. bonds."

WANTS CITY TO BUY BONDS.

Prendergast Asks Mayor to Invest Million of Sinking Fund.

Controller Prendergast sent a letter to Mayor Mitchel yesterday advising that the City of New York invest $1,000,000 in Liberty Loan bonds.

"May I respectfully suggest," he wrote, "that you recommend to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund that the sum of $1,000,000 of sinking fund moneys be invested in Liberty Loan bonds? This will be a practical evidence of the interest of the people of the City of New York in aiding the National Government in the preservation of the nation's rights and future."

The Mayor said he was heartily in favor of the plan.

All Ready for Loan Parade.

Final plans for the Liberty Loan pageant and parade tomorrow afternoon were announced yesterday by Major Lorillard Spencer, Grand Marshal, at parade headquarters, 50 Madison Avenue. The parade will start south on Fifth Avenue from the Central Park Plaza at 11 A. M., disbanding at Washington Arch.

Governor Philipp would win, but all conceded that he would be a formidable candidate. When he ran for Governor last year it was known that he had Senatorial aspirations. The straight Republicans talked of having him fill out his term, run again for Governor, and, if elected, take up the fight in 1921 for Senator Husting's seat.

John T. McGovern, Progressive Republican, who was Governor of Wisconsin before Governor Philipp, is another conspicuous possibility. McGovern, who supported Roosevelt in 1912, ran against La Follette in the Republican primaries last year for the Senatorial nomination.

Edward Dithmer, Lieutenant Governor of Wisconsin, is regarded here as another possibility. He is a Progressive Republican of the La Follette type. Malcolm B. Jeffreys, an anti-La Follette man, is still another conspicuous candidate. He ran against La Follette for Senator last year and was beaten in the primaries by 50,000 votes. Representative Irvine L. Lenroot, author of the high tax upon excess war profits in the War Revenue bill as originally adopted by the House, is considered a dark horse. He is a Progressive Republican.

Whoever the La Follette candidate may be, his platform, it is agreed, must be radical, embracing the anti-Administration policy that La Follette has pursued since America's entry into the war, including opposition to the selective draft. In a speech in the Senate some time ago Mr. La Follette prophesied that if the selective draft were put to a vote of the people it would be rejected. That he will force this issue to the front in the coming campaign is regarded as probable. The Senator seems to have supreme confidence that the voters of Wisconsin will uphold him. He has urged in the Senate that Congress assert the aims of the United States in the war and no longer permit the President, as he put it, to determine the aims of America, or to decide alone how long the country is to carry on hostilities.

Senator La Follette's candidate, furthermore, it is expected, will campaign for the highest tax possible upon the country's wealth. The Wisconsin Senator has announced that he will fight for this as long as he is in the Senate.

If the Wisconsin election takes on the aspect of a test between loyal support of the Administration and anti-war sentiment, the Administration, it is predicted, will send speakers to the State.

President Wilson's Tribute.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Husting, Mayville, Wis.:

Your son's death has come to me as a great personal grief. He was one of the most conscientious public servants I have ever known, and had entered upon a career of usefulness to his State and to the country which was of the highest promise. I grieve with you with all my heart.

WOODROW WILSON.

Capital flags were lowered to half-mast today in respect for Senator Husting, and arrangements were made for a committee of Senators to attend the funeral. Senator La Follette, his colleague, issued the following statement:

"The State of Wisconsin and the nation will be greatly shocked to learn of the tragic death of Senator Husting. In his brief service in the Senate he had impressed his colleagues and the country with his industry, his courage, and devotion to his convictions at any cost or sacrifice to himself. He was a serious student of public questions, a plain, direct, fearless public servant. My sense of personal loss is deep and abiding."

How Senator Husting Died.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 22.—The body of Senator Husting was being prepared today for burial, which probably will be at Mayville, his home. Senator Husting and his brother were rowing in separate boats, the boat of the former being just ahead. The Senator saw a flock of ducks and called to his brother to shoot. Then he suddenly rose from a stooping position, evidently thinking the shot would pass over his head. His brother, aiming at the ducks, pulled the trigger. Senator Husting was in direct line with the shot, and the discharge entered his back at close range.

The vacancy in the Senate caused by Mr. Husting's death must be filled by a primary and special election. This is the unofficial opinion of Attorney General Owens.

Don't Keep Liberty Waiting
LIBERTY asks you to volunteer for her Second Loan. When she commands, it's a tax—when she asks you to subscribe, it's a privilege. She doesn't ask you to subscribe on October 27th. You are keeping her waiting already.
You are helping win the war—you carry shells, clothes, war weapons today when you subscribe. Now that they have fighting gear the English and the French lose less on attack than the Germans on defense. Think what that means—your sons, brothers, relatives, have more chance of safe return the minute you sign your application and make your first deposit.
Today is the biggest day in your life so far—no other compares with it in opportunity to serve your country. Don't keep Liberty waiting. You owe her all you have and most of what you expect.

BIG RUSH FOR SMALL BONDS

Standard Oil Co. of New York Takes $15,000,000 and John D. Rockefeller $5,000,000.

Although subscriptions to the Liberty Loan in this district came in yesterday in large volume, the net gain for the day was only $65,000,000, bringing the estimated total up to $715,000,000. Among the large applications announced was one for $15,000,000 by the Standard Oil Company of New York and one of $5,000,000 from John D. Rockefeller. It is understood that this is Mr. Rockefeller's initial subscription, and that he will enter several additional ones, just as he did in the first Liberty Loan campaign, when his reported subscriptions totaled $20,000,000.

The local Liberty Loan Committee is confident that the New York Federal Reserve District will furnish a billion and a half of subscriptions, or 50 per cent. of the $3,000,000,000 4 per cent. Government loan. To attain this goal it will be necessary to gather up applications amounting to $785,000,000 in the remaining four and a half days, the subscription books closing at noon Saturday. Some of the very large corporate, banking, and individual subscriptions have not yet been filed, and it is on these that the committee is figuring to swell the total for the district.

Official figures of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for actual applications entered upon the books now show a total of $576,171,950.

Demand Greatly Exceeds Supply.

The demand for the new 4 per cent. Liberty Loan bonds of small denomination on the part of "cash purchasers" is so great that the New York Reserve Bank cannot get enough of them from Washington. These bonds are being sold for cash in department stores. Secretary of the Treasury, the following at the Federal Reserve Bank and the Sub-Treasury. The new bonds are being turned out as rapidly as possible and shipments are being made daily. To accommodate persons who cannot call at the banks during the regular office hours a large number of institutions in all five boroughs have agreed to keep open evenings until the close of the campaign.

Building and loan associations have arranged with a strong group of banks to carry several million dollars of Liberty bonds for one year, so that the various associations in New York State, and Northern New Jersey will be enabled to receive subscriptions for both members and nonmembers of any amount without impairing their borrowing capacity under the law.

The Federal Reserve Bank received yesterday from Oscar T. Crosby, Acting Secretary of the Treasury, the following telegram explaining the new Revenue law as to investments in Liberty Loan bonds:

Following rulings promulgated by Commissioner of Internal Revenue and approved by Acting Secretary:

I. Under the income tax law as amended by the War Revenue act, interest paid within the year on indebtedness incurred for the purchase of Liberty fours may be deducted in computing net income subject to income surtaxes and excess profits taxes in case of corporations. This is, of course, subject to the limitations imposed by the income tax law on the amount of indebtedness interest on which may be deducted.

II. Investments in obligations of the United States, including Liberty bonds of both issues made by a corporation or partnership from capital surplus or undivided profits will be included in invested capital for the purpose of computing the deduction and rate of taxation under the excess profits tax law, but undivided profits earned during the taxable year cannot be included in invested capital.

In Clause I. the deduction does not apply to normal income tax schedules.

Bank of Montreal Takes Million.

The Bank of Montreal announced yesterday a million-dollar subscription to the Liberty Loan. A cable message to Alfred H. Benjamin, importer of wool and chilled and frozen meats, announced that his Argentine representatives, the Cia Sansinena de Carnes Congeladas, had subscribed to $50,000.

A subscription of $500,000 was received from the Episcopal Church Pension Fund. Directors of the Brooklyn Hebrew Orphan Asylum have voted $50,000 to be invested in Liberty bonds.

The Typographical Union No. 6, known as "Big Six," which bought $5,000 of the first Liberty Loan bonds, has just entered a subscription for $10,000 of the second war issue. Action was taken at its regular meeting on Sunday.

Women had a chance to sell Liberty bonds in the lower part of the city yesterday. It was woman's day, and Lillian Russell, speaking from the Sub-Treasury steps on Wall Street, is supposed to have made the largest sale. While she was speaking an automobile drove up, a well-dressed man alighted, walked up the steps, and shook Miss Russell's hand. "I have seen you on the stage many times and it cost me $2," he said. "Today replies you will cost me $50,000. I am going to buy a bond for that amount immediately."

A. P. Moore of Pittsburgh, Miss Russell's husband, asked the stranger's name, but he refused to give it. Miss Sadie American, Miss Katherine Emmett, Chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee of the Stage Woman's War Relief; Mrs. John T. Pratt, and Assistant United States Treasurer Martin Vogel, were other speakers. Two hundred children from Public School 31 sang.

Florence Nash, the actress, sold $8,000 of Liberty Loan bonds from the steps of the Public Library at Forty-second Street and Fifth Avenue. Lady Aberdeen will sell Liberty Bonds at the Biltmore from 4 to 6 o'clock this afternoon; the wife of Gaetano Poccardi, the Italian Consul General, will be at the Liberty Loan booth at the Waldorf; Kate Douglas Wiggin, author of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" and "Mother Carey's Chickens," will be at the Plaza from 4 to 6 o'clock; Gertrude Atherton, at Sherry's from 1 to 2:30 o'clock; Mary Stewart Cutting, at the Waldorf from 4 to 6 o'clock, and Juliet Wilbur Tompkins, at the McAlpin.

John McCormack a Salesman.

John McCormack, the Irish tenor, sold Liberty Bonds at James McCreery & Co.'s yesterday afternoon. The management was unable to announce the total last night, but it was said to reach many thousands of dollars. A big crowd was attracted to the store by the announcement that McCormack would autograph a record of one of his songs for each purchaser of a $100 bond or over, and that he would sing one of his favorite songs for each buyer of a $5,000 bond or over. The tenor opened the sale himself by taking a $50,000 bond. Thereafter he was kept busy supplying customers. He made a patriotic speech and sang a number of songs, among them "Mother Machree," "I Hear You Calling Me," and "Keep the Home Fires Burning."

Oscar S. Straus, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, in speaking of the loan yesterday, said that the duty of subscribing rested upon the poor man as well as upon the wealthy man.

"It is the subscriptions of the millions that will count," he declared. "They have just as much at stake and just as much interest in pushing this war to a speedy and victorious conclusion as the millionaires."

This is what "Big Bill Edwards" (William H. Edwards, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Second New York District) had to say about the loan:

Says Kaiser Would Take Our Money.

"If the Kaiser gets to New York and he will if you don't put up cash to stop him, he will take every cent every one of you have, and you won't get 4 per cent. interest on it, either. Every time you give Uncle Sam a dollar you take a part of Belgium away from the Germans.

"If you can't go to France, keep your money going there. Uncle Sam needs help right now. We are all here near the ocean in range of German battleships. You will get cannon balls if you don't put up dollars to stop them."

Rollin P. Grant, President of the Irving National Bank, in a statement issued yesterday, declared that Americans should buy Liberty bonds not only because they are a gilt-edged investment, but primarily because the purchase of each bond is a distinct service to the nation in the prosecution of a war in defense of American liberties and American territory.

The Boy Scouts of America started their house-to-house canvass yesterday, and it is expected that the 260,370 youngsters in various parts of the country will be instrumental in obtaining $50,000,000 of subscriptions. While the plans do not call for reports until this morning, informal data received last night indicated that $1,104,000 had been turned in by Scouts in ten cities.

Paul M. Warburg, Vice Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, visited the Liberty Loan headquarters yesterday and expressed confidence in the outcome of the campaign. "If the remarkable organization that you have developed here does not succeed in raising its quota of the loan," he said, "you can be perfectly sure that no organization could."

$100 FOR KAISER'S FUNERAL.

Woman Had Saved It for Her Own —Veteran Makes Nation Legatee.

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—An elderly woman visited a Boston bank today and produced one hundred dollars in small bills, which she placed on the cashier's desk.

"I've been saving this for my funeral expenses," she said, "but I want to buy a bond to help along the Kaiser's funeral. The only thing I am sorry about is that I am afraid I cannot be present."

A civil war veteran, John W. Pike, went to the Liberty cottage on Boston Common today, and, after saying that he had taken $700 of the new loan, asked help in leaving all his property to the United States Government. He was taken before a lawyer, where he signed a will making the Government his legatee.

Oversubscribes Its Quota 11 Times.

FOUGHKEEPSIE, Oct. 22.—The town of Hyde Park, Dutchess County, has subscribed more than eleven times its Liberty bond quota. The town's allotment was $8,200, and the subscriptions to date total $93,430.

SELL BONDS FROM TRUCK.

Total of $61,000 Disposed Of in Times Square in Two Nights.

From a gayly decorated truck in Times Square, Captain Eugene J. Orsenigo, recruiting officer of the Seventy-first Regiment, and a committee of patriotic men, have sold $61,000 worth of Liberty bonds in two nights. The committee has had the use of the business office of THE TIMES in the Times Building in which to make out the blanks. Last night's sales totaled $20,000.

Captain Orsenigo has adopted an unusual sale plan. He began it on Saturday night by donating $5 to the cause. The bonds are sold on the weekly payment plan, and the Captain offered to pay the first week's installment for the first five who would buy the bonds. The plan met with instant success, and within a few minutes the Captain's $5 was gone. Then he called upon patriotic citizens to lend a dollar each to the United States. Many came forward, and each dollar was used to pay the first installment of an investor in the bonds.

Assisting Captain Orsenigo are Corporal Arthur Fields, who wrote the marching song, "It's a Long Way to Berlin"; Corporal Leon Flatow, who composed the music; Embury Palmer, Chairman of the Furniture Committee, and W. T. Wetmore, Treasurer of the Minute Men.

Yale's Loan Total $156,000.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 22.—The opening of the last week of the Liberty Loan drive at Yale resulted in the receipt of subscriptions for $22,000 at the Treasurer's office today. Today's additions make the total thus far taken at Yale $156,000, of which $100,000 represents the first investment of the university and the last amount taken by members of the Faculty, employes, and students.

Lowers Rents to Help Bond Sales.

HAZLETON, Penn., Oct. 22.—The G. B. Markle Coal Company today announced a reduction of 50 per cent. in the rent of all company houses during the continuance of the war so that employes can buy Liberty bonds, and also to aid them in the present high cost of living. The company's output of anthracite shows a great increase even with a largely reduced force.

Liberty Day in Porto Rico.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Oct. 22.—Governor Yager has issued a proclamation designating Oct. 24 as Liberty Day, which will be observed as a half-holiday. The proclamation urges every Porto Rican to purchase Liberty bonds. Public meetings will be held all over the island. Bond selling campaigns have been specially organized for Wednesday.

German-American Alliance Votes Aid

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—The Allegheny County branch of the German-American Alliance today authorized the appropriation of $1,000 for the purchase of Liberty bonds, and sent a letter to all societies in the branch urging them to make similar appropriations.

Nesbit to Direct War Insurance.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Charles S. Nesbit, Superintendent of Insurance of the District of Columbia, has been designated by Secretary McAdoo as Commissioner of Insurance in the Government's War Risk Insurance Bureau. Mr. Nesbit will have charge of the soldiers' and sailors' war insurance administration.

Seek Sugar Here for England.

Among the passengers arriving at an Atlantic port on an American steamship from England yesterday were Sir Joseph White Todd and John R. Drake, representatives of the British Food Commission, who will confer with Mr. Hoover and large sugar corporations to ascertain if Great Britain can depend on this country for sugar supplies.

"Parcels from Home"

Since the days of the Civil War, no Christmas has been so filled with sentiment.

The warmth of your heart-throbs for friends and relatives at the front, in our camps and on our war ships, should be reflected in the warmth and comfort of your gifts.

The soldier's and the sailor's needs are not ordinary.

They have received that particular, intimate attention by this organization which has given the Abercrombie & Fitch name a high place in the estimation of the military man.

We are ready with hundreds of gift suggestions—practical suggestions which the men themselves will approve.

Gifts should be selected without delay. The Postmaster General has ordered that all Christmas mail for fighting men abroad must start by November 15th. There will be great congestion in transportation on this side. Don't get caught in the Christmas blockade—make your selections now.

FOUR ARE INDICTED FOR NEPONSIT SALE

WILL BE ARRAIGNED TODAY

New Indictment for Perjury Found Against Ex-Senator and One for Neglect Against O'Malley.

The Grand Jury investigation of the Rockaway land deals, in which the city was alleged to have been mulcted of a large sum of money, resulted yesterday in the return of indictments against ex-Senator William H. Reynolds, Frank Bailey, Vice President of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company; William M. Greve, Vice President of the Neponsit Realty Company, and Charles O'Malley, a real estate expert in the office of Controller Prendergast. All defendants were included in one indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the city. Another indictment charged neglect of duty against O'Malley, on the ground that he had failed to make a proper appraisal of the land in question before it was bought by the city. A third indictment, charging ex-Senator Reynolds with perjury, merely superseded the one found against him by the same Grand Jury last August.

All indictments grew out of the transactions which led to the city's purchase of Seaside Park from the Neponsit Realty Company in June, 1912, for the sum of $1,225,000. The city paid an average of $5,082 per acre for land which the Neponsit Realty Company had previously acquired for a price ranging from $200 to $3,000 an acre. The sale to the city was transacted during the administration of Mayor Gaynor, with a Tammany Corporation Counsel representing the city at the condemnation proceedings. Mayor Mitchel, at that time President of the Board of Aldermen, was Chairman of the committee which approved the final award.

According to the charges of William Bullock, Tammany's investigating agent, who caused the institution of the present inquiry, all four defendants named in the conspiracy indictment had brought about a condition which caused the city to pay about $500,000 more for the Seaside Park property than it was actually worth. The history of the transaction, so far as the defendants were concerned, dated back to 1908, when Miss Adelaide Roberts, alleged to be acting as a dummy for Frank Bailey, Vice President of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, secured an option on the Seaside Park property from the West Rockaway Land Company for $1,100,000. The property was then transferred to the Neponsit Realty Company. According to the Bullock charges, a secret agreement was made whereby ex-Senator Reynolds received a one-fifth interest in the Neponsit Realty Company, thus making him a substantial owner of the Seaside Park property.

At the condemnation proceedings in June, 1912, Reynolds appeared as an expert on behalf of the Neponsit Realty Company. He swore that he had no interest in the property and that in his estimation it was worth $5,000 an acre. Most of the city's experts appraised it at $2,500 to $3,000 an acre, while the average price awarded by the Condemnation Commission was $5,082 an acre. The appraisal, which more or less determined the final award, was that of Charles O'Malley of Controller Prendergast's office, who estimated the value of the land at $5,000 an acre.

According to the charges made before the Grand Jury, however, Mr. O'Malley based his estimate on information he received from William Greve of the Neponsit Realty Company, which was trying to make the sale to the city. It was also alleged that Mr. O'Malley, before making his report to the Controller, took no pains to confirm Mr. Greve's information, and inspected the property in question on only one occasion. Upon these allegations was founded the indictment which charges Mr. O'Malley with neglect of duty.

The perjury indictment against ex-Senator Reynolds was based on the sworn statement made by him at the time of the condemnation proceedings that he was no longer a shareholder in the Neponsit Realty Company. Mr. Reynolds, when summoned before Assistant District Attorney Black to explain his relations with the Neponsit Realty Company, insisted that what he said at the condemnation proceedings was true. He admitted that he had at one time held a one-fifth interest in the Neponsit Realty Company, but he said he had sold this interest to Frank Bailey for $48,000 before the condemnation proceedings took place. During the Grand Jury inquiry which followed Frank Bailey was called upon to produce the check. He did so, but the check was dated June 12, 1913, fully a year after the condemnation proceedings.

According to the indictment returned yesterday, all four men, Reynolds, Greve, Bailey, and O'Malley, are charged with conspiring to defraud the city by causing it to pay much more for the land than it was really worth. All the defendants were informed through their counsel to appear before Justice Goff in the Supreme Court today for arraignment. Clarke L. Jordan, counsel for Mr. Bailey, in speaking of the conspiracy indictment, said:

"It was totally unexpected to me. There certainly was no evidence to warrant such an indictment. Even if the facts warranted such an indictment I do not see how it could be found at this time, inasmuch as the prosecution for a misdemeanor is barred by the statute of limitation after two years had elapsed from the time that the alleged crime was committed. The last act of a series of acts which led to this indictment occurred four years ago when the money was paid. It was a gratuitous indictment found for apurpose which could not be to serve the public.

MAYOR MITCHEL READY TO ACT

Will Set Aside Award When Fraud Evidence Is Shown.

When asked last night if he had any comment to make on the report of the indictment of ex-Senator William H. Reynolds, Frank Bailey, William M Greve, and Charles A. O'Malley, Mayor Mitchel said:

"If the men who have been indicted are guilty of the crime with which they are charged, I trust that they will be speedily tried and convicted. There is no crime on the calendar more heinous to me than the plundering of the public treasury or the betrayal of a public trust. Whoever attempts to corrupt the honesty of public officials or, being a public official, corrupts his office, is an enemy of the public, who should be mercilessly sought out and punished.

"I await the outcome of these indictments with the greatest interest. If the District Attorney is in possession of facts which prove fraud in the price paid for Rockaway Park, the minute he makes these facts public I shall take the necessary steps to set aside the award and secure proper redress.

"There is one aspect of this matter in which I take the most intense satisfaction. So much misinformation has been circulated concerning Rockaway Park that many people have been deluded into thinking that in some way I was concerned with the price paid for this land. To clear this matter up, I asked the District Attorney last month to permit me to appear before the Grand Jury to be questioned upon every point. For obvious reasons Mr. Swann, although he promised to do so, did not grant me this privilege. But the fact that a hostile District Attorney has produced four indictments in the Rockaway matter, without even calling me or calling in question any act of mine, should prove to the public that this is a matter with which I have not even the remotest connection.

"As I have repeatedly stated, the price paid by the city for land that it acquires is determined by a condemnation commission appointed by the Supreme Court. After the Board of Estimate decided to secure this ocean beach at Rockaway for a park and hospital site, the Supreme Court appointed Commissioners who fixed the price, and the Supreme Court approved the price fixed after its Commissioners had made an award. My responsibility for Rockaway Park ended when the Board of Estimate, over which Mayor Gaynor presided, yielded to popular demand for the acquisition of this property. After that had been done, the price was a matter for the Supreme Court, and the Supreme Court alone.

"The political aspect of these indictments is at once obvious. District Attorney Swann has been in office nearly two years. For more than eight months Mr. Bullock, the Tammany press agent, has been stirring about Rockaway Park. It would have been easy to go into the entire matter long ago, but this, naturally, did not suit the purposes of Mr. Bullock, Mr. Swann, and Mr. Murphy."

LEAVE GRANTED TO O'MALLEY.

He Asks for It Without Pay Until His Case Is Determined.

Charles A. O'Malley, appraiser of real estate in the Department of Finance, wrote yesterday to Controller Prendergast asking to be allowed a leave of absence, without pay, until his case had been determined. In his letter he said:

"I learn today that I have been indicted for misdemeanor, upon the charge that I was a party to conspiracy, and for a further misdemeanor, upon the charge that I have been guilty of neglect of duty—both in connection with the Jacob Riis Park acquisition. As I am informed, no charges have been sustained in connection with the Dreamland or South Brooklyn Classification Yard acquisitions. Knowing that I am absolutely innocent of either charge, I have not the slightest fear of the ultimate outcome of a trial upon either or both indictments."

The Controller granted Mr. O'Malley's request and said: "I ask for him the suspension of public judgment until he has had opportunity to make proper defense under the usual forms of law. During the eight years of his service in this department Mr. O'Malley has had the confidence and respect of myself and associates, and he has our fullest sympathy in this exigency."

QUOTES HYLAN ODDS.

Wagers at 10 to 6 and 2 to 1 Reported in Brooklyn.

Fred H. Schumm, the Brooklyn betting commissioner, said last night that $15,000 was placed by him yesterday in wagers on the outcome of the Mayoralty contest at odds of 10 to 6 on Hylan. Wagers at even money, aggregating $6,000, were made that Hylan would carry the city by 40,000 or better.

Mr. Schumm said that he had $2,000, given him by Democrats, to wager at even money that Hylan, Craig, Smith, and Dowling, Tammany candidates, would all win, and $1,000 at even money that Morris Hillquit, the Socialist candidate for Mayor, would get more votes than William M. Bennett, the Republican nominee.

The odds have been 10 to 6 on Hylan for several days, but late last night bets of several hundred dollars each that Hylan would win were made at Schumm's place, in Fulton Street, opposite the Borough Hall, in Brooklyn, at odds of 2 to 1.

PREPARE TO GUARD BALLOTS

Association Takes Steps to Prevent Any Fraud on Election Day.

The Honest Ballot Association will exercise more vigilance at the polls on Election Day than it has at any previous election. Aroused by the alleged frauds in the primaries, where the association did not mount guard, it is planning to keep watchers—some of these paid—at the polling places from the time they are opened until the last ballot has been counted and tabulated. Meals are to be sent in to the men on guard.

According to a statement sent out yesterday, the association will have 1,600 men on hand for duty on Election Day to man 1,200 of the 2,000 polling places in the city and supervise the count at other places. The watchers, it was announced, are to be selected chiefly from thirty educational institutions in the city. The association explained that, being maintained wholly by voluntary contributions and lacking funds at the time, it had not been able to place watchers at the polls on primary day.

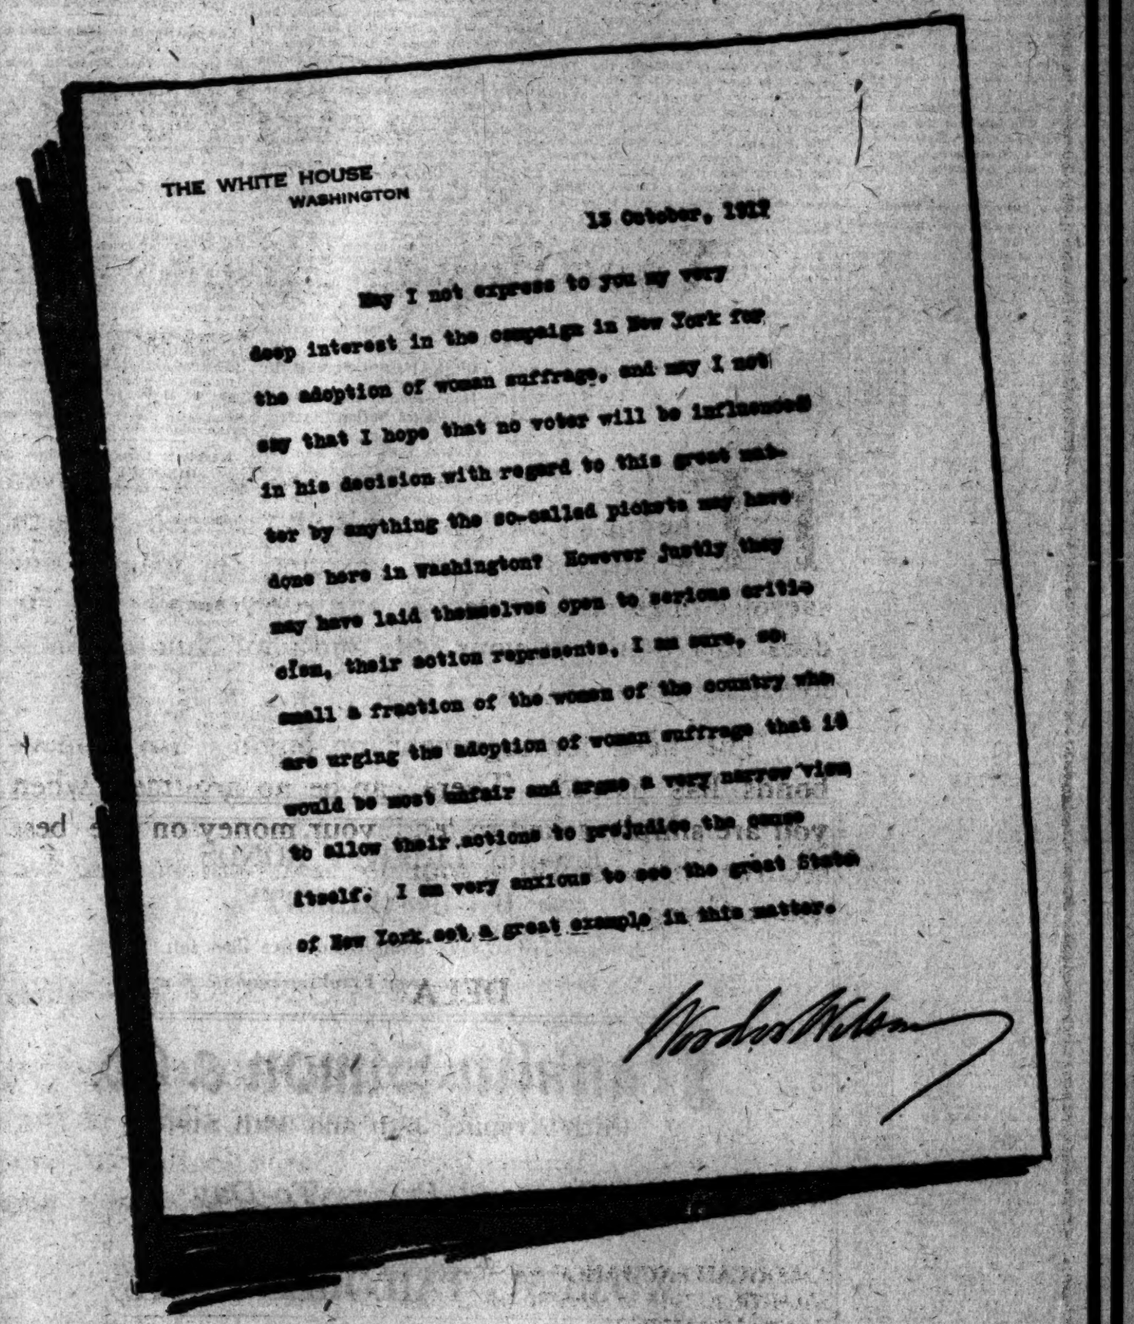
A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES TO YOU



THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

15 October, 1917

My I not express to you my very deep interest in the campaign in New York for the adoption of woman suffrage, and may I not say that I hope that no voter will be influenced in his decision with regard to this great matter by anything the so-called pickets may have done here in Washington? However justly they may have laid themselves open to serious criticism, their action represents, I am sure, so small a fraction of the women of the country who are urging the adoption of woman suffrage that it would be most unfair and argue a very narrow view to allow their actions to prejudice the cause itself. I am very anxious to see the great State of New York set a great example in this matter.

Woodrow Wilson

MEN of New York, you are as fair-minded as the President. You know that the 1,012,994 women of New York who ask the vote are women of every locality, of every representative type—your mothers, wives and daughters.

You know that two years ago the vote for Woman Suffrage in this State was the largest ever cast in favor of a constitutional amendment. You know that victory was all but won. You know that if one man out of nine has changed his mind and votes for it this year, Woman Suffrage will be a fact.

Since 1915 the war has shown what Woman's service to the State can mean. The Military Census counted women and men alike in estimating the resources of New York. Enlist the State's full strength by voting for

MILK AT 10 CENTS WITH FARMERS' AID

Up-State Association, Ready to Compete with Big Dealers, Will Cut Prices.

BUYS A DAIRY COMPANY

Prepared to Ship 200,000 Quarts a Day, Which Will Be Placed on Sale in Stores Tomorrow.

The Co-operative Producers Marketing Association, an organization of State farmers, which distributes its own milk, has completed negotiations for the purchase of the Modern Dairy Company, an organization which has distributing plants in Manhattan and Brooklyn, and will tomorrow enter into active competition with the big dealers in an endeavor to cut down the price of milk in New York City. The purchase of the company was announced yesterday by N. A. Van Son, General Manager of the association. He said that before the end of the week the farmers will be ready to ship into New York 200,000 quarts of milk a day, which they will sell to the stores at 9 cents a quart, making possible the retail price at 10 cents a quart for dipped milk sold in stores.

The decision to purchase the Modern Dairy plant was reached at a meeting of the producers, held in Utica last Saturday. The purchase will remove the difficulty the dairymen have had in getting sufficient cans for the shipment of milk in bulk. The purchase includes not only the distributing plants, but the auto trucks, cans, and other equipment and this, Mr. Van Son said, made it possible for the farmers to begin shipping milk here at once. The capacity of the new plant is 200,000 quarts a day, and the association, he said, now has enough creameries to supply this capacity. Later it is planned to add a bottling plant, but until this is done the milk will be sold only to stores or institutions using large quantities of milk in cans. A committee of farmers will inspect the new property today.

Mr. Van Son said that at the meeting in Utica the association was not only authorized to purchase the Modern Dairy, but any other dairy concern that was willing to sell. Purchase of another plant is said to be considered. The farmers aim to reduce not only the price of milk, but will sell buttermilk at 5 cents a quart and cream at 65 cents a quart. Buttermilk is now sold to the consumer at 10 cents, and cream at from 72 to 80 cents a quart. The Modern Dairy, Mr. Van Son said, now sells to 100 stores.

The co-operative association has 23 creameries or receiving stations from which to distribute its products. It has made an effort to purchase or lease the 100 creameries that the big distributers have closed down, alleging a surplus of milk, but has been unable to get any of them. "The dealers will not sell out," Mr. Van Son said.

The co-operative association is now putting into New York 60,000 quarts of milk daily from eight or nine creameries. This milk has been mostly distributed in the Bronx, where the groceries formed a combination in order to purchase from the dairymen direct and distribute themselves. The association is closely allied with the Dairymen's League, and R. D. Cooper is the President of both organizations. The Modern Dairy Company is incorporated in New York State, with a capital of $50,000. The officers are: John F. Doyle, President; William McKay, Secretary; N. A. Van Son, Treasurer.

The association announced that tomorrow the Reeves and Davies chain stores will begin selling dipped milk at 10 cents a quart, and on next Monday milk at that price will be sold in the Atlantic and Pacific stores.

Officials of the organization say that neither District Attorney Swann nor the Mayor's committee had anything to do with this plan for cheaper milk, and if credit is due it is to John J. Dillon, State Commissioner of Food and Markets, who has worked so long to have the farmers enter the local market and distribute milk without the added middlemen costs.

Commissioner Dillon, in commenting on the purchase of the Modern Dairy, said:

"The farmers' price for this milk pasteurized on board of the cars in New York is 8½ cents per quart, or delivered to the stores at 9 cents per quart. These prices are based on the cost of the milk at the farm for October. The cost of pasteurizing and delivering milk will in this way be standardized. During the months when the cost of producing milk is high, the price necessarily will be more, but after January the prices at the farm will decrease regularly, month by month, till June, and the consumers in the City of New York will get the benefit of these reductions for the first time in the history of the city. The Department of Foods and Markets has worked persistently for three years for the adoption of this plan to reduce the price of milk to city consumers. It is co-operating and will co-operate with the farmers in their efforts to deliver milk at less cost in the city."

A delegation of women from the east side went to the City Hall yesterday afternoon to protest against the present high price of milk and to ask Mayor Mitchel whether something could not be done to bring relief. The Mayor was not at his office, and the women were met by Paul Wilson, one of the Mayor's secretaries. Mr. Wilson explained that the city authorities were trying their utmost to reduce the price of milk. While the women were voicing their protest, Henry Moskowitz, Commissioner of Markets, arrived, and he explained what the city authorities were doing to aid the milk situation, and added that the city had asked the State Food Commission for power to buy, store, and sell foods.

"There will be riots if the price of milk is not lowered soon," said Mrs. Bella Neuman Ziebermann.

Dr. Moskowitz said that the question of rioting would be taken up with the Mayor at once and the milk question considered just as soon as the State Food Commission gave the Mayor the power to buy and sell foods.

The Mayor's Committee on Milk met in executive session yesterday to devise a plan to follow in its investigation as to whether the high price of milk is justified and whether the cost can be reduced. The committee will meet again on Friday morning, when the results of a complete investigation of reduced consumption of milk in 2,500 families will be presented, as well as the result of reduced milk consumption on infant and child welfare.

800 WORKMEN HOAXED.

Sent on Wild Goose Chase for Work After Paying Employment Fee.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22.—Responding to an advertisement in newspapers of Newark, nearly 800 workmen arrived here today to find they were victims of a hoax or swindle. They were engaged to work for an airplane company at high pay.

The men came here in a special train from Newark after having paid a $3 fee each to an employment agency and their railroad fare. They were to be met here by a man who was to conduct them to their new place of employment, but he failed to appear. The airplane company named has no branch in this city.

KING THANKS RED CROSS.

Lloyd George Also Expresses Gratitude for Aid.

The American Red Cross made public last night a cable message from Major Grayson M. P. Murphy, the Red Cross Commissioner in Europe, in which Major Murphy transmitted to the American Red Cross and the people of the United States the thanks of King George and Prime Minister Lloyd George for the gift of $1,000,000 made to the "Our Day" fund of the British society by the American organization. Included in Major Murphy's message was a signed statement from Lloyd George.

"Following our audience with the King yesterday," Major Murphy cabled, "at which the King so generously expressed his appreciation of our contribution to the British Red Cross, the Prime Minister invited Endicott, Wells, and myself to call on him this morning, and after an interview, in which he expressed the most cordial sentiments toward our country, he handed me the following signed statement:

"I should like personally to express our profound appreciation of the action of the American Red Cross in contributing $1,000,000 to the funds of the British Red Cross. This is a gift characteristic of the generosity and friendly heart of the American people. This will bring relief to thousands of suffering men and women, and will be a further means of strengthening the real understanding between the United States and Great Britain, which the former's whole-hearted entrance into the war for liberty has created. I know that I am expressing the thought dominant in the minds of my fellow-countrymen when I say that they will always remember this gift with gratitude.

LLOYD GEORGE."

The Red Cross also announced last night the formation of a Red Cross Naval Auxiliary in this city, to provide comforts for the men of the navy.

T. Roosevelt, Jr., Compromises Suit.

Supreme Court Justice Philbin signed an order yesterday permitting Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., to compromise a $5,000 damage suit brought against him in behalf of Nicholas Fontana, a boy who was run over and his leg hurt by Mr. Roosevelt's auto on Aug. 27, 1916, at Sixtieth Street and Second Avenue, for $100. The boy will get $75, and $25 goes to his attorney.

DRAFT LAW VALID, U. S. COURT RULES

TEST MADE BY AUSTRIAN

Injunction Charging Court Had Authority to Interfere in Board's Decision Dismissed.

The constitutionality of the selective draft law was affirmed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in a decision handed down yesterday in the case of one John Angelus, an Austrian subject, who sought an injunction against Louis Aaronson, Edward Wagner, and John Sullivan, member of Local Draft Board 155, to restrain that board from holding him for the United States military service. The suit was instituted by Angelus to obtain a review in the courts of the action taken by the board under the provisions of the draft law. Angelus claimed that the law was unconstitutional, and that the courts possessed jurisdiction to enjoin the board from certifying him for service.

The injunction was originally sought in the District Court, and was dismissed by Judge Julius N. Mayer. It was then appealed to the Circuit Court of Appeals. Judge Mayer held that the courts should not interfere with the draft law, as "it is a military measure in time of war, and it would be most subversive of military control and the proper disposition of this extremely difficult problem if the courts should interfere in this situation."

The decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals was read by Judge Rogers, Judges Ward and Hough, the other Judges of the court, concurring.

Judge Rogers began by stating that the Circuit Court of Appeals entertains no doubt as to the constitutionality of the selective draft law, and in support of this view cited from the decision of the late Supreme Court Justice Field, who in a decision handed down in 1871 upheld the Government's power to raise armies.

Judge Rogers then proceeded with the decision in the present case, the first to be considered by so high a court since the law was passed last Spring.

"This court," he said, "has no doubt as to the constitutionality of the act of Congress. The Constitution, Article 1., Section 8, expressly provides that the Congress shall have power to raise and support armies, and to provide and maintain a navy, and to make rules for the Government and regulation of land and naval forces.

"The purpose of the Conscription act is to raise an army, and the right to raise it does not involve the exercise of an implied power, but one expressly granted. How can the courts deny to Congress a right which the Constitution in plain and distinct terms confers upon it.

"The Constitution in conferring the power upon Congress has not prescribed the mode in which the power shall be exercised. The power is conferred fully, completely, and unconditionally. It is for Congress to determine the means by which the army be raised. It is left to its judgment whether it shall be raised by conscription. At the time the Constitution was adopted conscription was not an unknown mode of raising armies, but had been resorted to by Governments throughout the world. If it had been intended that Congress should not have the power to raise anything than a volunteer army, the grant of power would have been restricted and not unconditional.

"Conscription was resorted to by both sides during the civil war, and the validity of the draft laws was upheld by the courts in the North and South."

Holding that the decision of the local and district boards was final when rendered within the scope of their jurisdiction, and after a fair hearing and in good faith, and holding that the courts have no power to review the action of those boards when the proceedings have been held in accordance with law, the court decided that the bill should be dismissed.

If Angelus is an alien as he claims he is, entitled to exemption, Judge Rogers said, and in order to obtain his release he should have sought it by writ of habeas corpus, instead of by an equity injunction suit.

"But," added Judge Rogers, "whatever remedy the complainant may have or to have, there can be no doubt that he is not entitled to the relief he asks in his bill of complaint."

TWO GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY.

Professor's Son and Political Writer Sentenced to Prison.

Edward Ralph Cheyney, son of a professor in the University of Pennsylvania, and Lewis C. Frajna, a writer on political subjects, were sentenced to thirty days each in the Mercer County, N. J., Penitentiary by Judge Robert T. Ervin in the Criminal Branch of the United States District Court yesterday for conspiracy to violate the selective draft law. They were arrested in a raid on a meeting in Labor Temple in East Fourteenth Street two weeks ago and were indicted under the espionage law. The jury in its verdict found them guilty only of the conspiracy charge. Judge Ervin said that in imposing sentences he gave consideration to the fact that they were only youths. Notice of an appeal was filed.

Caroline Lazarri
Herself
at The Edison Shop
TODAY

"THE most divine contralto," is the way one music critic describes Mlle. Caroline Lazarri, of the Chicago Grand Opera Company. And today, in the Edison Shop, Mlle. Lazarri will appear in person and sing some of the songs that have made her famous.

Also Mlle. Lazarri will sing in direct comparison with Mr. Edison's recreation of her own voice.

MISS GRACE FREEMAN, the violinist, will assist Mlle. Lazarri and also play a violin solo.

The NEW EDISON
No Needles to Change
Can Be Made to Play All Makes of Records

As you listen to the full, round beauty of the singer's voice, and then to the same tones recreated by Mr. Edison's phonograph, you will wonder at the power of this man-made thing. This new invention of Mr. Edison's is a triumph indeed. Come to our concert this afternoon. Hear the singer herself—and then listen for the same virile beauty of living tone in the recreated music of Mr. Edison's new phonograph.

You are Invited to Celebrate "Edison Week"

This is Edison week. America is paying homage to the great inventor. In connection with the celebration The Edison Shop has engaged Mlle. Lazarri to give this special concert. You are invited.

There will be two concerts during the day; one at 2:30 and the other at 4. There will be no charge of any kind.

ANTILLES DEAD LIST CABLED BY PERSHING

MANY VICTIMS FOREIGNERS

Sixteen Soldiers Among the Missing —170 Men Were Rescued by the Naval Convoy.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—General Pershing today cabled the War Department the complete casualty list in the destruction of the homeward-bound army transport Antilles by a German submarine last Wednesday. He gave no additional details of the disaster.

Sixty-seven men, including sixteen soldiers, went down with the ship, another is unaccounted for, and 170 were rescued by the naval convoy. Many of those killed were foreigners of the transport's engine and boiler room forces, and some of the missing soldiers also were of foreign birth.

The men lost by the army included two Sergeants of Infantry of German origin, a Corporal of Infantry of German origin, nine privates of infantry several of whom bear German names, and two privates of field artillery, both of whom have German names. No comment was obtainable from high officials as to why so large a percentage of the men lost by the army bearing German names were returned to this country from France by the commander of the expedition. Both of the Sergeants of Infantry lost, in addition to being of German origin, have parents—one a father and the other a mother—now living in Germany.

There are many men of German origin in the army, some of whom have been serving a long time. By steady habits and thrifty qualities a number of these have gained advancement and become non-commissioned officers.

Following is the official list of dead:

KILLED ON THE ANTILLES.

Identity of Men Who Were Lost with the Transport.

George Stanley, chief butcher on the Antilles, made his home at 1,121 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, with his wife. When Mrs. Stanley received the official news of her husband's death yesterday she was prostrated, and her physician said last night that she was in a serious condition. Stanley had been a butcher at sea for seven years and formerly worked for the United Fruit Company. When the Antilles became an American transport he was assigned to her. He had been away from home exactly a month. His parents live in Milwaukee.

Abraham Schwartzberg, joined the army nearly four years ago at the age of 20 years, and was the son of Herman and Celia Schwartzberg of 649 East Thirteenth Street. The father, who is 74 years old, suffered a stroke of apoplexy only a few days ago and is in a serious condition. Schwartzberg, who had served on the Mexican border, sailed for France a few months ago, and was promoted to Corporal later. About three weeks ago he sent his parents a gift of $100 which he had saved. Besides his mother and father, he leaves seven brothers and sisters.

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 22.—J. L. Devine, a waiter, one of the Antilles victims, lived at 169 Villa Avenue, Yonkers, N. Y., according to his brother, here. He was 47 years old and had been employed on transatlantic vessels since he was 14.

WARREN, Penn., Oct. 22.—H. H. Cummings, Jr., who went down on the Antilles, was a grandson of the late H. H. Cummings, former State Senator. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Cummings, and one brother, Pierce, live in Philadelphia. Cummings, who was 19 years old, left for France in March to serve as a driver in the French Ambulance Corps, and a letter received from him last week said he had served out his enlistment and was bound for home.

Schooner's Survivors Return.

Captain John Griffin of the American schooner Annie F. Conlan, which was sunk in sight of the Scilly Islands by a German submarine on Oct. 3, arrived yesterday at an Atlantic port with eight of his crew. He said the Germans took a boatload of provisions off the schooner and then blew her up with bombs.

CONVOY BUTCHERY STIRS SCANDINAVIA

German Raiders Sank Ships, Then Fired on Lifeboats, Ignoring Signals.

DENOUNCED AS MURDERERS

Bergen Papers Demand Deportations —Lone British Destroyer Fought Cruisers.

CHRISTIANIA, Oct. 22.—The Norwegian newspapers bitterly denounce the "murderous attack" of the Germans in the convoy action last week in the North Sea. The newspapers in Bergen, where survivors of the attack were taken, demand the deportation from Norway of all Germans employed by the German General Purchasing Agency. These journals call the attention of the authorities to the danger to Norwegian trade from "this German gang, not only now, when many of them are common spies, but also in the future."

The Christiania newspaper Verdens Gang says the affair was characteristic German brutality and exceptional cowardice. The newspaper adds that the Germans, having put the British warships out of the game, acted against peaceful merchantmen as if they were the entire British Navy.

"It was the most dastardly deed any navy can boast of," says the Tidens Tegn. "It outrivals all other German crimes."

"Since the torpedoing of the first Norwegian vessel by a German U-boat no German deed amazes us," the Aftenposten says. "It is unjust to blame England for lax control. It is the first time the Germans succeeded in an attack on a convoy of this size. The British convoy system hitherto had enabled Norway to preserve shipping intercourse of the highest importance."

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 22.—Newspaper accounts of the attack by German raiders on convoys in the North Sea say that two German cruisers and three torpedo boats fired ruthlessly on the merchantmen, and subsequently on their lifeboats. They made no effort to spare the lives of the seamen.

The loss involved in the sinking of the two Swedish vessels amounts to 2,000,000 kroner.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The British destroyer Mary Rose fought single handed against German cruisers in the convoy action in the North Sea, according to a story ascribed to a British officer rescued off Bergen, which is transmitted by the Christiania correspondent of The Times. The other destroyer, which should have been present, never appeared, it is said, and it is thought likely that it was destroyed at the beginning of the action.

After fighting heroically half an hour, during which she was subjected to a terrific concentric fire, the Mary Rose sank. Ten members of the crew clung to buoys and were rescued.

The correspondent says that the reports of the butchery of the crews of the merchantmen pass description. Two women on one ship waved a piece of white cloth which was perfectly visible. They were silenced by a volley from the German cruisers.

The newspapers take divergent lines of criticism regarding the attack on the convoyed merchantmen. According to one view, the incident was one that no foresight or vigilance could avert, and, although regrettable in every way, cannot exercise any decisive effect.

On the other hand, some newspapers ask what has become of the vaunted British command of the North Sea. One newspaper comments:

"The occurrence is extremely disquieting. With the whole American Navy working in conjunction with ours and with our patrol relieved completely of the task of searching vessels coming from America, we ought to have an ample margin of security against such mischances."

FORD IN BEARD'S PLACE.

Columbia University Engages Princetonian for Political Lectures.

Henry Jones Ford, Professor of Politics in Princeton University, has been engaged by Columbia University to lecture on political science in place of Professor Charles A. Beard, who withdrew from the university on Oct. 9.

Professor Ford took up his work yesterday. Notices were posted on the bulletin boards in Barnard College, the School of Jornualism, the graduate schools, and all other departments where Professor Beard lectured, that Professor Ford would take up the work at the hours given in the schedules.

The new lecturer is not to become a regular member of the Columbia Faculties, but will be acting professor until a successor to Professor Beard is elected. He will continue his work at Columbia for the year, however, it was said.

Tired Mothers

If sleep does not refresh you, if you are pale and your appetite is poor, if you are always tired and frequently irritable—Pepto-Mangan will help you, provided your condition is not caused by a serious organic disease.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan

"The Red Blood Builder"

The mental, moral and physical welfare of children, the guardianship of family funds, the straining to make ends meet, the big and little worries which come with the multitudinous responsibilities of housekeeping—all combine to make many women weak and nervous under the stress.

Loss of vitality is usually caused by the blood having become thin and sluggish. You cannot remain strong if the blood is too weak and watery to drive out poisons and carry nourishment throughout the system.

Study this picture so you will know how genuine Pepto-Mangan looks.

Pepto-Mangan is a true tonic because it strengthens the blood by putting goodly amounts of iron in it, to enrich it with thousands of new, healthy red blood cells.

A short course of pleasant tasting Pepto-Mangan is usually beneficial, because a plentiful supply of rich, red blood strong in iron, driving through the veins brings back health, vigor and appetite.

Friendly Warning! The genuine Gude's Pepto-Mangan is sold in only one way, in the bottle and package as pictured in this advertisement; never in bulk. Refuse all substitutes—there are many. Read circulars around bottle. For sale by all druggists.

His Life and Fifty Dollars!

MAN, Woman, Child—don't you hear YOUR call to Duty?

"Our Boys" by the thousands are to give up their lives for you. And giving up their lives they also are giving up their dollars.

There will actually be one Liberty Bond sold in the army itself for every soldier in the service of Uncle Sam

His Life AND Fifty Dollars—that is the soldier's sacrifice.

And you who go about your daily work, comfortable, well fed, making money, SAFE—you actually hesitate merely to exchange one kind of Government money for another kind of the same Government's money.

You are hesitating not to give, not to sacrifice, but hesitating merely to LEND, with interest, to your country.

Oh, the shame of it! The stain upon the name of America, that every man, woman and child does not rush to do their duty—the shame that jewelry is not sold, that pleasures are not abandoned, that sacrifices are not made and every available dollar poured into the lap of Liberty.

You are called upon by your President to serve—not "over there" but here in safety—and this is your individual test of worthiness. And only you and your conscience will know if you have done your duty.

Every Man On His Honor

No one will question you whether you have given enough—whether you have bought Liberty Bonds to the point of sacrifice. But unless a sacrifice is made you have fallen short of YOUR Duty. You must buy until it HURTS—if your conscience is to be satisfied.

Read this from Comingsby Dawson, a soldier at the front:

"Money, comfort, limousines and rag-time are not the requisites of men when heroes are dying.

"I hate the thought of Fifth Avenue with its pretty faces, its fashions, its smiling frivolity.

"America as a great nation will die, as all coward civilizations have died, unless she accepts the stigmata of sacrifice which a divine opportunity again offers her."

Ride in your automobiles, go to the theatres and ball games, you men and women—buy a thousand-dollar bond when you should buy ten, buy a hundred-dollar bond when you could buy a thousand—and then think, if you can, of the Scorn of our boys dying at the front.

Our soldiers are going through Hell to save YOU — and you do not deny yourself one of your pretty comforts to help support them.

Others will buy—yes, and buy enough, but that does not save YOU from personal dishonor. Because the man or woman or child who shirks his full duty, the man who can by any possible sacrifice buy one bond, and who avoids his duty, is a man of whom America will be ashamed.

A Bond Saves a Soldier

You who would stop this war quickly—buy bonds, bonds and more bonds.

You whose hearts are torn by the thoughts of the thousands of our American boys whose lives will be snuffed out—buy bonds.

Bonds will save hardships, save lives, and shorten the war, as no other human agency can.

Remember you are but changing your money into another kind of money—a kind of money that bears interest. A kind of money that is a first mortgage on everything in this country from the Woolworth Building and the Washington Monument down to your own kitchen stove.

Your money is as safe in the form of a bond as it is in gold—and you will have done your duty.

Buy a bond. Buy all the bonds that through sacrifice you can buy. Meet your President's appeal, your country's need, the dictates of your conscience.

At least take part of the soldier's sacrifice. He offers his life—and buys a bond.

RATE INCREASE CASE REOPENED IN HASTE

Commission Invites Eastern Railroads to Prove Need of Additional Revenue.

HEARING SET FOR NOV. 5

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Interstate Commerce Commission tonight notified the Eastern railroads that the reopening of the 15 per cent. rate advance case should not be deferred, and on its own initiative set the first hearing for Nov. 5. Counsel for the Eastern carriers appeared before the commission last week and suggested that the hearing be held sixty days hence, which would give the railroads an opportunity to present a statement of their earnings for September and October, in which period to date, it was declared, the returns had fallen off greatly from those of preceding months.

Even before the commission made known its unexpected decision the impression among those familiar with the railroad situation was that an increase would be granted to the railroads as soon as possible in order to aid them in the war emergency. The action tonight of the commission in notifying the carriers that "if your suggestion is well grounded that further financial relief is needed by the carriers, it is obvious that such relief should be had promptly," is interpreted by railroad officials as forecasting a favorable decision.

Letter to the Carriers.

The position of the commission is fully indicated in this letter sent to George Stuart Patterson of counsel for the carriers:

Washington, Oct. 22, 1917.

Mr. George Stuart Patterson, Representing Eastern Railroads, Philadelphia, Penn.:

Sir: I am instructed by the commission to advise you that after conference the commission is of the opinion that the carriers in the Eastern District represented by you before the commission at the informal conference held on Oct. 17, 1917, are in error in suggesting what is virtually, and for most practical purposes, a continuance for at least sixty days of the Fifteen Per Cent. Case. The Fifteen Per Cent. Case is still open and before the commission. If your suggestion is well grounded that further financial relief is needed by the carriers, it is obvious that such relief should be had promptly in order that transportation demands in time of war may be fully met.

In its report of June 27 the commission referred at some length to war conditions. The commission reached the conclusion that only part of the requested increase should be then awarded, stating that the things which the carriers "believed would happen have not happened." But the commission added, Page 325: "None of us know what the future may develop. * * * If it shall develop that the fears which have prompted the carriers are realized or that their realization is imminent, we shall be ready to meet that situation by such modification or amplification of the conclusions and orders herein reached and entered as are shown to be justified."

The gist of your suggestion of Oct. 17 is that the situation above referred to has now arisen; it is suggested that operating revenues do not now adequately overcome mounting costs. If this be so, the commission's stated purpose of meeting that situation will not have been attained by adopting your suggestion of a hearing sixty or ninety days hence. The commission is emphatically of the opinion that the evidence necessary to establish the full truth should be presented, without delay, in order that the carriers may be maintained in a position to do their full war duty.

The record submitted in June indicated that the condition of the carriers in New England was less favorable than in any other section of the country. The commission is impressed with the desirability of being promptly advised as to their present situation, particularly as regards their ability to meet the increased cost of railway fuel.

Since the outbreak of the war carriers and shippers alike have with praiseworthy alacrity co-operated to improve the efficiency of our transportation system. The results have been marked; but there is room for still further elimination of waste and increase of efficiency. On the other hand there have been many misleading statements and publications with respect to the financial condition of the carriers, particularly in the Eastern District. The exact situation should, in our opinion, be at once disclosed before the commission and to the public.

The commission will, therefore, set down for further hearing the Fifteen Per Cent. Case, so far as carriers in the Eastern District are concerned, on Nov. 5, at 10 o'clock, in Washington, D.C.

Other parties to this proceeding are being advised accordingly.

Yours truly,
GEORGE B. McGINTY, Secretary.

A member tonight said that the commission had followed the financial situations confronting the carriers with the greatest care since June 27, when an increase was granted on classified rates in official classification territory and on commodities such as coal, iron ore, and coke. These increases were equal to 15 per cent. in some instances, but in no way represented a horizontal increase of 15 per cent. While acceding partially to the demands of the carriers, the commission pointed out that future developments might justify modifications or further increases.

In appearing before the commission last week counsel for the carriers insisted that the time for further increases had come, due to the heavily increased operating expenses, and urged that the case be heard by the full commission within sixty days. Most of the issues involved were to be heard before examiners in Chicago and New York next week. These hearings will not now take place, as every issue will be covered before the full commission, which it is expected will give a prompt decision.

Counsel for the railroads say they will be unable to present adequately their financial condition, as definite returns for September and October, which they say are the worst months in the year for railroads, cannot be prepared in so short a time. As against this argument a member said the commission had closely followed the varying conditions among the railroads of the East, which are called upon to do the extraordinary work for the Government both as to the transportation of troops and supplies. While the financial figures cannot be fully obtained for September and October, yet sufficient data will be at hand to furnish a basis for a decision, in the opinion of one of the Commissioners.

Eastern Roads' Reverses.

Of all the railroads in the country the Eastern carriers, those in official territory, which embrace the country east of the Mississippi, and from the Great Lakes to the Potomac, have encountered the greatest falling off in their returns in the nine months of this year, compared with the preceding similar period.

In July of last year the net income per mile of the Eastern carriers was $741, representing the banner year in the railroad history of the country. For the last year the Eastern carriers have had greater expenses in operation than roads in other territories, with the result that their returns have not been so great. In July of this year, according to information obtained officially tonight, the net income per mile was $605.

While definite figures are not available, counsel for these carriers say that their profits have decreased steadily each month since July, and that September and October showed an extraordinary falling off in net profits, with the operating expenses steadily mounting.

It is regarded as probable that the Southern and Western carriers, particularly the latter, already showing reductions in net earnings, will join in the request for an advance.

BOGUS OFFICER CONFESSES.

Nondescript Naval Uniform Betrayed Harry Oakley.

Charged with impersonating a naval officer and fraudulently collecting funds which he alleged were for the use of th American Rede Cross, Harry Oakley was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Michael F. McGoldrick, in Brooklyn, and held in $2,000 bail to await the action of the Federal Grand Jury. The prisoner says he is a native of Canada and although his last occupation was that of pantryman on a British steamer, he alleges that he is a graduate of Cornell University and for a week before his arrest lived at the Hotel Imperial.

Oakley represented that he was attached to the medical service of the navy, and his "uniform" consisted of a cap with the word "Surgeon" on the peak and a pantryman's uniform, on the shoulders of which he attached gold bars such as are worn by naval officers. The prisoner was arrested Saturday morning at Robins' Dry Dock at Erie Basin, where his nondescript uniform attracted the attention of a naval officer.

In answer to questions by Assistant United States District Attorney Henry Ward Beer, Oakley admitted his guilt. He is now in Raymond Street Jail.

COLGATE'S RIBBON DENTAL CREAM

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

that Colgate's is preferred by dentists is contained in the affidavits and other documents in this chest—deposited with the Title Guarantee & Trust Co. of New York. They may be examined by accredited committees on application to Colgate & Co.

THE FACTS given herein are based on an impartial investigation conducted among the dental profession, and so carried out that neither the dentists nor those interviewing them knew of Colgate & Co.'s interest therein.

Some 12,000 dentists (more than 28% of the entire profession in the U.S.A.) were personally questioned concerning their preference among dentifrices — the investigation covering cities, towns and villages — in every State in the Union. It shows that:

1 Colgate's is the first choice of more dentists than any other dentifrice.

Colgate & Co.

Safe, Sane, Sensible!

Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream is a dentifrice, not a patent medicine, not a "cure-all." It is favored by profession and public both for what it does, and does well—and for what it does not do, and makes no claim to do.

It is a safe, sane, sensible dentifrice, with a delicious flavor which encourages the habit of regular brushing. Even with the cap left off, Ribbon Dental Cream does not harden, but keeps its creamy consistency.

AVIATOR EXPLAINS WHY HE HAD POISON

FAILED IN FIRST ATTEMPT

Lost All He Had Saved and Sweetheart Also—No Evidence of Disloyalty.

A human interest story that seemed to impress greatly the military court was told on Governors Island yesterday when Samuel Oliver Livingood of the Army Aviation School at Princeton University was placed on trial to answer the charge of having deadly poisons in his possession while attending the aviation school. The evidence yesterday is said to have established beyond all doubt his innocence of any disloyal act or intention toward his country. When he was arrested three weeks ago it had been suspected that he was in a conspiracy to poison hundreds of his companions.

Lyttleton Fox, the New York lawyer, for whom Livingood worked at one time as a stenographer, testified that the young man was one of the most efficient office men he had ever known. Captain Robin Glider of the Princeton Aviation School testified that a report had been circulated impugning the loyalty of Livingood, and that the search of his property revealed the poison in his trunks. He said the young man was a good student but morbid.

At the close of the trial Livingood told the story of his early struggles to get along, after he left his home near Zanesville, Ohio, when he was 16 years old.

"By the closest economy," he said, "I managed to save enough money to pay my way through a business college, after which I went to Cleveland and entered the employ of the National Carbon Company as stenographer. In the late Summer of 1914 I came to New York and went to work for the law firm of which Mr. Fox is a member. When I was not at work in Mr. Fox's office I was studying up on scientific subjects, especially chemistry. I stood the Government civil service examination. After passing it in July I was ordered to Panama and assigned to duty with the Canal authorities. I was not a social man, so to speak, but rather a student whose opportunities were limited. I met a girl in Panama who seemed to me to be the finest woman I had ever known, but she repulsed my advances. I asked her to marry me and she promptly turned me down.

"The affair made me very morbid, and I despaired of ever accomplishing anything worth while. I decided to end my life, and from a druggist I procured a small bottle of chloral—the same half-filled bottle which was found in my trunk at Princeton. For several days I fought with myself. I wanted to be fair with myself, and suicide certainly seemed unfair. Finally one night I went to my room and swallowed half of the stuff. Why it did not kill me was due, I was told, to the fact that I took an overdose. When I recovered, my resignation from the Government was accepted.

"I came back to the States. I had saved my money and decided to go to college and study for a chemical engineering degree. I went to the University of Michigan, and after paying my tuition and my laboratory fees I had enough left to support me while I was in the university, but two days after I started to work in the laboratory every cent in the world that I had saved up was stolen from my coat pocket.

"Without any money it was, of course, impossible for me to continue my course, and so I went before the Faculty and explained the situation. They returned to me my tuition money, and so I went to Cleveland and once again entered the employ of th National Carbon Company. I had always wanted to be a chemical engineer. I had saved and saved and the reward seemed in sight and in then in a second the whole career faded out of my reach. I became very morose. Many of my boyhood friends had gone through college and were successful, while I, who had worked so hard, was still a drudge. Then it was that for a second time the idea of suicide entered my mind. I wrote to a firm in New York, and they sent me the cyanide of potassium that was found in my trunk at Princeton.

"I felt utterly lost. I couldn't do anything, it seemed, like other people. I was not a fellow who had friends. I did not dance, play cards, drink, or smoke. But this time better sense prevailed and I did not try to end my life. Instead I came back to New York and substituted in Mr. Fox's office for the stenographers during their vacations. I used up my nights studying and when I had saved up some money I went to Pittsburgh and entered the Carnegie Institute to try for a second time to get my degree as a chemist.

"Then came the war and I heard the Signal Corps needed field clerks and I obtained one of the positions and was ordered to duty at Fort Meyer, Va. I soon found that the soldiers looked upon a young man who sought service as a clerk as somewhat of a slacker and I decided to get into the real game and I filed my application for the flying service. I was accepted and was ordered to Princeton. How hard I studied and worked there my instructor will testify. But my ill luck followed me and the poison, which I had almost forgotten about, was found in my trunk and now I am on trial for having it in my possession. I had wanted to rid myself of it, but there was another problem. If I threw it away I was afraid some innocent person might get hold of it, or that it might get into dangerous hands and so I kept it always intending to rid myself of it the moment I could safely do so. I had even thought that if I ever got in to the field and was captured or brought down behind the German lines I might use it to end my life before the Germans had a chance to torture me.

"Long ago I gave up all idea of ever committing suicide. It may be worthwhile to tell why. I was in Fort Green Park one afternoon when I saw a man shoot himself to death. I was in the crowd that surrounded his body afterward and I realized then how cowardly the act was. The sight of that falling man forever cured me of any desire to end my life."

The finding of the court will probably be made public in Washington the latter part of this week.

DELEHANTY FILES NEW SUIT.

Drops Action Against Judge McIntyre Because of Technicalities.

The quo warranto proceedings brought last Summer in behalf of James A. Delehanty by Attorney General Merton E. Lewis to test the right of General Sessions Judge John F. McIntyre to retain his place on the bench, were discontinued yesterday because of technical questions raised as to the validity of the proceedings. A new action was filed at once, and ex-Judge Delehanty filed a bond of $1,000 to cover the cost of the proceeding in case he loses.

Mr. Delehanty stated that he filed the new action to avoid the litigation over the technical questions raised, and said his friends believed he would gain about 2,000 votes when the courts pass on ballots discovered during the inspection preliminary to the quo warranto action. This would give him a plurality of 816.

Captain Tunney an Inspector Now.

Captain Thomas J. Tunney, in charge of the Bomb Squad since its inception three years ago, was yesterday promoted to the rank of Inspector by Police Commissioner Woods. He will remain in charge of the Bomb Squad for the period of the war at least. Captain Tunney was born in this city in 1873. He was appointed to the police force in 1897 and was made a Sergeant in 1907. In 1910 he was made Lieutenant, and in 1916 a Captain. His home is at 27 Fuller Place, Brooklyn.

ADMITS FOREIGN SHIPS TO COASTWISE TRADE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Shipping Board announced today that it had decided to permit the use of foreign tonnage in the coastwise trade with South America and other ports, a step authorized by an act passed by Congress and approved by President Wilson on Oct. 6. In this way it is believed that the gap left in American coastwise shipping by diverting cargo and passenger ships to the transatlantic trade will be filled.

It may be, if negotiations with Holland and other neutral countries of Europe are concluded successfully, that much of the tonnage for which the War Trade Board has refused clearance for European ports and which now is tied up in Atlantic seaports, will be sent into the South American trade.

It has been reported that several of the neutral nations, satisfied that the United States would not let its tonnage be used for carrying cargoes to Europe which might result, even in the most indirect manner, such as re-exportation of fats, in relieving conditions in Germany, were about ready to come to terms if the ships involved were kept out of the submarine zone. To this the War Trade Board may agree and substitute neutral tonnage in the coastwise and Pacific trade, to replace American and Allied tonnage withdrawn from the transatlantic channels.

It is also reported that a considerable amount of Canadian tonnage is prepared to go into the coastwise trade in order to co-operate with the United States in its plan.

Australia Needs Ships.

Australia has 215,000,000 bushels of wheat, and vast supplies of other foodstuffs and commodities available for the American market provided this country will furnish the necessary tonnage to move accumulated stocks. This was the message brought to New York yesterday by Philip B. Kennedy, United States Commercial Attaché at Melbourne, who is here on his way to London, where in December he will succeed Pierce Williams as American Commercial Attaché to the United Kingdom.

Mr. Kennedy is making his headquarters this week at the branch office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in the Custom House.

Red Cross Commission Back After Study of Nation's Needs.

The American Red Cross Commission to Italy returned yesterday to an Atlantic port after spending two and a half months visiting the British and French fronts and five weeks in Italy, studying conditions there, with the idea of determining the manner in which the organization's activities could best give aid to that country. The members of the commission are George F. Baker, Jr., John R. Morron, Dr. Thomas W. Huntington, Dr. Victor G. Heiser, and Nicholas F. Brady. During the visit of the commission to Italy, Mr. Baker said, practically the entire territory from north to south, including Sicily, was visited, and the members studied conditions in Rome, Naples, Genoa, Milan, Florence, Venice, Bologna, Palermo, Brindisi, Taranto, and other cities.

In speaking on behalf of the members of the commission of the experiences and impressions of the visit to the war zone, Mr. Baker said:

"We cannot overstate our admiration and enthusiasm for the efficiency of the Italian Army on all its fronts. They have not only attained extraordinary military advantage over their enemies, but they have ably devoted their attention and efforts to the care and welfare of their army and their wounded.

So delicious—it is America's favorite breakfast

America's favorite breakfast is delicious Aunt Jemima pancakes. They were served over sixty million times last year alone.

Your family, too, will be extra prompt at table if they get a whiff of the delicious, tantalizing fragrance of Aunt Jemima pancakes. How their eyes will sparkle when they see the golden-brown pancakes steaming on their plates.

When they taste them they will wonder how you learned the secret of the old-time cooks of the South, for only the Southern pancakes we have all heard praised can compare in flavor with the cakes you can make with Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour.

The individual flavor of Aunt Jemima pancakes which makes them seem to "melt in your mouth" is due to the special formula. It was worked out with one idea in mind—to make perfect pancakes.

Everything is mixed in the flour, even the sweet milk. All the ingredients have been accurately measured and scientifically blended. You need no eggs, no milk. Just add water, and your batter is ready to make delicious, always-good pancakes with the real Aunt Jemima flavor.

Tomorrow have these pancakes or the equally delicious Aunt Jemima buckwheat cakes. Hear your family call them the best cakes they ever ate.

WHITE TRUCKS

War conditions will prove quickly what years of peace service have been steadily evincing; that the best trucks are the cheapest. They last longer, do more work, cost less to operate.

The Merchant, Manufacturer or Retailer who would continue to give prompt service to his customers will have to throw an increased burden upon his motor trucks. The radius of truck operation must be extended to take over more of the short haul by rail. This means longer trips, heavier going, all weather duty, constant operation. With a shortage of man power, especially of drivers, each truck unit will be taxed to its limit.

Prepare to meet these conditions now, by fortifying your hauling equipment with White Service Facilities and White Trucks.

THE SUPREME ISSUE.

Senator Calder, a Republican of unimpeachable regularity, for whom the Republicans of this State cast 836,298 votes a year ago when he was the party candidate for the United States Senate, says that "the supreme issue" is whether Tammany shall seize the "City Government and destroy, for at "least four years, all that has been "won by Fusion." He will vote for Mayor Mitchel, he confidently expects to see Mayor Mitchel re-elected.

State Controller Eugene M. Travis, a faithful Republican, will vote for Mayor Mitchel. In his judgment there is "only one choice for those "citizens to make who are opposed to "the reinstatement in this city of "Tammany Hall government, with all "its attendant evils." Mr. Frederick J. Kracke, a Republican leader in Brooklyn and present City Commissioner of Plant and Structures, supports Mayor Mitchel. "It is in accord with good citizenship," he says, "to "do the most effective thing to pre"vent the incoming of Tammany Hall, "with its accompanying wastefulness, "inefficiency, and special privileges."

The re-election of Mayor Mitchel is, indeed, the supreme issue. It is an issue of vital importance not only to the Administration in the city, but to the good name and repute of the city. Is the electorate of New York City, then, so fickle and changeable that after giving Mr. Mitchel, Fusion candidate for Mayor, 358,181 votes in 1913, it can now, four years later, face about and vote into that office John F. Hylan, a candidate destitute of any visible qualifications for the place, can vote into power Murphy and Hearst, can throw the city, with all its wealth and all its great interests, greatest of all the welfare and happiness of the people, into the hands of Tammany?

Have the people of this city no steadiness, no consistent view of their own interest, that they are thought capable of such an amazing and causeless reversal of their decision of four years ago? In 1913 the voters rejected Justice McCall; will they now take up with Judge Hylan? It is incomprehensible, unbelievable. Edward E. McCall was a massive and conspicuous figure compared with Hylan. He had been eleven years on the Supreme Bench, and he was Chairman of the Public Service Commission. The people knew him, knew his views and capacities. They never heard of Hylan until he was plucked out of his obscure surroundings for this nomination. What imp or gnome or devil of perversity and unreason would thus turn the voters of New York away from the course of safety and sober judgment into the path of recklessness and unimaginable folly?

There is no reason for the change, every reason against it. Even more urgently than was the case four years ago, the interest of the city demands the election of the Fusion Administration, an administration made up of men devoted wholly to the welfare of the city and its people, with no thought, no plans, no schemes for personal advantage or political profit. The enemies of the present administration, reckless, irresponsible, devoid of conscience, have made charges, but their falsehood is evident to every man of sufficient intelligence to weigh and examine them. It would be a dreadful indictment against the intelligence of the voters if they should be persuaded by misrepresentations to put Tammany into power. That in itself is a mighty issue of the campaign—are the voters of New York so gullible and easily misled that they will refuse now for any reason to continue in power the administration that has so splendidly vindicated the judgment they expressed four years ago when the men who have served the city so well were candidates before the people? Mr. Hylan has said that Mr. Mitchel is the best Mayor New York has had in fifty years, during which time he has studiously studied its public affairs. It passes understanding how any voter in the city not personally interested in the triumph of Tammany, with all its attendant corruptions, can withhold his vote from Mayor Mitchel and the Fusion candidates.

THE LOAN'S LAST WEEK.

In less than a week the books will close on an oversubscription of the Liberty Loan. The way to make that sure is for all concerned to act as though there were some doubt of it. It is difficult to prove that doubt, because it implies a doubt both of the worth of the bonds and of the soul of the people. On the point of worth there never was such an accumulation of reason and authority. The man who doubts that the principal and interest will be paid exactly as promised is not fit to be outside an asylum for the feeble-minded. The man who suggests the doubt which he does not believe, for reasons which would not bear examination, ought to suffer punishment. The man who believes in the loan but who turns his back on it for other investments is a profiteer, and if there is a justifiable conspiracy it is one to make trouble for profiteers in war time.

Wall Street is disciplining its profiteers in a manner worth observation for the sake of imitation in the case of other profiteers. Wall Street's profiteers have seen their bargains turned into losses until the Liberty Loan seems like their best refuge against shrinkage of their principal and interest. Excess profits have been taken away from the industrial profiteers both by taxation and by price regulation. Thus far only wage-earners and farmers have not been reasoned with in that persuasive manner. They are the very ones whose interests lie in the success of the Liberty Loan, and in their liberal support of it.

The Treasury is not asking for funds to put away. The three billions asked for, and the six billions which will be taken, are the biggest wage fund ever assembled in the sight of workers in this country. It might almost be said that the worker who promises to put some part of his wages into the bonds thereby insures himself that he shall receive the wages for that purpose. As for the farmers, they never again will have such a chance to exchange dear crops for cheap bonds. It is as sure as anything human that their crops will sell for less hereafter, and that the bonds will sell for more. The farmer who should exchange his farm, at the price for land resulting from this year's crop prices, for Liberty bonds will make more on interest than he will by farming. When crops are cheaper, farms will be lower and Liberty bonds will be higher.

Let those who hesitate consider this point: The 4 per cent. bonds of the second Liberty Loan, in the judgment of experienced financiers, will go to a premium, giving the buyers not merely good interest but a profit besides. If they do not go to a premium, if because of the vicissitudes of war or Government finance they should fall below par, there is every probability that the next loan will bear a higher rate of interest, higher than 4 per cent., and these bonds would be exchangeable for bonds of that issue.

JUSTICE ORDWAY.

Samuel H. Ordway was appointed a Justice of the Supreme Court last January to succeed Justice Cardozo, made an Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals. A graduate of Brown University and the Harvard Law School, he has been a member of the New York bar for more than thirty years, engaged with distinction and success in the general practice of the law, and associated with colleagues of such professional eminence as Albert Stickney and Edward M. Shepard. His standing at the bar may be judged not only from the important cases in which he has been employed, but by the fact that in 1906 he was a Bar Association nominee for Supreme Court Justice, and his petition was signed by 2,400 lawyers.

A Cleveland Democrat, and later a Republican, in politics as in the other duties of a good citizen he has worked steadily for the right, as he saw it, and for the welfare of the city, the State, and the nation. His appointment as a special Assistant District Attorney by District Attorney Philbin in 1901 to investigate the scandals in the Fire Department, by Governor Higgins as a member of the State Tax Commission, by Governor Hughes as a member of the Stock Exchange Commission, indicates both the range of his mind and the confidence in his clearness and impartiality of judgment.

Civil service reform has scarcely a more loyal or more effective friend; or one whose work has been more constant and fruitful in the last twenty years. Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Civil Service Reform Association since 1907, and efficiently active in that as in every other labor for good government, his appointment by Governor Whitman as Chairman of the State Civil Service Commission gave him the opportunity, with his associates, to enforce rigidly the civil service law. Some of the Republican office holders and office seekers raged. There as elsewhere Mr. Ordway was just, firm, impartial, subject to no exterior influence.

On the bench Justice Ordway has shown conspicuously the qualities appropriate to his office—strong and clear intellect, ample, thorough knowledge of the law, courtesy, dignity, absolute fairness, and integrity. He is a Justice of the best type, such as we do not too often get. He is eminently fit for the place. He has proved his eminent fitness. He should be elected.

"NOT SOCIALISTIC."

Congressman Meyer London, Socialist, delivered a campaign speech Sunday night which did not in all respects please his audience. Some of them muttered, and one said that he "ought to be read out of the party like Charles Edward Russell." The Socialist candidate for Assembly in that district, who followed him, felt the hostility, and undertook to defend Mr. London, which he did in these remarkable terms:

> Many of us disagree with Mr. London, but he has a right to his personal opinion. He gave vent to certain sentiments that were not socialistic, but they were his, and I want to say that he has a perfect right to say what he likes, for no Socialist is controlled by the organization.

What were these "sentiments that were not socialistic," but for which Mr. Claessens claimed the sanctuary of free speech? Mr. London said that Belgium must be restored, that the Germans must quit France, that Socialists could not afford to be indifferent to the outcome of the war, that the war must go on until some basis is found "whereby a recurrence of the tragedy will be impossible." And for saying these things he is defended on the ground that he has a right to his opinion, even though it is "not socialistic."

Not socialistic! What is socialism, then? It is "not socialistic" to want Belgium restored; "not socialistic" to stand with the victim against the oppressor? What is there in the teachings of Karl Marx, or of any Socialist, that makes this "not socialistic"? The French and Belgian Socialists, then, are guilty of heresy, of holding doctrines that are "not socialistic." The Socialists of New York have set up a new kind of socialism, a new standard for Socialists who wish to be regular. Is it socialism at all? Or have they cut loose from the old moorings and adopted a new socialism which no great Socialist from Marx down would recognize? What is the difference between socialism and pro-Germanism, and what is the difference between pro-Germanism and support of a militarist autocracy? Meyer London is a heretic not to socialism but to Kaiserism, but socialism today in New York means not socialism but Kaiserism, and, therefore, he is a heretic in truth.

FOR REGISTER OF NEW YORK COUNTY.

As Register of New York County John J. Hopper has but to make use of the talent for organization, the instinct for simplified and economical administration, the constructive talent, and the business sense that marked his career as an engineer and the builder of great public works. He has urged the consolidation of the county offices, the abolition of useless places. He has labored in season and out of season for the amendment of the law for the registration of real estate titles so that citizens of this State may have the same advantages that are enjoyed by fourteen other States under the Torrens system, for a genuine Torrens law, whereby the title of real estate will be officially guaranteed without the payment of new fees with every transfer.

Mr. Hopper has managed his office admirably and in the public interest. He has introduced reforms. He has sought reforms that are in the public interest. He has been a highly capable Register and he should be kept in office.

A MODERN GLADIATOR.

With Robert Fitzsimmons passed away a protagonist of an ancient profession which has always been more or less honored. He had the paralyzing blow of Epeius and the subtle skill in attack of Entellus. Indeed, he resembled both. It will be remembered that when Epeius, builder of the wooden horse, knocked out Eurtalus at the games that were held to do honor to the shade of Patroclus, and battered Eurtalus lay prone and witless on the ground,

> Brave Epeius took him by the hand, and raised him up.

So in our day Mr. Fitzsimmons had pity on the state of Mr. John Dempsey in their no less classic encounter at New Orleans, praying his seconds to lead the spent hero of many unsullied triumphs from the ring. Mr. Fitzsimmons was the modern Entellus. Dares, the Trojan, defied all comers at the games in memory of Anchises. Mighty in stature and formidable in brawn was Dares. There was a fearful silence, and hearts sank low, until Entellus, the Sicilian, cast his blood-stained cesti into the ring. He comes down to us as an aged, ill-favored, but sinewy man, apparently no match physically for champion Dares. It was a tremendous battle, and all seemed to be over for Entellus when, "trying for a knockout," he missed his "lead" and fell heavily in the arena. But in the uproar old Entellus scrambled to his feet, and, evading the rush of Dares, used both his cestus-clad hands with such punishing effect on the Trojan that Aeneas, to save that hero from a knockout, waved the aggressive Entellus aside and put an end to an encounter so hopeless for Dares. A good deal more than 2,000 years later Mr. Fitzsimmons at Carson City played the part of Entellus and Mr. James J. Corbett that of Dares.

How Mr. Fitzsimmons would have acquitted himself in the Greek and Trojan sports can be only conjecture. With bare hands he should have sent some of the heroes of antiquity to sleep, for they had no "straight left," and the forearm blow, the "jolt," which Mr. Fitzsimmons brought to such perfection, was unknown to them. They swung and they hammered, and both Homer and Virgil tell of the "falling blow." Thus Epeius full on the cheek of Eurtalus "let fall a staggering blow." The Greeks allowed no wrestling, no grappling; their rules for boxing resembled the conditions drawn up in 1867 by John C. Chambers, since known as the Marquis of Queensberry rules. As for the brutality inseparable from those old encounters with cesti, (from our point of view,) it was scarcely worse than what was seen on the Farnsborough turf when Tom Sayers and John C. Heenan battled savagely for more than two hours with bare hands (pickled in the case of Sayers) for the championship of the world.

Mr. Fitzsimmons never went to Congress, as did Mr. John Morrissey, pride of the Bowery, in New York's unregenerate days. They were different types, but even Tammany Hall would hesitate now to give its countenance to a champion pugilist. The case of John Gully, a respected member of the House of Commons, is not in point, for when Mr. Gully was in his prime as a hero of the prize ring, pugilism was held in such high esteem that Parliament would empty to see a bout for the championship. Mr. Fitzsimmons was first and last a gladiator, and in our day, while we admire manly courage and put the skillful boxer on a pedestal, as of old, we do not glorify the gladiator and give him preferment. At the present time we think that the right place for the professional boxer is the firing line in France, and some of the guild, to their honor, are of the same opinion.

THE ENEMY'S FOOD SUPPLY.

To the accumulation of evidence that shortage of food in Germany and Austria will hasten the coming of peace have now been added the censored report of a debate in the Budget Committee of the Prussian Diet and our Food Administration's analysis of the weekly ration which the German people are allowed to have. This ration, for seven days, is four and one-half pounds of bread, half a peck of potatoes, a cupful of beans, peas, and oatmeal, half a pound of meat, twelve lumps of sugar, less than three ounces of butter, and an equal quantity of other fats. A standard ration, with which the Food Administration makes comparison, using chemical terms, has two and one-half times as much body-building protein, almost twice as much fat, and nearly two and one-half times the quantity of carbohydrates. And yet the standard selected is sufficient only for persons in sedentary occupations. Undoubtedly, as the Food Administration says, the German ration is much less than is required to maintain bodily health and vigor.

But it is all that conditions permit, and the Budget Committee's debate supports our recent prediction that it would be reduced. The allowance of bread can be continued only by use of substitutes, and the supply may be exhausted before the end of the crop year. The committee foresees that there must be even less than half a pound of meat and two and four-fifths ounces of butter.

The new crops of grain are very small, and Germany can no longer look to the neighboring neutrals for such quantities of food as have been coming from them in the last two years. Their crops also are deficient, and they are appealing for help to support their own people. Germany still tries to trade coal for food in Holland, and her need accounts for the recent refusal to assure safety for Dutch ships if they should attempt to bring coal from England. One cause of revolt in the navy was lack of sufficient food, and this has made strikes at the coal mines. Great unrest and food riots in the coming Winter may be expected. There are new reports which show shortage of the metals required for munitions, of rubber, and of cotton for explosives. Almost daily there is additional evidence to support and confirm our Government's determination so to control exports that neither food nor materials for war shall go to Germany from this continent, and to use its influence in legitimate ways to prevent transportation of them from countries south of us.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Some Nations Need No Credit.

Nothing could be more likely to interfere with the preparations, financial and other, of the United States for effective participation in the war than the spreading widely through our population of the opinion that Germany's strength is almost spent and that at almost any moment she may make an unconditional surrender. The assertions to this effect are in some cases sincere enough, being based on the transmutation of hope or desire into belief, which is a phenomenon familiar to all psychologists. In other, and probably more numerous, instances, this theory, when not a part of pacifist or pro-German propaganda, is explicable in the same way that Macaulay explains the incompetence displayed by the younger Pitt in conducting the war with France—it was due to his failure to understand that he was dealing with an enemy of a new kind.

The passage reads:

> He was obstinately blind to the plain fact that he was contending against a State that was also a sect, and that the new quarrel between England and France was of quite a different kind from the old quarrels about colonies in America and fortresses in the Netherlands. He had to combat frantic enthusiasm, boundless ambition, restless activity, the wildest and most audacious spirit of innovation, and he acted as if he had to deal with the harlots and fops of the old Court of Versailles, with Mme. de Pompadour and the Abbe de Bernis. It was pitiable to hear him, year after year, proving to an admiring audience that the wicked republic was exhausted, that her credit was gone, and her assignats were not worth more than the paper of which they were made; as if credit was necessary to a Government of which the principle was rapine, as if Alson could not turn Italy into a desert till he had negotiated a loan at 5 per cent., as if the exchange bills of Attila had been at par.

Our own Government has not made this mistake, and it neither cherishes nor expresses the illusion that the end of the war is so near that preparation for a long, hard fight is needless. It is in other circles that such false confidence exists, and its main support, always, is the same misinterpretation of Germany's economic condition that Pitt then made of the French Republic's.

A Disastrous Ending of a Raid.

Before contrasting the success of the Zeppelins in getting safely away from England after their latest raid, in spite of all that the defenders of London could do, with the fact that the French aviators and artillerists were able to destroy or capture at least four of the big airships before they could reach German territory, all the circumstances must be considered. The first and most important reason why such a comparison is unfair lies in the fact that the British had to fight in darkness, while the French had the advantage of attacking in broad daylight. On the other hand, in the first case the raid was unexpected, while in the second the assailants had hours of warning and they had to deal with an enemy whose supply of ammunition had been exhausted.

To say this, however, is in no degree to depreciate the achievement of the French. The work that confronted them they did, and did more than well, and there is much interest as well as some importance in the fact that one of the Zeppelins—a Zeppelin of the latest type—they were able to take alive, as it were. It is, of course, the aim of the Germans, in case of compulsion to descend in hostile territory, promptly to burn their machine in order that the secrets of its construction and management may not be learned by their enemies. So quick and easy is the destruction by fire of the "balloon with a paddle" that, hitherto, when the destroying was not well begun before the airship reached the ground and completed by the crash with which it landed, this has always been done. But so prompt was the seizure of the Zeppelin driven to earth at Bourbonnes-les-Bains that the torch could not be applied.

The French engineers, therefore, can study it at their leisure. That will be of some advantage to the Allies, but rather in the way of perfecting their defensive measures than in the way, of copying what they see, for the Zeppelin, as an instrument of war, is of utility so narrowly limited that it appeals only to Germans, and even they have come to realize the superiority of the airplane for everything except the killing of non-combatants and the wrecking of private property. Perhaps the Germans themselves will not claim that their latest invasion of England was a profitable one.

Congenial Friends at Dinner.

That the German Emperor has no sense of humor has been proved by hundreds of his speeches and by as many of his acts. That what he said and did not infrequently has had its amusing element is due only to the fact that he habitually sees himself in a way quite different from the way in which he is seen by people who are not survivals of the feudal age, and who, therefore, cannot take seriously, as he does, the theory that he rules by divine right and that his responsibilities are only to the tribal divinity on whom alone he confesses dependence.

The oration delivered by the Kaiser at the stately dinner that terminated his visit to Constantinople illustrated anew and strikingly what may be called his anachronistic quality, but it showed so much more than a lack of the humorous sense that only the most determined of cynics will be able to laugh in this instance. It is not ludicrous—it causes the feeling of shame and humiliation that always comes over the observer of a shameful and humiliating act by a fellow-man—that this representative of a once-respected nation should have spoken with joy and pride of his alliance with the Sultan, and have boasted of it as a thing of the future as well as of the past and present.

Of the massacred Armenians whose heaped-up corpses are still unburied in the desert the Kaiser evidently had as little thought as he had of the world's judgment either of the Sultan's Government or of his own. There is something horrible and indecent, as well as something terrible, about such callousness as his, and about the complaisance with which he prophesied an interminable confederacy of Germany, Turkey, and Bulgaria against the rest of Europe. The anachronism ceases to be amusing.

Appealing to Russian Humor.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The cartoon in today's Magazine Section, "Anything to help you?" is a most striking and brilliant illustration of the characteristic trait of Russia's disposition. It is worth while to recall the epochal Russian type so vividly depicted by one of her great novelists, Gontchareff, in his famous novel, "Oblomov," Send it to Russia. It speaks better than books. And the Russians are masters in seeing the tragedy of reality through the prism of humor. Recall their master humorists like Gogol and Tschedrin.

THE FLOWER GIRLS.

Poor Turkish girls who "offered flowers."
What were you offered, otherwise?
A bowstring in no hidden guise—
Gehenna, not Mahomet's bowers?

Your sisters—Belgian, French and Poles—
Sisters condemned to different roles—
Would say, "Less hideous are ours!"

Poor girl who to the Kaiser cowers,
A happier fate had she who fell
A victim to the Hunnish Hell,
Than she who offers Wilhelm flowers!

Treasury Officials Quickly Recall Order Permitting Importation of Certain Distilled Spirits

UP TO ATTORNEY GENERAL

Interpretation of Revenue Law by Solicitor Accepted by Department Now Is to be Reviewed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Instructions to all customs collectors to admit to entry distilled spirits produced abroad prior to Oct. 3, last, "either for beverage purposes or for other than beverages purposes," were made public and recalled within a few hours today by the Treasury Department.

The issuance of the instructions, which were sent out by Assistant Secretary Rowe last Saturday, was based upon an interpretation of the food and revenue laws given by Lawrence Becker, Solicitor for the Treasury Department, an official of the Department of Justice. Mr. Becker ruled that the revenue law approved Oct. 3 repealed provisions of the food control law which flatly prohibited the importation of distilled spirits. Now the question has been placed before the Attorney General for a decision, and in the meantime the food law prohibition remains in effect.

That section of the food law, passed Aug. 10, after prohibiting the manufacture of distilled beverages in this country, says: "Nor shall there be imported into the United States any distilled spirits." Section 301 of the revenue law, passed nearly two months later, provides:

> That no distilled spirits produced after the passage of this act shall be imported into the United States from any foreign country or from the West Indian Islands, recently acquired from Denmark, (unless produced from products the growth of such island, and not then into any State or Territory or district of the United States in which the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor is prohibited) or from Porto Rico or the Philippine Islands.

Mr. Becker held that the words, "produced after the passage of this act," in the revenue law, in effect, permitted the admission to entry of spirits distilled prior to the enactment of the law. In recalling the instructions high officials took the stand that the question was one of such magnitude that Attorney General Gregory should pass upon it.

The effect of the decision of the solicitor would be to make available for importation and consumption here the great store of whisky, cordials, liqueurs, and other beverages produced abroad prior to the enactment of the revenue law. It also would permit importation of spirits distilled from Virgin Island products either before or after the revenue bill became law.

How far Mr. Becker's interpretation of the law became operative before the recall of instructions is unknown. The instructions were forty-eight hours old when recalled. The Collector at New York, for example, had all of today in which to permit the entry of distilled spirits into the country.

Such admission applied not only to importations arriving today but also to shipments reaching the United States at any time after the enactment of the food control law and seized by customs officials to await final disposition by the department.

"In view of the foregoing decision," the recalled instructions said, "that the prohibition of the importation of distilled spirits contained in Section 15 of the act approved Aug. 10, is repealed by Section 301 of the act of Oct. 3, distilled spirits imported prior to Oct. 4, 1917, and refused entry and seized by Collectors under the provisions of regulations issued by the Treasury Department Aug. 20, may be released and admitted to entry."

If acted upon today, the effect of these instructions would have been to admit into the country large stores of such importations.

T. N. T. AND NEW YORK GAS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial article in today's Times, "T. N. T. for Our Army in France," there is a slight error in regard to the action of this commission which I desire to correct. You state: "The commission in the First District is now holding hearings to decide whether there shall be the change in the thermal standard desired," &c.

The commission upon its own resolution was holding a hearing to determine the advisability of changing the present candle power standard to the British thermal unit standard for the measurement of gas. The testimony adduced from the leading experts upon the subject had established the superiority of the British thermal unit standard, both scientifically and practically. While these hearings were in progress the commission received a direct appeal from General Crozier, Chief of the Ordnance Department of the United States Army, setting forth the necessity that confronted the army in its need for toluol. Within twenty-four hours after a conference with General Crozier's representatives the Public Service Commission, on Oct. 13, entered the order which will give freedom to the gas companies to change their standard of measurement so as to make practical the extraction of toluol. In my opinion, which was concurred in by all my fellow-Commissioners, it is stated:

> A national emergency now confronts the commission, which makes it imperative that, in the exercise of powers conferred upon the commission, it take action more immediate than was originally contemplated to co-ordinate the industry of manufacturing and supplying gas in the City of New York to paramount national needs. Any delay in the action necessary to place the companies in a position to meet the requisition of the Government for a certain by-product of gas which can be recovered in sufficient quantity only if gas be manufactured under a thermal standard would jeopardize national interests. The Federal Government has made direct representations to the commission that it is urgently necessary that the operations of the principal gas plants in this city and elsewhere be made available for the production of an important ingredient essential to war operations. To accomplish this it becomes necessary for the period of war to permit the gas companies to exercise the option of furnishing gas on a thermal basis.

The gas department of the commission had made extensive tests, covering a period of eight months, to determine as nearly as it was scientifically ascertainable the thermal units of gas now furnished consumers under the present twenty-two candle power standard, as fixed by law. These tests and the testimony of experts led the commission to fix 650 thermal units as that equivalent. The order of the commission provided that if the thermal content of the gas is reduced below this equivalent by reason of the extraction of the by-product to meet the needs of the Government the price of the gas furnished to consumers shall be reduced by a discount in proportion to the decreased thermal content. In other words, the consumer will pay for his gas at the same rate that he does today; if his gas should be reduced in quality, the price he pays will be correspondingly reduced.

There can be no loss to the company by reason of this reduction, as the representatives of General Crozier assured me that the Government is prepared to make good any loss to the company, should there be any, and to pay for the installation of the necessary plants.

The commission by its decision, promptly meeting the needs of the Government, has conserved the interests of the consumers as well as those of the gas companies, who are free to complete their arrangements with the Government in the supply of toluol.

MRS. WHITNEY WARREN PAYS

Miss Burden and Mrs. Dows Also Settle Government Suit.

Arrangements have been completed for the settlement of the civil suit brought by the Government against Mrs. Charlotte A. Warren, wife of Whitney Warren, the architect; Miss Evelyn Burden, sister of I. Townsend Burden, and Miss Burden's sister, Mrs. Gwendolyn Dows, for the collection of $11,008.33, the full "home value" of a quantity of wearing apparel brought into this country from France in November, 1915, and alleged to have been undervalued. It is charged that Mrs. Warren declared the value to be $1,500, but the Government experts alleged that the actual value was $7,638.05, which, with the duty of $3,972.27, made up the Government's claim.

Of the total amount, Mrs. Warren has already delivered a check for $5,582.14 and Miss Burden and Mrs. Dows, it was said, have agreed to pay $5,595.55 and $430.63, respectively. News of the payment followed the appearance before Judge Ervin, in the Criminal Branch of the Federal District Court yesterday morning, of counsel for Mrs. Warren, who asked that the trial of their client on an indictment charging her with undervaluing the property be adjourned until Nov. 5. This was granted.

When Judge Manton fined Miss Burden he told her that if she had gone to trial and insisted on her innocence he would have been obliged to send her to prison. Miss Burden's counsel, in seeking leniency, said that she was deeply penitent for the mistake she had made in representing that a cloak intended for her mother was of native origin. Mrs. Dows has never been implicated in the criminal proceedings.

CROWDS AT BRADY ART SALE

Great crowds have been visiting the exhibition of the "costly furnishings and embellishments," as the catalogue says, of the residence of the late James Buchanan Brady, "Diamond Jim," whose sale opened today at the American Art Galleries, but the first numbers on the catalogue were not of sufficient personal interest to bring large prices. There were the Chinese and Japanese ivory carvings, small bronzes and porcelains. The returns for the 232 numbers of the sale were $4,852.

A pair of Japanese ivories brought the highest price of the day, two full ears of corn treated with great realism by Ryuyei, went to M. Ellis for $85. Three interesting examples of Japanese carving, signed Saneyoshi, small clam shells, partially open, each showing within villages scenes with carved ivory figures in miniature, went to Frank Lambert for $75. Two ornaments, each in form of a Mosque portico, with a minaret and praying Mohammedan on a rug, equipped with electric light, went, one to O. Wilson for $80, and the other to G. Oppenheim for $77.

More carvings, porcelains, and paintings on porcelain will be sold today.

PROTEST ANTI-PICKET FLAG.

Some members of the National Woman's Party, the membership of which includes women who have been on picket duty at the White House and were imprisoned, have protested against an anti-picket banner which is to be carried in the patriotic suffrage procession of the New York State Woman's Suffrage Party next Saturday. Fifteen or twenty young women members of the National Woman's Party, who were to parade, will decline to enter the procession, but instead will hold a protest meeting at Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's suffrage headquarters at 15 East Forty-first Street.

Mrs. John Rogers, Jr., who was one of the first pickets to be imprisoned in Washington, will head a group of Woman's Party members, who will sell The Suffragist on the street the day of the parade. The Suffragist is the organ of the National Party, and tells of the work of the pickets and their experiences in the workhouse at Occoquan. No demonstration will be made.

ALICE PAUL SENTENCED.

She and Caroline Spencer Get Seven Months for Suffrage Picketing.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Alice Paul, Chairman of the Woman's Party, and Caroline Spencer of Colorado Springs, were sent to jail today to serve seven months for picketing the White House.

In police court a thirty-day sentence for Saturday's offense was added to the six-month sentence for a previous offense on Oct. 4.

ITALIAN CRISIS IMMINENT.

Hope Expressed That Sonnino May Aid Cabinet Reconstruction.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

ROME, Oct. 22.—The apparent improvement in the Parliamentary situation has turned out to be only momentary. The partisans of Giolitti, the democratic Left, Radicals, Nationalists, and Clericals have all decided to oppose the Ministry.

The principal argument of the supporters of the Government, among whom is Deputy Grippo, is that Baron Sonnino, the Foreign Minister, having declared his loyalty to Premier Boselli, would not consent to remain in office under another chief. However, it is hoped that if there is an overwhelming demand for a reorganization of the Cabinet, and the new Ministers request his co-operation, Sonnino will not refuse it.

From present indications, only an unforeseen shift of opinion can save the Boselli Ministry.

TO CONTEST PALMER'S WILL.

Engineer's Widow Objects to Fund Left to Miss Gilchrist.

The will of Cortlandt E. Palmer, a mining engineer who lived at 15 West Ninth Street, and died on Sept. 2 at his country home at Arlington, Vt., disposes of an estate of more than $150,000 in real and personal property. Mr. Palmer gave 40 per cent. of his residuary estate and an income of $100 a month for a year to his friend, Miss Halley Phillips Gilchrist of Arlington, Vt., and also gave her his "body as soon as I shall be dead, to be disposed of as she may see fit."

The will left 40 per cent. of the residue in trust to the widow, Mrs. Katherine Van A. Palmer, who conducts a music studio at 137 East Nineteenth Street, and set aside an income of $150 a month for her. Mrs. Palmer announced yesterday that she would contest the will because she felt that to permit it to be probated would "legalize his manner of living with the woman who supplanted me in his affections." She said that she separated from her husband seven years ago because both were "temperamentally unsuited."

Upon the death of the widow and Miss Gilchrist the principal of the trust funds left to them will be divided between the decedent's aunt, Mrs. William C. Palmer of 1,104 McCullough Street, Baltimore, and his cousin, Kingsland Lee Hardenbrook of Providence.

Philip Boileau, Artist, Left $4,179.

The estate of Philip Boileau, artist and illustrator, who died on Jan. 18 last, was appraised yesterday at $4,170 gross and $3,132 net, all of which went to his wife, Emily G. Boileau, under a will made the day before his death. The chief asset was his home at Douglaston, L. I., appraised at $2,500. His personal effects, including all his paintings and sketches, were worth $1,420. The most valuable oil painting, "The Vampire," was appraised at $100, while thirty-eight pastels, sketches, and paintings were valued at only $5 each.

DENIES P. S. BOARD RULING IS COSTLY

BLAMES THE CONTRACTOR

Merchants Had Asserted That Refusal to Allow $1,400 Item Would Cost the City $500,000.

Public Service Commissioner Travis H. Whitney replied yesterday to the assertion in the annual report of E. W. Estes, Executive Secretary of the Broadway Association, that the Public Service Commission, by refusing to allow a legitimate charge of $1,400 to cover the increased cost of iron, had balked a plan to increase entrance and exit facilities in connection with the Times Square Station of the new Broadway subway line, which would have cost only $75,000 while the station was under construction, and will later have to be installed at a cost, under the new conditions, of about $500,000.

While this matter was handled at the time by Commissioner Hodge, who is now a Major in charge of the building of General Pershing's communications in France, Mr. Whitney said that he and the other Commissioners agreed with Commissioner Hodge's stand. He said that the advantages of the plan and the objections to it were about evenly balanced at the time when the contractor asked for an increase of $1,400 over the agreed price of $75,000, and that this demand turned the scale against the change. Mr. Whitney said that this plan, which provided for the building of a mezzanine, increasing the entrance and exit facilities of the new Broadway section of the Times Square Station, is not essential at present, and can easily be carried out at a moderate cost after war prices have subsided. He said:

> "Many persons and organizations interested in the Times Square section have desired more ambitious treatment for the Times Square Station than the commission felt could be afforded. This contractor, [the Holbrook, Cabot & Robbins Corporation,] apparently not making as much profit as he had hoped—not to say losing money, has been very fertile in suggestions of changes which might very possibly become the basis for claims for additional amounts. Among these proposals, one which apparently had his approval, called for very considerable changes that would have cost two or three million dollars. Then the suggestion came, I think from the contractor, that the Times Square Station south of Forty-second Street should have a mezzanine the entire distance south of the station running from building line to building line, which would cost about $150,000 more.

Provided for Narrow Mezzanine.

> "The Public Service Commission approved of this to the extent of asking the Board of Estimate for an appropriation. Some question arose, however, as to the amount of money we had to spend for work not already provided for by the contract, and we then asked for $75,000 for the so-called narrow mezzanine, coming to the conclusion that the wide mezzanine could not be justified. The wide mezzanine would have involved making underground sidewalks, which would have allowed merchants and other property owners to build in exits and entrances to their places of business, or even to put in showcases. We felt that this would be purely for private benefit, but did not object to it provided that the property owners would bear a fair share of the cost. I understand that the property owners were notified on this subject, but none was willing to pay.
> "The plan for a narrow mezzanine costing $75,000 was adopted, but the contractor then wanted to change his estimate by an increase of $1,000 or more. Commissioner Hodge went over the matter carefully. He and the other Commissioners came to the conclusion, in view of the fact that the contractor already had in an estimate of $75,000, that the new demand was just a matter of trying to take advantage of a situation. As we could not afford to waste any further time in making the station ready for operation, the commission did not feel like going to the Board of Estimate again and directed the contractor to go ahead with his original contract.
> "I am responsible for this action, and I took my position for two reasons. The first was that it was of the utmost importance to get the Broadway subway complete to Forty-second Street in order to have it in operation in early Winter to relieve the extreme congestion at this time. It was not merely a question of $1,000, but a question of postponing the completion of the station at a time when its use was of the

GARFIELD SHUTS OFF COAL FOR HOARDERS

SEES PRICES COMING DOWN

Reduced 10 to 40 Cents a Ton Here, He Says—Western Miners Returning to Work.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—With the crisis in the coal situation, caused by labor disputes and reduced production, apparently behind him, Dr. H. A. Garfield, the Fuel Administrator, considered drastic action today to restrict further shipments to hoarders and to curtail, and if necessary, eliminate delivery of large consignments to manufacturers of non-wartime commodities.

Dr. Garfield issued a statement today to the effect that reports just received by him indicated "in many sections a gratifying tendency downward in retail coal prices."

"In New York City," he said, "prices have recently been reduced by larger dealers from 10 to 40 cents a ton on various grades, and other dealers are meeting these new prices. In Harrisburg and Philadelphia retail coal prices have been reduced. In Alabama, at Birmingham, Huntsville, Selma, Talladega, and Sheffield prices have been reduced from 25 cents to $1.25 a ton."

To these quotations Dr. Garfield added the statement that labor conditions in all districts had improved to the point where there seemed no danger of further trouble, pending his announcement of his decision as to an increase in the schedule for bituminous coal at the mine which would make wage increases possible.

It was said at the Fuel Administration that further shipments had been cut off temporarily to from eight to ten firms which had more than 1,000,000 tons of soft coal hoarded in the Cleveland district, and that a complete survey of the Middle West, as well as other manufacturing sections, was being made to determine whether the policy should be extended.

"When this survey is completed," an official said, "we will have full information from at least 100,000 firms which will make it possible for us to know at a glance what they are manufacturing, how much coal they have on hand, the amount they use daily, and their contracts with mines or jobbers.

"Pending contracts will not be permitted to stand in the way either where firms which have surplus coal on hand and want more under their contracts or where these contracts affect non-essential industries which have no surplus. It would not exactly be a case of abrogating or even suspending the contracts, but simply of putting into effect the powers of the Fuel Administration under the Food Control bill for the benefit of the country. In a great national emergency there is no question of the propriety of using these powers."

It was pointed out here last night that despite these reported reductions the price of coal was still considerably higher than before the war.

Michael F. Burns, President of Burns Brothers, coal dealers, said that the price of coal varied considerably that he could not say whether Mr. Garfield's estimate of the reductions in New York was correct.

HOW MEN IN DRAFT WILL BE CLASSIFIED

Divisions of New Regulations Are Made Known by the Provost Marshal.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The five classifications into which men awaiting draft will be divided under the new regulations approved by President Wilson are as follows, and show every man registered to which class he belongs and in what order the different classifications will be called to service:

CLASS I.

1. Single men without dependent relatives.
2. Married man, (or widower,) with children, who habitually fails to support his family.
3. Married man dependent on wife for support.
4. Married man, (or widower,) with children, not usefully engaged; family supported by income independent of his labor.
5. Men not included in any other description in this or other classes.
6. Unskilled laborers.

CLASS II.

1. Married man or father of motherless children, usefully engaged, but family has sufficient income apart from his daily labor to afford reasonably adequate support during his service.
2. Married man, no children; wife can support herself decently and without hardship.
3. Skilled industrial laborers engaged in essential industrial enterprises.
4. Skilled farm laborers engaged in necessary agricultural enterprises.

CLASS III.

1. Man with foster children dependent on daily labor for support.
2. Man with aged, infirm, or invalid parents or grandparents dependent on daily labor for support.
3. Man with brothers or sisters incompetent to support themselves, dependent on daily labor for support.
4. County or municipal officer.
5. Firemen or policemen.
6. Necessary artificers or workmen in arsenals, armories, and navy yards.
7. Necessary Custom House clerk.
8. Persons necessary in transmission of mails.

FITZSIMMONSES IN CLASH.

Son Quarrels with Widow Over Disposal of Boxer's Body.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 22.—An argument over the disposal of the body of Robert Fitzsimmons, once champion heavyweight pugilist, was ended this afternoon by the refusal of Robert Fitzsimmons, Jr., to attend the funeral services planned by his stepmother. He had come to Chicago too late to see his father alive, and he insisted that the body be cremated because he said the pugilist "didn't believe in funerals."

Mrs. Fitzsimmons had bought a lot in a cemetery and planned the funeral services, and when she refused to alter the plans Robert, Jr., left for New York, saying that he would not stay for the funeral.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons gave the son all of the pugilist's trinkets and record books, and she told him that all of the diamonds and jewelry bought by the former champion had been pawned. She kept a book containing copies of the Fitzsimmons records and speeches inclosed in a case given to him by the late Richard Harding Davis, who had written this inscription on it: "To the Greatest Robert I Know."

MISS JONES ENGAGED TO SAMUEL SLOAN, 2D

Several interesting engagements have been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jones of Lawrence Park, Bronxville, N. Y., tell of the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Alice Lane Jones, to Samuel Sloan, 2d, son of the late William S. Sloan and Mrs. Sloan of 125 East Seventy-second Street. Miss Jones made her début two seasons ago.

Mr. Sloan, who is a grandson of the late Samuel Sloan, is at the Naval Militia Training School at Tarrytown. He has one brother, Julian R. Sloan, and his sisters are Helen L., Margaret E., and Edith S. Sloan. No plans have been made for the wedding.

The engagement has been made known to their friends of Miss Isadora Bliss, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester William Bliss of Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, formerly of Springfield, Mass., and Amory S. Carhart, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Amory S. Carhart of Villa Blanca, Tuxedo Park, and New York. Miss Bliss is a member of the 1916-17 Sewing Circle and of the Vincent Club.

Mr. Carhart, who is a grandson of Mrs. Henry D. Brookman of New York, has one sister, Miss Marion R. Carhart. He is in the sophomore class at Harvard. No formal announcement will be made of the engagement as Mr. Carhart is in mourning for his mother, Mrs. Marion Brookman Carhart, who died on Oct. 2.

The engagement is announced of Miss Dorothy Nicol, daughter of the Rev. W. H. Nicol, a Chaplain with the British artillery, now at the Italian front, and Mrs. Nicol of Gloucestershire, England, and Lieutenant Warren Bayley, son of Rear Admiral W. W. Bayley, U. S. N., retired, and Mrs. Bayley of Washington.

Miss Nicol is the granddaughter of Mrs. W. A. Copp of 2 East Forty-fifth Street, with whom she has made her home for the last three years. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Nov. 3, at noon, in the Chapel of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, and will be quiet owing to mourning.

Miss Nicol will have no attendants. Judge Lewis F. Fawcett of Brooklyn will give her in marriage. There will be no reception, but a breakfast for the two families will follow at the Lorraine.

Mr. Bayley and his bride will reside at Annapolis, where he is an instructor, being a graduate of the class of 1914.

OPERA FOR WAR SUFFERERS.

"La Boheme" the First in Italian Series at Brooklyn Academy.

Consul General Poccardi, with General Tozzi of Italy's War Commission, and Borough President Pounds, had boxes at the Brooklyn Academy last night when a large audience cheered the patriotic "March Reale" that opened a week of popular grand opera for the benefit of European war sufferers and of Italian benevolent institutions here.

Puccini's "La Bohème" began the series, with Agide Jacchia, approved by the composer before now in the conductor's chair, and Giuseppe de Bohemiana, including Vogliotti, Aineto, Martino, and Silva, with the accomplished Ananian as the Paris landlord, and in the women's roles, Miss Saroya as Mimi and Miss Riegelman as Musetta.

Tonight's opera will be "Lucia"; tomorrow, "Rigoletto"; Thursday, "Cavalleria" and "Pagliacci," and Friday, "The Barber of Seville."

COLONEL WELCOMED HOME.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Oct. 22.—Looking more youthful than he has in years, Colonel Roosevelt returned today from Jack Cooper's Health Farm at Stamford, fifteen pounds lighter than when he left here two weeks ago. His two grandchildren were present at the family dinner to celebrate his return.

Residents of Oyster Bay who have known Colonel Roosevelt for many years were amazed today to learn that he had lost the use of one eye years ago in a boxing match, a fact which has been unknown except to his family and a few of his intimates.

Colonel Roosevelt is to take an active speaking part in the Mitchel campaign. It was announced yesterday at the Mitchel-Fusion headquarters. He will make his first speech in the Mayor's behalf some night this week. Only one definite date has been arranged for the Colonel so far. That is to be at a mass meeting in Madison Square Garden on Thursday evening, Nov. 1.

MRS. THOMAS TO WED HERE.

Mrs. Helen Kelly Thomas and Prince Noureddin Viora of Albania, whose engagement was announced last Summer, are to be married in this city within a fortnight, according to Mrs. Thomas, who arrived here last week from Havana, accompanied by the Prince. They are now looking for an apartment and completing plans for the wedding.

The Prince is the son of his late Highness Ferid Viora Pasha, Grand Vizier of Turkey under Abdul Hamid, and his brother married the daughter of the former Khedive of Egypt.

The Prince and Mrs. Thomas, who was the former wife of Frank Gould and widow of Ralph H. Thomas, sailed from Spain on Oct. 1.

MISS COZZENS'S WEDDING.

Her Marriage to Joseph J. Bodell to be Held on Oct. 29.

The wedding of Miss Marie Christine Cozzens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley T. Cozzens of 610 Park Avenue, and Joseph James Bodell of Providence, R. I., will take place on Monday afternoon, Oct. 29, at 4 o'clock, in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, the Rev. John H. Jowett officiating.

Miss Cozzens will have Mrs. George Bourne as her matron of honor and only attendant. Frederick Bodell will act as his brother's best man, and there will be ten ushers. The stepbrother of the bride-elect, Lieutenant George Sloane, who went to Spartanburg with Squadron A, will be one of the ushers.

Zabriskie-Hyde Wedding Nov. 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Hyde, Jr., of 981 Park Avenue, have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Frances Mary Hyde, to Charles Lemaire Zabriskie of the Naval Reserves, which is to take place on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 10, in St. Thomas's Church. A reception will follow at the bride's home.

Will Wed Lieut. Badger Tomorrow.

Miss Isabelle Edna Austen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Austen of the Hotel Majestic, will be married to Lieutenant Oscar C. Badger, U. S. N., son of Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, U. S. N., retired, tomorrow evening in the ballroom of the hotel. Lieutenant Badger is attached to the battleship Arizona.

A Son in Julian B. Beaty's Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian B. Beaty are being congratulated on the birth of a son at their home, 680 West End Avenue. This is their second son, and will be named John Thurston Beaty.

WON'T LET PUPILS DOMINATE SCHOOLS

Students and Teachers Make Appeal for Modification of Present High School Rules.

John A. Whalen, Chairman of the Committee on High Schools, who heard protests against the lengthened high school day from committees representing 17,000 students and several hundred teachers of six high schools at the Board of Education rooms yesterday, declared that neither the high school boys nor the teachers "are going to run the schools." He asserted that rather than have the boys go out on strike, "make seditious speeches, and incite children to destroy property" he would close all the schools and turn the children out. The spokesmen for the students gave their personal promises that they would not go on strike but could not answer for their schools. Mr. Whalen dismissed them by directing them to aid in the sale of Liberty bonds.

The Committee on High Schools listened to the spokesmen from the students for two hours and then gave an hour and a half to the teachers. The students left the building preparing to follow the suggestion of Mr. Whalen, that they hold mass meetings and explain the proceedings of yesterday's meeting to their fellows. They were also asked by the High Schools Committee to file briefs by next Monday, after which the committee would, it was promised, deliberate on the propositions submitted.

The protest meeting of the students was an unusual demonstration. Boys and girls representing students from Wadleigh High School, High School of Commerce, De Witt Clinton High School, Eastern District, Boys' High, and Bushwick High School followed each other in rapid succession and stated clearly and concisely, in language that for preciseness and fluency equaled that of their teachers, their reasons for opposing the lengthened schoolday.

The speakers for the students were Anna Lederer, Harry Paley, Irving Sherman, A. C. Glassgold, Joseph Shapiro, and Moses Feinstein. Besides Mr. Whalen, the representatives of the Board of Education present were Dr. John S. Tildsley, Associate City Superintendent in Charge of High Schools, and the following members of the Committee on High Schools: Arthur D. Somers, Professor Franklin Giddings, Miss Olivia H. Leventritt, John H. Harkness, John Martin, and John Greene.

On opening the meetings Chairman Whalen asked the students how many of them were on strike. No hands were raised. He then tried to learn whether the students received permission from their Principals to go to the Board of Aldermen last week to register complaint against the longer day. One of the students asserted that they had been forced to go to the Board of Aldermen because their protests had not been heeded by the educational authorities. Miss Lederer's explanation was that the move was the only one the older students felt they could take to avoid a strike.

Pupils Make Their Plea.

Miss Lederer explained that more than one hundred girls have left Wadleigh this term because of the longer school day. She said the additional time was a great strain on the girls; that it made them nervous, and that it also put a ban on all extra school activities, such as clubs, hockey matches, &c.

Glassgold explained that in Boys' High School the Principal had shortened the day for 90 per cent. of the boys, and that the longer school day affects only from 500 to 600 students.

"If the program were so arranged that every boy would leave school at 2:30 would that be satisfactory?" asked Mr. Whalen. The boy said it would.

"Then, if they came at 10 o'clock, that would be more satisfactory, would it not?" sarcastically asked the Commissioner.

"Not at all," replied the boy. "We want to come early if we do not have to remain late."

Mr. Whalen read a letter which said that the anti-Gary strike had been inspired by a high school boy who addressed a meeting of parents in Public School 171 one night last week, the day preceding the riot against that school. The students present disclaimed any connection with the "hot-tempered boy."

"Then you repudiate him?" asked Mr. Whalen.

"Yes," the students answered.

Soon after Mr. Whalen made this declaration: "The high school boys of this city are not going to run the schools. Rather than have the boys go out on strike, make seditious speeches, and incite children to destroy property, make declarations against the war, and say that the Board of Education withholds information from the people, we will close."

High School Teachers Heard.

The students were told they might file briefs by Monday and the committee would take the matter under advisement.

Of the high school teachers and principals all except two opposed the longer school day. Dr. Arthur M. Wolfson, Principal of the High School of Commerce, said that as an educational experiment the longer school day is succeeding, and pointed out that the plan has succeeded in Joliet, Kansas City, and other places.

Frederic C. Lewis of Boys' High School said that the lengthened school day is "the first step toward Garyizing the schools," and this assertion was vigorously combated by Mr. Whalen. Samuel Schmalhausen or De Witt Clinton declared that the teachers, because of the long day, are unable to pursue post graduate work. At a time when the teachers expect their salaries to be increased, he said, the hours are lengthened, thus reducing their earning capacity.

The anti-Gary riots spread yesterday to the east side and to the Brownsville district of Brooklyn. Five arrests were made in Brooklyn, where it was said 10,000 pupils failed to report, and demonstrations were made against seven schools in lower Manhattan. Several score children were taken to the Fifth Street Station, where they were questioned by Captain Sweeney and allowed to go. Windows were broken in several schools, but the police dispersed the crowds about the schools without any difficulty.

The situation in Brooklyn was more serious. About 10,000 children and parents paraded as a protest against the Gary system, the high cost of living, and other things. Stones were thrown at school buildings, but there was no great disorder, though five arrests were made.

BAN JOHNSON VOLUNTEERS.

Baseball President Offers to Serve the Government Without Pay.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Ban Johnson, President of the American League, came to Washington today and went to the War Department, where he offered his services to the Government for the war in any capacity in which the Government cared to employ him.

Mr. Johnson is approaching sixty. He told the officials that he would resign as President of the American League and otherwise qualify for a position. He offered to serve without compensation. He was told that the offer would be taken under consideration.

RESERVE OFFICERS DILIGENT IN FRANCE

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, Oct. 22, (by The Associated Press.)—No more earnest young soldiers can be found in all the war zone than the graduates of the American training camps, who recently arrived in France in large numbers and have been distributed through the various military schools for intense instruction.

These reserve officers, First and Second Lieutenants, are working as hard as any private soldier who ever donned the American uniform. As a matter of fact they are actually going through drills and exercises in which they will be called on to train the men who will serve under them.

It is an inspiring sight to see them digging trenches, dressed in full equipment. First they study the ground, then outline a trench system, then dig it. When finally they take command, there is nothing they will ask their men to do that they have not themselves done. At home they learned the basic principles required in an officer. Here they are learning the practical application of the various theories of war studied beforehand.

The reserve officers work out of doors during most of the daylight hours, then attend lectures in the evening, at which they listen to actual stories of battle. Two of the lecturers are Americans who served in the British armies. These officers also lecture on life in the trenches, and, in their talk take the reserve officers from distant bases by degrees right up to the front line, showing every phase of the work in between.

The Manhattan Opera House came into its own last night as the home of gorgeous popular melodrama and spectacle. Saving the reverence of Oscar Hammerstein, "Chu Chin Chow" is also opera. All the arts of the theatre, in short, have been robbed, as Ali Baba robbed the treasure cave of Abu Hasan, to furnish forth this feast for the eyes and the ears and the imaginations of the great public.

It was Oscar Asche who first saw the possibilities of Edward Knoblauch's "Kismet" after it had been kicked about the offices of countless managers in England and America for almost two years. And now he has "told" to us this "musical tale of the East." Like "Kismet," "Chu Chin Chow" comes to us after almost two years in London. But there is a difference. Knoblauch's play, though frankly melodrama, was a very deft, even imaginative rendering of the spirit of "The Arabian Nights." It had veracious local color, the true atmosphere of the fabled Orient, and a full measure of Oriental luxury and passion. The present play lacks these finer attributes, but by the same token it sets a new mark as spectacle and as entertainment for the million.

Though this tale was "told" by Mr. Asche, (after the manner of Knoblauch,) it is surmised that at least in part the text was written by a more practiced hand. Prevailingly the dialogue is crude, though always popularly effective; but at times it breaks into lyric quips and runs with complicated rhymes and assonances, that reveal a humoresque talent of no mean order. The music, by Frederick Norton, is thoroughly in keeping. Original it is not—but it has a widely varied lilt, a salient touch in characterization, and unflagging vigor. Book and score go hand in hand, and both bespeak a guiding mind that knew very well what it was after and how to get it.

The fifteen scenes were painted by the Harkers of London, whose work has been appreciated here before, notably in the productions of Henry Irving. In themselves richly colored and imaginative, the vast dimensions of the Manhattan stake endow them with a riotous of atmospheric space and distance that make the effect literally stunning.

Kasim Baba's palace at Bagdad; the slave market at El Kabar; the Bagdad alleyway in which Ali Baba lives; the scene in the interior of Hassan's cave, heaped with gold and fine silks and jewels; a bazaar thronging with the motley population of the capital, and, finally, an orchard by moonlight, with the Forty Thieves ranged in their cruse—all are shown with kaleidoscopic variety and splendor. The senses are wooed, delighted, ravished, and astounded.

Perhaps the finest feature in so much gorgeous brilliance is in the costumes, designed by Percy Anderson. None of the men of his craft has a finer or a richer sense of color, or a greater grace and suavity in line. And now he has undergone the inevitable influence of Leon Bakst and blossoms out in effects that are as bizarre as you will.

In one scene Ali Baba's wife goes to the costumer to spend the sudden wealth he has showered on her, and model gowns are designed before her quite in the manner of shops during a thousand years since the prime of Bagdad. The scene is there, with single, double, and multiple hoops that give somewhat the effect of a Chinese pagoda; there are headpieces like a chime of temple bells; there are bustles—not where bustles have since occurred, but at the knees; there are cloths of silver and gold; brooches, jewels, and all bedizenments. In a word, Leon Bakst is far out-Baksted.

Tyrone Power plays the title role, chief of the forty thieves; and, when opportunity affords in the simply told and briskly moving story, he endows it with no small terror, not only from his commanding physique and voice but from a really vigorous imagination. Henry Dixey is Ali Baba, skipping about the stage with his familiar grace and miming in a manner grotesquely humorous. The brace of lovely heroines are played (and sung most charmingly by Tessa Kosta and Florence Reed. As Ali's son, George Rasley sang a rich tenor that was generally effective. The dancers were competent and many minor character parts were delightfully rendered. Everywhere there was evidence of a management that was as intelligent and tasteful as it was competent.

It cannot be said that, as a whole, the production has novelty or any rare distinction, but it has all the qualities to which the great public instinctively responds, and which may well reward the most fastidious. There is no doubt that the great Lo-don success will be repeated here—perhaps surpassed.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The first performance of "The Old Country" will take place at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre on Tuesday of next week, instead of Monday.

Two hundred employes of the Liberty Loan Committee were guests of Grace George at last night's performance of "Eve's Daughter," at the Playhouse.

The Brooklyn Institute Players will give their first performance of the season at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, on Nov. 2 and 3. They will present Henry Arthur Jones's comedy, "Dolly Reforming Herself."

TRAIN UPTON TROOPS FOR TRENCH WORK

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, Yaphank, L. I., Oct. 22.—The War Department's sixteen weeks' course of intensive training in trench warfare, as arranged for all divisions of the national army, was begun by the New York City division today. From now until Washington's Birthday the soldiers at Camp Upton will have an eight-hour day of drills, lectures, and exercises leading up to a course of training behind the lines in France. Unnecessary military frills will be discarded, the object being to produce in as short a time as possible an efficient fighting unit well grounded in trench warfare.

To combat the German Army, where two years of training elapse before an infantryman is considered serviceable for war, this four months' intensive training for the national army must eliminate everything not deemed essential for trench warfare. The things held most essential for the success of the program are patriotism and team work, discipline, and physical development. Much of the discipline will be instilled through the medium of close order drill, for European observers report that the best marching regiments are also the best fighting regiments. Physical development is held absolutely essential for success with the bayonet.

A complete system of trenches, reproducing in the minutest detail a sector of the western front, will be constructed at each national army cantonment. The trenches will be situated so that artillery positions can be occupied, enabling the guns to fire service ammunition. In addition a system of enemy trenches must be built, which the men will attack, under a barrage of artillery fire. Owing to the high cost of materials needed for trench construction the trenches will not be over 800 yards in length. This system, however, will be large enough to be held by a battalion of 1,000 men, and, after completion of the trenches, they will be occupied continuously by the different infantry battalions in the division. Carrying out further war conditions, the trenches will be dug by the infantry under supervision of the engineer regiment.

As in France one private of the Engineers may have charge of fifteen or twenty infantrymen who will do the actual digging. War maps of the trench systems will be drawn and the scale will be made to conform with the measurements on French and British war maps.

Particular emphasis will be laid on work at night. This includes nocturnal occupation of trenches, trench raids, and night construction of trenches. The new recruits will be ready for bayonet exercises at the end of two weeks, and an average of four hours a week will be devoted to practice with this weapon for the remainder of the course. To give the men the necessary physical endurance for bayonet work, physical training will go hand in hand with bayonet practice. From four to six hours weekly the men will engage in setting-up exercises.

By the tenth week the specialists rendered necessary by the reorganization of the army for trench warfare will be chosen. Men who have shown particular skill as bombers, map sketchers, snipers, and automatic riflemen will be selected for five weeks' intensive instruction in their chosen branches. At least a quarter of the enlisted infantry personnel will be trained as hostile trench patrols.

LAUDER STIRS BIG AUDIENCE

Sings a War Song Among New Numbers on His Reappearance Here.

Harry Lauder resumed his conquering way last night at the Lexington Theatre, beginning a presumably farewell American tour which will carry him over most of the country. An audience which packed the auditorium to the walls vociferously applauded his songs and then cheered itself hoarse when Lauder paid tribute to the men in France and told something of his experiences on the other side. Seldom, in fact, has a New York audience been so aroused, and their enthusiasm was an eloquent tribute to the powers of Lauder, who moved them to alternate laughter and tears.

The Lauder songs, of course, are more than songs. They are character studies, and in their rendition last night Lauder proved once more that he is the best of all solo entertainers. The best of his new numbers is a swinging war song, "The Lads Who Fought and Won," and there also is an entertaining number called "I'm Going to Marry Arry on the Fifth of January." The only one of his old songs which he gave last night was "The Wee House Among the Heather," rendered after loud and persistent demands from the audience. "It is nae more a song; it's a hymn," was Lauder's introductory phrase.

MUSIC NOTES.

Geraldine Farrar will sing as a volunteer for the Pension Fund of the Boston Symphony next Sunday in the band's home town, where she appears "for the first and only time this season," giving an air from "Tannhauser" and three of Wagner's orchestrated songs.

Marie Bailly, the new solo harpist of the Symphony Society, has arrived from France at an Atlantic port in time for rehearsals with the orchestra. Miss Bailly was formerly a member of the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra.

Elizabeth Jones, contralto, will be soloist tonight with the New York Community Chorus in the Great Hall of City College. She will sing the aria "Adieu, de Foretz," from Tschaikowsky's "Jeanne d'Arc." A soloist at next week's meeting will be the harpist, Carlos Salzedo.

THE EDITH RUBEL TRIO.

An Organization of Young Women Plays in Aeolian Hall.

The Edith Rubel Trio, an organization of young women that has already made a name for itself in New York, appeared last evening in Aeolian Hall. A change has been made in it whereby the pianist is now Miss Katharine Swife, daughter of the late Samuel Swift, well known in New York in former years as a musical critic. The others are Edith Rubel, violin, and Marie Roemaet, 'cello, and all are very recent graduates of the Institute of Musical Art in this city.

The young women play with skill, intelligence, and musical feeling. There was an air of seriousness and genuine musicianship about their performance. It was excellent ensemble playing. Their program included Beethoven's introduction and variations on the theme "Ich bin der Schneider Kakadu," in which there is a comic spirit fitting the sentiment of the theme; a sonata for pianoforte and 'cello by Corelli; Svetana's trio in G minor, and a series of folk songs arranged by Hermann Sandby and Percy Grainger, with other arrangements of pieces by Debussy. The pianoforte playing of the new member, Miss Swift, was charming in its grace, its firm delicacy, its suppleness, and restraint.

SAM BERNARD AT PALACE.

A Patriotic Play, "The Bonfire of Old Empires," Also on the Bill.

Sam Bernard returned to the varieties at the Palace yesterday afternoon and will continue in that field until his services are required by Manager Hitchcock. Both his dialect and shoes, needless to add, are just as humorous as ever.

Also on the program is a patriotic number called "The Bonfire of Old Empires," the work of Marion Craig Wentworth, who wrote "War Brides." It is a piece cut to the familiar patriotic pattern, and is not at all likely to increase the author's reputation. John B. Hymer brings back his interesting sketch, "Tom Walker in Dixie," and the program also includes Marie Nordstrom and the energetic Nonette.

To Vote Monday at Spartanburg.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WADSWORTH, SPARTANBURG, S. C., Oct. 22.—Charles W. Taft, representing Francis M. Hugo, Secretary of State of New York, arrived at the camp today to arrange for the casting of the soldier vote. The entire division will vote next Monday, ten days before Election Day, and Mr. Taft came prepared to handle 40,000 ballots.

Sarah Bernhardt Is 73 Today.

Sarah Bernhardt is 73 years old today. She is at present making one of the most arduous tours of her career, and is spending her birthday anniversary in Davenport, Iowa. She is reported in excellent health.

Forbes-Robertson Returns.

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, the English actor-manager, who bade his farewell to the American public two years ago, arrived yesterday at an Atlantic port. He will appear in a film version of "The Passing of the Third Floor Back."

JUNIORS AND BOYS SEEK NET LAURELS

TAYLOR HAS EASY DAY

Default Advances Him to Third Round—Richards Meets with Little Opposition.

With conditions fringing the borderland of Winter, play for the metropolitan junior and metropolitan boys' tennis championships began yesterday afternoon on the clay courts of the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills, but, despite the chill atmosphere, that made sweaters a luxury, and the high wind which played queer pranks with the well-intended shots, there was a goodly entry of embryo stars of the court in both events.

The play was of surprisingly high quality, and it was not unmixed with a startling upset in several instances. The second round of the junior tournament furnished the greatest surprise when Warren E. Osgood, one of the most versatile and finished of the younger players, was forced to bow in defeat before the cool strategy and brilliant play of Louis Davidson.

Osgood has been an important factor in many of the junior tournaments decided hereabouts, and while the Pleasantville boy was at his best, there was not quite the ability to cope with the game which Davidson evinced. The latter played the part of the proverbial dark horse, for few of the contestants were familiar with his game, and Osgood's victory was taken as a matter of fact. This conviction was in no wise lessened when Osgood come through the first set with flying colors, a 6—1 victory denoting the margin of success. It is an old saying among veterans of the court that is bad policy to defeat a rival of anywhere near equal ability by such a one-sided score in the first set of a match, and how well the adage holds true is shown by the fact that the next two sets went to Davidson in each instance with the score 8—6.

Osgood played well in his effort to overcome the sterling game which his unheralded opponent was demonstrating, but Davidson, matching speed with speed and strategy with equal craft, succeeded in forcing his way through to victory.

Many of the entrants in the junior event, evidently deciding that the conditions at Forest Hills would be more fit for lobergaming than tennis, stayed where the warm glow of a fire would shed its warmth over them. Every match of the first round went by the well-worn trail of default, and two matches of the second round passed into the records with the same distinguishing mark. Harold Taylor, the Providence tennis centre champion, who is considered one of the strongest players in the tournament, after securing a first-round bye, advanced to the third round through the default of A. White.

Among the boys, one of the leading players, Cecil Donaldson, the little fair-haired expert, had a merry battle before he worked his way through to the third round. G. Baum, heretofore little known in tennis tournaments, was the wily opponent who faced Donaldson, and he carried the first set to 11—9 before admitting defeat. In the second set he was less formidable. Signs of fatigue were in evidence, and Donaldson romped away with a 6—1 victory for the match. Baum possessed a remarkable ability to make gets, and continually kept the ball shooting back over the net in the first set. Donaldson's net passing shots, hard driven for placement points, were not formidable enough to consistently be of advantage. Donaldson maintained his game to better advantage, and his greater stamina carried the decision.

The work of Vincent Richards, the national boys' champion, was watched with interest. His opponent, E. S. Dawson, however, did not possess a game that would draw out Richards, and the latter won with ease at 6—1, 6—2.

The summaries:

JUNIOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

SINGLES.—First Round—Louis Davidson won from K. Jones by default; Warren E. Osgood won from Fred Anderson, Jr., by default; G. H. Cooke won from E. Shapiro by default; L. A. Gibson won from A. COLUMBIA MAY LOSE MILLER

Star Drop Kicker Ordered to Report to Naval Reserve.

Howard Miller, one of the most expert drop kickers in the country and the outstanding star of the Columbia 'Varsity football team, may be lost to the eleven for the rest of the year. He enlisted in the Naval Reserve last Summer and was ordered yesterday to report to Newport. He left immediately, but hopes that he can be able to get a furlough for this Winter, as he was told that he would not be needed until Spring.

If Miller cannot play for Columbia the Blue and White will hardly be able to find a substitute. He is quarter back of the team, and besides being a heady field general he makes his team a dangerous contender with his faultless drop kicking.

YALE TO PLAY FOOTBALL.

Informal Eleven to be Formed and Schedule Arranged.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 2.—In response to a petition by upper classmen at Yale the university athletic authorities tonight granted permission for the formation of an informal 'Varsity football eleven. Previous plans allowed of only freshman team made up of members of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

Candidates for the new 'Varsity eleven will assemble at the bowl tomorrow and the team will be started if candidates enough appear. It was announced that an effort to arrange a schedule would be made at once and the possibility of the Yale eleven meeting the informal Harvard 'Varsity was taken under consideration.

NAVAL BOY IN LONG RUN.

Californian Enters Metropolitan Novice Cross-Country Race.

Among the contestants in the novice cross-country run of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U., which will be held over the Van Cortlandt Park hill and dale course next Sunday, will be Clarence Furqua, a former California boy, now stationed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. This will be Furqua's first participation in open A. A. U. competition, previous efforts being confined to high school events in California.

Entries for the event close tomorrow and it is expected that nearly 200 local novice athletes will send in their names for the race. A meeting of the officials in charge of the race will be held Thursday at the offices of the Metropolitan Association, when the entries will be passed upon.

EVANS NOT TO PLAY HERE.

Champion Unable to Meet Kirkby In Golf Match.

Once more New York's golfers are doomed to disappointment, since Charles Evans, the national amateur and open champion, sent a telegram from Chicago last night that he would not be able to play in New York next Sunday, as has been advertised, and doubted much whether he could arrange an exhibition for the metropolitan district at any future date this season. This telegram was in response to one sent by John G. Anderson, who asked the national champion to come here to meet Oswald Kirkby, the metropolitan champion, in a thirty-six-hole encounter.

About ten days ago Evans wrote a letter to Anderson stating that he was to play against Francis Ouimet, the Boston expert, at Brae-Burn Saturday, and that he would like to come to New York to play against Jerome D. Travers, New York's best amateur, on the following day. It seems that Travers could not accept the match, or, at any rate, Anderson wired to the champion suggesting that he meet Kirkby instead of Travers. Chick's answer, received last night, stated that he regretted very much that he would be unable to play in New York. He will be in Boston Saturday, and reports from Philadelphia have it that Evans is to play there either Monday or Tuesday.

For some time the champion has signified a desire once more to play against Travers. Evans has always found a match of unusual proportions ahead of him in his struggles against the former amateur and open title holder.

OUIMET GETS FURLOUGH.

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—Charles W. (Chick) Evans, national amateur and open golf champion, and D. E. Sawyer of Chicago will meet Francis Ouimet, Western amateur champion, and Jesse Guilford, Massachusetts amateur champion, in a thirty-six-hole golf match at the Braeburn Country Club Oct. 27.

Ouimet, who is a private at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., received permission today to take part in this match, which will be for the benefit of the camp's athletic equipment fund.

NEW COLORS FOR FINN.

Kolehmainen Will Run for Finnish-American A. C.

Hannes Kolehmainen, the wonderful Finnish distance runner, upon application at the local headquarters of the Amateur Athletic Union, yesterday, was granted permission to change his registration from unattached to the Finnish-American Athletic Club. The first event in which he will represent the Finnish-American club will be the ten-mile national championship race, which will be held under the auspices of the Morningside Athletic Club on Nov. 3. In this event the veteran Finn will defend his laurels as champion against a representative field of distance runners.

The last competition in which Kolehmainen represented any of the local clubs was the national Amateur Athletic Union track and field championships held in Newark in 1916, on which occasion he ran under the emblem of the Irish-American Athletic Club. Since then he has seldom been seen in open competition, and when he did start, it was as an unattached athlete. In league sports, however, Kolehmainen has represented the Finnish-American Athletic Club.

MANY DOGS ARE ENTERED.

Hudson County Kennel Club to Hold Show on Thursday.

A record entry has been received for the second annual show of the Hudson County Kennel Club, which will be held at Union Hill, N. J., on Thursday, and it is expected that the event will attract a large audience of dog lovers in addition to the exhibitors.

A feature this year is the remarkable entry of Belgian sheepdogs. How rapidly the breed is gaining a foothold in this country is seen from this. There will be twelve specimens on exhibition, included among which are Groen and Mouche, of the Englewood Police Department, and also King Cole, who is owned by T. Weatherbee of England, and has the distinction of being the first American champion. This will be a record for the breed in America and the first time that the general public has an opportunity for comparison.

LEONARD BATTERS WAGOND.

Champion Completely Outclasses Philadelphian for Six Rounds.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Oct. 22.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, easily defeated Eddie Wagond of this city in a six-round bout here tonight. Wagond was completely outclassed, the champion landing blows apparently at will. Leonard weighed 134 and Wagond 136 pounds.

ARRANGES AMATEUR BOUTS.

Morningside A. C. to Hold Boxing Tourney at Manhattan Casino.

Officials of the Morningside A. C. last night announced that they had completed arrangements for an amateur boxing tournament, to be held at the Manhattan Casino on Nov. 27 and Nov. 30. The preliminary bouts are scheduled for Nov. 27 and the finals for Nov. 30.

Competition will be held in five classes, at 110, 120, 130, and 140 pounds and a special-weight class. This will be the first amateur boxing tournament open to the public that has been promoted in this city in many years. Heretofore these tournaments have been held by various local clubs exclusively for members. Regulation A. A. U. boxing prizes will be distributed among the successful boxers, and it is expected that a number of the leading amateurs will enter. The proceeds of the tournament will be used to pay for repairs at the Morningside A. C.

BILLIARD TITLE AT STAKE.

De Oro and Daly Play for Three-Cushion Championship Tonight.

Alfredo De Oro, holder of the world's three-cushion billiard championship, will defend his title against John Daly in a 150-point match which will begin tonight at Leonard Howison's Billiard Academy, Forty-seventh Street and Seventh Avenue, and continue tomorrow and Thursday nights. Both De Oro and Daly are veteran contenders for the three-cushion honors, and have met five times in play for the championship.

The keen rivalry between them augurs for a bristling match tonight. By many De Oro is considered the most scientific of the three-cushion contestants, and Daly is regarded as a dangerous foe. Both men have been practicing in this city for several days, and the runs which have been established indicate that the contestants are prepared to exhibit the full prowess of their billiard technique.

Matty Makes $50,000 Bond Sale.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 2.—Among the subscriptions to the Liberty Loan here today was one of $50,000 through Christy Mathewson, manager of the Cincinnati National baseball club, by Max Fleischman, Cincinnati business man. Mathewson is devoting his entire time as a volunteer worker in obtaining subscriptions to the Liberty Loan. Heine Groh, another member of the Cincinnati Club, is also soliciting subscriptions and Hal Chase wired from Kansas City today that he would arrive in Cincinnati tomorrow and assist in the work.

WAR MAY CURTAIL BASEBALL SEASON

Club Owners Believe Fewer Games Are Certain in Races Next Year.

Baseball men already are wondering what the status of major league baseball will be next Summer if the war is not ended before that time. The outlook is dubious, although it is the sentiment of high officials at Washington that the continuance of the national game should be encouraged. It is almost certain that many of the minor leagues will not risk another season under war conditions. If the war is undecided next Summer, it is also certain that there will be some important changes, among which may be a shorter major league season and no world series.

Before it is time to think about baseball again another draft will have been put into operation, which is certain to draw more players from the game than the first draft. In the meantime many players also will enlist in the service and will not be available next Summer. With lists of casualties prominently before the public, the interest in the game is sure to suffer. Also, next Summer the taxes on baseball admissions will be in operation, and this will be another drawback to the game. Investment in Liberty bonds and the high cost of living will tend to make baseball fans more economical about their amusements, and the major league races will not attract the interest that they have in the past.

It would not be surprising if both major leagues, at the annual meetings next month, should decide on a 140-game schedule instead of the 154-game program. This would start the season later in April and bring the finish along toward the end of September. By this arrangement some of the club owners figure that they will be able to cut down running expenses considerably, as a month can be clipped off the players' contracts.

A change of this sort is sure to bring storms of protests from the players, but many of them will consider themselves lucky next year if they play at all. It is not likely that the two major leagues will do anything definite about next year's plans until next Spring, because much depends on the development of war.

The player limit also is sure to get another big cut, and if the major league clubs play next season it is likely that the roster will be limited to about eighteen players. Conditions will be such that the prosperous days of the ball players will have to be curbed until the war is over. The few players who have contracts for a term of years consider themselves fortunate, and next season there will be less of these than ever before.

There is sure to be some opposition from some of the club owners on the question of shortening the season. Schedules of 140 games have been tried by the National League in the past, but the 154-game program was found to be more profitable. When the National League was made up of twelve clubs the schedule included only 132 games. If the short war time schedule is adopted the season will begin about the last week in April and will be finished before the end of September. This will insure better conditions for a world series, if that event is played.

The leagues probably will wait until next Spring before they decide about another world series, because by that time the clubs may be so badly broken up through enlistments and the draft that the big classic will have to be laid on the shelf for a while. Economy will be the watchword with both club owner and fan, so the prosperity of the game is sure to be affected.

LIGHT WORK FOR FORDHAM.

Maroon Eleven to Start Secret Practice Today for Rutgers Game.

The Fordham squad had a light workout yesterday. Running down punts and a long signal drill formed the bulk of the field work. The usual blackboard talk on Saturday's game was held for the players before they went on the gridiron. Fumbling, a fault that has been palpable all season, was still present in the Holy Cross contest.

The players came through the game in fair shape. Colletti was not in uniform because of battered shins. Prisch only jogged around a while. The star back did not get into one scrimmage last week before the Holy Cross game, but was as fit as a fiddle. McGrath did not report for practice.

No special plays for the Rutgers game were tried. A big offensive and defensive program has been mapped out for the week, and secret practice will be in order starting today. Only nineteen candidates were in uniform. Coach McCaffery has to face the same problem that has confronted every Fordham coach in late years—the lack of reserve material. With Rutgers, Georgetown, and Cornell, the three hardest games on the schedule, coming in order, the Maroon coach will be hard put for substitutes if the regulars are injured.

RUTGERS IN GOOD SHAPE.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 22.—The Rutgers football squad came out of the game with Lafayette on Saturday in excellent condition, and had a strenuous workout this afternoon on Nelson Field. The followers of the team are much elated over the victory on Saturday, as the game was the first played against the Easton College in twenty-three years. The men showed notable improvement over the form displayed against Syracuse, the line especially approaching the standard set by Rutgers' lines in former years. Coach Sanford will give considerable attention this week to still further strengthening the line's defense in preparation for the game with Fordham in New York on Saturday.

LEADING WALKERS IN RACE.

Plant to Make Final Appearance at Indoor Games.

Local athletic enthusiasts will get their last look at Willie Plant, the metropolitan district champion walker, in open competition at the military and athletic carnival to be held tomorrow night in the Thirteenth Regiment armory, Brooklyn, in aid of the soldiers' tobacco fund. The Long Island A. C. pedestrian will start in the three-mile scratch walking race, which has been added to the already large program. On Nov. 1 Plant will go to an army training camp. This event promises to attract attention, for in addition to the last appearance of Plant it will find George Bonhag, the former New York A. C. distance runner, in another attempt to establish himself as a pedestrian. Bonhag's last appearance in a walking competition was at the military games of the New York A. C. recently when the former middle distance runner started in a five-mile event with Plant and Rens, the New York A. C. star walker. Bonhag retired from the race, however, after about two miles. Rens will also be a starter.

These games will usher in the local A. A. U. indoor season, and, judging from the events arranged, will set an excellent standard to be followed. All the different events have filled well, and despite the fact that the majority of the foremost athletes of the district have enlisted a successful meet is anticipated by the officials. The feature of the running races is looked for in the 880 yards special scratch run, in which the prize will be an Italian marble statue presented by the Millrose A. A. A representative entry will strive for the prize, in Mike Devaney, Millrose A. A., national half-mile champion; Eddie Frick, New York A. C., metropolitan half-mile champion; Sidney Leslie, military champion, and Jack R. Sellers, one of the foremost of the New York A. C.'s athletes.

TIGER CUBS ELECT CAPTAIN.

McCaull to Lead Team Against Yale and Harvard.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 22.—John D. McCaull of Minneapolis has been chosen to lead the Princeton freshmen eleven this Fall. The new Tiger Captain comes from Lawrenceville, and, while he has had only two years of football experience, he is considered one of the strongest players on the Tiger cub team. His position is tackle.

After the strenuous time which the freshmen had Saturday against an eleven made up of upper classmen, Coach Fred Dawson did not choose to work them hard today. Dawson has commenced teaching the youngsters several new plays that will be used against the Exeter team when it comes here this Saturday. The Cubs do not expect to find an easy opponent in Exeter. The unexpected defeat suffered at the hands of the Mercersburg eleven has reduced to a minimum any overconfidence that was in evidence previously. The upper class eleven defeated the youngsters 21 to 0.

Hard work will be in order all this week, and, in fact, for the rest of the season, as the freshmen play Blair Hall, Harvard freshmen, and the Yale freshmen on the three Saturdays following the Exeter contest.

Because there is no 'Varsity football there is a great deal more interest focused on the freshmen than ever before. In spite of the setback received at the hands of Mercersburg, the Tigers believe they have a strong freshman team, and the contests with Harvard and Yale are anticipated with more than usual interest.

MAHAN ON MARINE ELEVEN.

Former Harvard Football Captain Leads Quaker Naval Team.

Eddie Mahan, the former Harvard football star, is the Captain of the Marine Corps eleven at the Philadelphia Navy Yard and he is trying to arrange a game with Harvard to be played at the Polo Grounds on Nov. 17 for the Red Cross. Harvard has the date under advisement, but has not given a definite answer.

The Marines have arranged a game with Pennsylvania which is to be played at Franklin Field on Dec. 8 for the Red Cross. Mahan has a fast eleven and it includes several players who were well known on the college gridirons a few seasons ago. In some recent games at the Philadelphia Navy Yard Mahan ran 100 yards, in full Marine equipment, a rifle in one hand and a dispatch in the other, in thirteen seconds.

Secretary John B. Foster of the New York Baseball Club yesterday stated that it is planned to play several big football games at the Polo Grounds this Fall, and New York will have a chance of seeing many of the elevens representing the various military camps.

CORNELL PROSPECTS DARK.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—If Cornell supporters expect first-class football this year they are going to be disappointed, according to Dr. Al Sharpe, head coach of the Cornell football team. When asked tonight what he thought of the prospects following the defeat by Colgate Saturday, he said:

"Cornell will have a hard time in all the games to come, but that will not cause Cornell to give up in despair. Some sort of a shakeup will be made in the near future to insure some speed in the back field and to gain strength in the forward line. The Cornell team with the loss of all last year's veterans now in service deserves credit in that no call was sent to any training camp to get football players excused for work with the football team."

This afternoon a blackboard practice was held in Schoellkopf Hall, and tomorrow active outdoor work will again start for the Bucknell game of next Saturday. Carry's injury in Saturday's game was a sprained knee, which is expected to be all right for the next contest.

ARMY ELEVEN HAS REST.

Only Light Drill Held for Football Candidates.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 22.—There was only a brief session of football for the Army team this afternoon. Military drills precluded the possibility of anything but the lightest kind of training, and the coaches planned the workout principally with a view to relieving the stiff and bruised joints incidental to the Tufts game.

The men came through that encounter in good condition. McQuarrie is still on the ineligible list, due to studies. Vandegaff's injuries are improving sufficiently to permit of his doing some work this week. Vidal has not yet put in an appearance, and until the hazing investigation findings are known, the probability of his playing is all guesswork.

Bartlett and Monroe, by their consistent work against Virginia Military Institute and Tufts, have encouraged the coaches into believing that the situation behind the line is not so badly off even with McQuarrie and Vidal ineligible. Preparations for the Villa Nova game will begin tomorrow and efforts will be made to get some of the injured men back in shape.

ANOTHER RACE FOR RIVALS.

Hourless and Omar Khayyam May Meet Once More.

It appears now that the rivalry between Hourless and Omar Khayyam did not end for the season with the match race at Laurel last Thursday. There is no likelihood of another special event, but both are engaged in two important stakes at the Pimlico meeting and the trainers of both horses are pointing them for these events which may enable Hourless to even up the score or Omar Khayyam to redeem himself for his only defeat by Hourless.

The event in which they are most likely to come together again is the Pimlico Autumn Handicap, for three-year-olds, which will be run on Nov. 8, at a mile and a quarter, the distance of the recent match race. Richard Carman stated that the race on Thursday did not convince him that Hourless was a better horse than Omar Khayyam and that he was willing to pit his champion against the Belmont crack at the first opportunity. Hildreth also is on record as stating that Hourless would start in both the Autumn Handicap and the Bowie Cup, if he stands up under training.

In the Bowie Cup the three-year-olds will be put to a more severe test than they have had so far, as it is open to three-year-olds and upward, with the great handicap performer Old Rosebud among the eligibles. The distance, a mile and a half, may prove which is the better stayer of the pair. The Bowie Cup will be run Nov. 12, one day before the Pimlico meeting ends.

Ohio State Not Defeated.

In THE TIMES review of Saturday's football games it was erroneously stated that Ohio State, champions of the West last season, had been defeated by Carnegie Institute at Pittsburgh. It was the Ohio University eleven which fell before Carnegie. Ohio, with Chick Harley as much of a gridiron wizard as last season, has an excellent chance of again taking the Western honors. Next Saturday Ohio State has an easy game with Denison at Columbus, and on the following Saturday will play Indiana.

Lightweight Bouts at Pioneer.

Lightweight boxers will compete in the two ten-round bouts which will be held this evening at the Pioneer Sporting Club. In the first bout Shamus O'Brien will oppose Andy Cortez of Brooklyn, and in the second event Paul Doyle, the east side boxer, and Chick Simler of Scranton, Penn., will be the contestants.

BRINGHURST WINS DASH AT LAUREL

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 22.—Paul Powers selected Bringhurst instead of Top O' Th' Morning to carry his colors in the Camp Meade Handicap at six furlongs, which was the feature of today's card. The choice was a wise one, for Top' O' Th' Morning has been in poor form recently, while Bringhurst has been winning or finishing near the front in all his races in Maryland.

Bringhurst was keyed up for a good race and even top weight of 120 pounds did not dull his speed. He went out with the light weighted Ed Cudihee to make the pace and when the latter was done with Buxton had no trouble in sending him to the front to win handily. Ed Cuddihee had all he could do to save the place from Startling.

R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Straight Forward was in a soft spot in the Chesapeake Purse for three-year-olds. The distance of a mile just suited the son of Star Shoot, which ran the fastest mile of the meeting last Thursday. Johnny McTaggart just rated Straight Forward in the early stages, and he came away in the stretch to win by a good margin from R. O. Egan's Waukeag in 1:40 1-5.

A hot favorite was bowled over when D. Raymond's Garter faded in the steeplechase. Fennessey kept Garter in front for the greater part of the two miles, but in the last quarter of a mile J. M. Black's Carl, one of the outsiders, showed more speed and beat the public choice in the run in on the flat.

PROGRAM FOR HUNT MEET.

Second Day's Card at Rose Tree Tomorrow Promises Good Sport.

An excellent program has been arranged for the second day of the Rose Tree Hunt meet, which will entertain Philadelphia racing and society people at Media tomorrow. The Aspiration Plate for two-year-olds at six furlongs is one of the features, and it will bring together many good juveniles. Captain E. B. Cassatt has Portia, Perigourdine, and Trite to choose from, while Walter M. Jeffords's Red Sox and the Glenn Riddle Farm's Reveler are other youngsters that have shown winning form.

M. L. Schwartz's Crest Hill, a winner on Saturday, will try to repeat against stiff opposition in the Equity Plate. A fine field is entered for the Rose Tree Plate, which will be run over the hunting course of three and a half miles. Other winners on Saturday which are booked to race tomorrow are Captain Cassatt's Cachet in the Blue Bell Plate and Mr. Schwartz's Archdale in the Inter-State Plate, both flat events.

"How much per year do my clothes cost?" is the question for the economical man to ask himself.

Cheap clothes are the most expensive and never more so than now. Therefore, pick out first a trustworthy dealer and then put it up to him to sell you clothes that will both last and keep their good looks.

We sometimes think that some of our clothes last too long—but that sort make us lasting friends and we expect to remain in business a long time.

Everything men and boys wear.

"Westpointer" shoes. Officers' Stetson hats. Sam Browne belts. The Rogers Peet Camp Toilet Case.

Are You Holding Back YOUR Money?

The paper money of the United States is a promise to pay. It is the agreement of the United States to "pay to bearer" a certain sum.

Liberty Bonds are also a promise to pay.

The Bonds are as good as money, and pay you 4% interest.

Both the money and the Bonds are guaranteed by the richest nation in the world.

But suppose the Liberty Loan should be a failure—suppose we were to lose the war.

Would the money you hold back, the money you should put into Liberty Bonds but do not, be worth then what it is now?

Suppose we permit the Germans to win the war, and then, tremendously strengthened and enriched, they come over here and conquer us.

What would your money—the promise of the United States to pay—be worth in that case?

Nothing at all. It would be a mere memento of the past, like the currency of the Confederate States of America. And if we bought our freedom back, by indemnity, it would be at a price so colossal as to wipe out our savings and mortgage our earnings for two generations.

The Safest Place For ALL Your Money

The safest place for all your money is in Liberty Bonds, because the money raised by the Liberty Loan will win the war, and thus insure the preservation and solvency of our Government and the safety of all our possessions.

The Loan Closes Oct. 27

WHERE TO BUY BONDS

Don't forget that you can buy a U. S. Government 4% Liberty Bond at the United States Sub-Treasury, any bank, trust company, bond house or department store. Don't be afraid to go into any bank and ASK. They will tell you about several easy payment plans. If you do not get service, notify

FINANCIAL MARKETS

With many stocks a good part of the gains scored last week was lost yesterday in a very irregular market, which opened strong and closed weak. An explanation for the halt in the rise which made such marked progress for several successive sessions that seemed to be widely accepted was that short covering, which had been carried on since the turn in the price movement, had been completed for the time being. It is a fact that at least one big operator who was a heavy seller of stocks on levels much higher than those prevailing today started in early last week and bought a large amount of stock to settle all of his commitments, but whether the short covering was general is doubtful. Mindful of the experience they had in the first Liberty Loan campaign, some traders have expected stocks to show strength only until the subscriptions are closed, after which they look for a resumption of liquidation. Perhaps the fact that the market did give way coincidentally with the ending of the first bond selling period is the best assurance that it will not act in a similar manner with the closing of the books for the current loan.

Yesterday's declines were sharply pronounced in the gas stocks. Brooklyn Union lost 2 points. Consolidated 5½, People's Gas 1½ and Laclede 15 points. The difficulties which manufacturers of illuminating gas are meeting are pretty much the same as those confronting steam railroads and traction companies; that is to say, they are being forced to pay much higher operating costs while prevented from increasing their selling prices. It may be necessary for more of the public utility companies to reduce or omit dividends as an offset to abnormal costs, which can only be relieved by the coming of peace.

Steel sold at 107¾, in the early part of the session, but yielded to 104¾ on heavy offerings of stock and closed off 1¾ from Saturday's level. Utah Copper declined 2¾, Kennecott lost 1¼ and American Smelting ¾. New York Air Brake dropped 4 points and most of the active rails declined a point or more.

Not even the bear slump through which the market has been passing has served to increase materially public buying of securities. It may be that the educational campaign to encourage the purchase of Liberty bonds has done its work so well that investors have given no thought to bargains offered them in the stock market. If this is the case, then the closing of the loan books on Saturday with a large over-subscription may divert surplus funds once more into the stock market.

LONDON MARKET IS FIRM.

But Business Is Quiet—Money Is in Fair Supply.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Money was in fair demand today and discounts were quiet. Applications for war bonds were in good volume.

The stock market was generally firm. Business was extremely quiet. Kaffirs, Australian mines, and oil shares were among the busiest sections, with hardening prices. Shipping shares attracted increasing attention. Gilt-edged securities were in just sufficient demand to maintain prices.

SUPERIOR STEEL EARNINGS.

Gross Income for First Eight Months of 1917 $2,548,672.

The Superior Steel Corporation reported yesterday a gross income of $2,548,672 in the eight months ended Aug. 31. The net income after all deductions, including depreciation and ordinary taxes, amounted to $2,129,266. Of this $260,016 was used to pay preferred stock dividends, the balance being equal to 31 per cent. on the common stock. The management set aside $577,946 as a reserve to meet the excess profits tax, a total equivalent to nearly 10 per cent. on the junior stock issue.

The balance sheet showed cash on hand of $1,676,068, surplus amounting to $1,136,804, and total assets of $9,180,769. It was learned after a meeting of the Directors that the corporation had subscribed to $500,000 of the new Liberty bonds. The regular dividends of 2 per cent. for the quarter were declared on the two classes of preferred stock, payable Nov. 1 to shareholders of record Oct. 15.

THE COTTON MARKET

Cotton prices broke sharply yesterday morning, chiefly on a more optimistic feeling regarding the new crop, combined with an early shortage of buying orders, but no permanent effect was produced. All crop, spot and weather news during the day was of the unvarying bullish tendency that has prevailed for the last two weeks, and the close found the list very steady, ranging from 5 points lower to 6 points higher than Saturday's closing.

Reports were published before the opening that the Government was planning to seize cotton held in this country for German account amounting to a million bales. There had been a good deal of reactionary sentiment toward the close of last week, and nervousness seemed to be increased by this story, which suggested that a large amount of cotton previously held off the market might soon become available. Local dealers and statisticians, however, said they could not reconcile any such holdings as mentioned with the known available supply reflected in the reports of the Census Bureau and after the first rush of liquidation and the execution of over-Sunday selling orders the market soon turned firmer. The opening was steady at a decline of 5 to 30 points, and active months sold 55 to 75 points net lower shortly after the call, with December touching 26.65c. and March 26c. The rally later was encouraged by the detailed weather report and the Western belt forecast for still colder weather with snow in Northwest Texas. December sold up to 27.35c. and March to 26.70c. in the late trading or about 1 to 6 points net higher.

Some of the older men in the trade say they cannot recall any previous season when there had been such a long run of cold weather at this time of the year as the present, and also pointed out that never before have three short crops been produced in succession. According to the detailed weather reports, temperatures of 32 degrees or below occurred at all stations in the Oklahoma district over Sunday, and at numerous points in the Little Rock and Vicksburg district. Several stations reported freezing weather in Texas and Louisiana, while there were scattering points below freezing in parts of the Eastern belt. According to a Southwestern authority, the crop indication as of Oct. 9 pointed to a yield of only 11,186,000 bales excluding linters. Since then it is believed there has been a good deal of damage by the continued cold weather. There was Southern selling at the opening, but the trade interests were moderate buyers on the early decline. Exports for the day were 1,391 bales. Southern spot markets as officially reported were unchanged to 43 points lower, most of the later markets being unchanged.

TO JOIN RESERVE SYSTEM.

U. S. Mortgage and Trust and Bank of Manhattan Co. Apply.

Several more banking institutions with State charters decided yesterday to apply for membership in the Federal Reserve system. Directors of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company voted to take the step after considering the matter for several months. In announcing the decision John W. Platten, President, said the great task of providing credit for winning the war made it imperative that all bank resources be co-ordinated and unified.

The Bank of the Manhattan Company, the Brooklyn Trust Company, and the new Scandinavian Trust Company decided to make application for membership. Word was received here that the Baltimore Trust Company of Baltimore and the Philadelphia Trust Company of Philadelphia had taken similar action.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

Receipts of wheat at Northwestern points were quite large, Minneapolis and Duluth reporting 853 cars, compared with 802 cars last year. Other points, however, were again light, and the total interior receipts aggregated 1,608,000 bushels, compared with 2,251,000 a year ago. The visible supply of domestic and foreign wheat in the United States increased 116,000 bushels for the week, compared with an increase of 2,319,000 last year, and the total was 9,712,000, against 16,005,000 visible a year ago.

CORN.

The corn market responded readily to an increased buying movement, and prices at the close were strong at the top, with net gains of 1¾@2c. The advance seemed to be due more to technical conditions than to any change in the present or prospective supply and demand. The trade, however, is becoming rather skeptical about the prospect of any material accumulation of supplies during December, and the December premium over May widened out to 9½c. The visible supply in the United States increased 75,000 bushels for the week, bringing the total to 1,025,000 bushels, compared with 3,870,000 last year. In the local cash market No. 2 Yellow corn was quoted at $1.65¼ and No. 2 mixed at $2.03½, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The oats market was firmer in sympathy with corn and on covering. Price changes, however, were narrow, and the close was only ⅛c to ¼c above the final of Saturday. The visible supply showed an increase of 1,014,000 bushels, with a total of 16,204,000, compared with 43,180,000 a year ago. The local spot market was firm; standard quoted at 66½@67c; No. 2 white, 67c; No. 3 white, 66@66¾c; No. 4 white, 65½@66c; fancy clipped white, 67½@68c; ordinary clipped white, 66½@67¼c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was rather feverish, but at the close prices were strong, with an active demand from shorts, especially in the near positions. The hog market showed a steadier tone, and it was the general impression that the technical position had been strengthened by the recent heavy selling. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 28,000; estimated for Tuesday, 14,000. Kansas City received 4,000 and Omaha 3,500 hogs.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Operations in the cottonseed oil market under the new rules which permit holding to five months instead of three, showed little increase in activity, total sales amounting to only 4,000 barrels. Prices were a little higher early on the strength in low products and on a bullish construction of the Census Bureau's report on the production of oil, which showed a sharp falling off from last year. Toward the close, however, prices again weakened and final quotations were net unchanged to 6 points lower, for the principal months. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The coffee market was very quiet again yesterday. The firmer technical position resulting from recent liquidation caused slight early advances, but the improvement was lost, with the close showing a net decline of 1 to 2 points. The spot market was quiet at 8¼ for Rio 7s and 9½ for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

With four New York refineries idle and the others taking only a very small business, the market is without special feature of any kind and the situation is becoming more strained, it being very difficult to buy sugar, particularly in the local market. The market for raw sugar continues inactive, refiners unable to pay better than 5¾c, cost and freight, owing to Government regulations, and holders not being willing to part with their very small remaining balance of the crop in Cuba. Quotations are nominally unchanged as follows: Centrifugal, 6.90c; molasses, 6.02c, cost and freight, 5¾c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 6,986 packages. The market took a sharp turn for the best and at the higher rates quoted the feeling is firm. Jobbers were low in stock and are needing supplies for current use and there were some Government orders to fill. The higher grades of creamery showed most strength, but other qualities sympathized to some extent. EGGS.—Receipts, 6,610 cases. High qualities of fresh gathered continue steady under light offerings. Medium and lower grades in liberal accumulation, dull and weak in competition with storage eggs. The latter are more urgently pressed for sale and tend in buyers' favor, with some further declines on most grades. Nearby white eggs in light supply; fancy qualities are taken promptly at firm prices. PURCHASE OF PESOS OFF.

Mexico Mads New Conditions, and, Besides, Silver Has Declined.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Negotiations under which the United States had offered to purchase 6,000,000 Mexican silver pesos from the Mexican Government, to be melted and coined into subsidiary silver, were declared off today. Mexican representatives were understood to have signified their acquiescence in the arrangement, but, acting under instructions from Mexico City, they presented new phases, which resulted in the withdrawal by the United States of its offer.

The necessity for such a purchase has passed. It was proposed because the mounting price of silver threatened to reach the mintal value. The market price now has fallen below that which was to have been paid to Mexico. It is understood that the Mexican Government is contemplating obtaining in another manner, not made public, the $5,000,000 in gold which it would have received in payment for the silver pesos. Gold is badly needed in Mexico.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

In the early afternoon moderate selling appeared in the trading on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The selling was not aggressive, but buying power was absent. All through the list stocks sold off. The leaders in the downward movement were Steel common, Baldwin Locomotive, and Bethlehem Steel, Series B. The final tone of the entire list was weak. With the exception of the coppers and some of the rails the market opened strong and active. There was considerable accumulation of commission business over Sunday, and sentiment was inclined to be bullish. In most of the stocks prices sold at the highest figures since the turning point early last week.

Children's Clothes Active.

The Fall season in children's clothes is reported by local manufacturers to be a large one. Though volume in some cases is not quite up to the mark reached last year, it has amounted to more in dollars and cents because of the high prices prevailing. The West and Middle West are reported to have been larger buyers than the East, though it is said that this district is constantly increasing its orders and at the close of the season will, in all probability, show a more favorable comparison with the rest of the country.

More Inquiries for Spring Silks.

Inquiries for Spring merchandise in the local silk market continue to pour in at an amazing rate. Allover patterned voiles and foulard designs on pongees are said to be extensively sought for the 1918 season. Silks in the gingham effects are also in demand, particularly in the metropolitan district. In colors there is, as yet, no evidence of the tendency toward darker shades for Spring, which has been so frequently predicted. Bright solids, brilliant color combinations, and allover printed designs in which light shades predominate are said to be as popular as they ever were.

Underwear Prices Advancing.

The underwear market is one of advancing prices. With cotton out of sight, and with the uncertainties of the wool yarn situation, quotations for Spring merchandise, it is said, must needs mount higher almost from day to day. And the fact that Government orders are sufficient in volume to keep the mills going for some time to come does not put them in a position where they care very much what buyers think about prices. Far-seeing merchants who are able to read the writing on the wall are reported to be sending in large duplicate orders for Spring so as not to be caught short of merchandise when the squeeze comes later on.

Adopts Standard Color Card.

Announcement is made by the Textile Color Card Association of the United States that the Converters' Association has formally adopted the Standard Color Card of America. As this card has already been adopted by the National Association of Converters of Cotton Fabrics, the action just taken points the way to a complete color co-operation between dyer and converter. "A Standard Colors is an American idea," says the Textile Color Card Association in its announcement, "and already means much to the manufacturer, retailer, and consumer by preventing off shades which do not sell readily, and when sold prevent color harmony in women's dress. It is hoped that within a short time the entire cotton trade will follow the woolen, silk, millinery, and hosiery trades in using the same colors."

Burlaps Sell Better.

There was more snap to the burlap business in this market yesterday than on any other Monday for several weeks. Quite an active business was put through on lightweights, though most of it was done on afloat goods to arrive in the next sixty days. In some cases goods to arrive later than that were disposed of. Cables from Calcutta continue to report the exchange situation bad there, with prices free on board very high. Dundee reports high prices and a paucity of goods for export. Local quotations on standard 40-inch burlaps yesterday were: Ten and a half-ounce, 16¼ cents; 10-ounce, 16¼ cents; 8-ounce, 12½ cents, and 7½-ounce, 12¼ cents.

A New Millinery Service.

A big Chicago store is offering a new service to customers in its untrimmed hat section, according to reports received in local millinery circles. On every untrimmed hat various suitable trimmings are pinned, giving the customer a definite idea of how the hat will look when complete. After a selection is made the trimmings are sewed on free of charge. Every hat has a card pinned on it which shows the separate charges for the hat, as well as for the flowers, ribbons, feathers, or whatever else the trimming may consist of. This not only gives the customer an opportunity to decide upon the proper trimmings for her hat, but also gives her an idea of the cost of the finished article.

Retailers Are Too Suspicious.

More than one retailer in this country will be without sufficient holiday merchandise this year because of a suspicious nature. This nature manifests itself very frequently in opposing anything a manufacturer or wholesaler suggests, in the fear that the latter is going to put something over on them. An instance of this is the experience a local neckwear house is having with several of its accounts. Because of the certainty of freight congestion for some time to come, this house has written its customers asking permission to ship goods as they are ready, regardless of the specified time of delivery. It offered, in the letter, to date the invoices from the date of delivery down in order. The sole object in making this suggestion was to assure the retailers getting their goods on time, yet in several instances the firm making the request has been instructed to ship as originally directed.

Garments Matched with Interiors.

Something new in the way of women's garments is being offered here by a designer with a highly developed artistic sense. Not only is the idea back of them to supply simple and beautiful clothing for all times of the day, but to harmonize the garments with the interiors of various rooms. The new garments themselves consist of a combination of slips and over and undertunics. It is said of them that one slip, one undertunic and one overtunic gives the equivalent of four changes in dress. By adding one more overtunic or undertunic, more than double these changes results. By adding another complete outfit, a choice of fourteen changes may be had. It is further said that the combinations obtained are suitable for all occasions, including street and evening wear. The idea has been patented.

Small Wares Selling Freely.

While one of the best known men in the local fancy goods and notions trade is authority for the statement that, from the standpoint of merchandise sold, this year is behind last, there is no question about 1917 being ahead so far as the dollars and cents total is concerned. With the bulk of the holiday business now on the books, wholesalers are also in a position to see pretty well just what the rest of the year holds for them in the way of sales. From all accounts the outlook is most optimistic, in spite of the fact, as one smilingly put it, we are now selling goods for the Government." What is meant was that the Government tax on profits would easily account for the money made through the rest of the year. As for the merchandise being sold, knitting things and soldiers' comfort kits continue to top the list.

Gray Goods Sales Light.

The firmness with which most sellers of gray goods in this market are holding the goods they still have for shipment through the rest of this year kept trading light in this market yesterday. Important sales of printcloths and sheetings were lacking, though some good bids were in the market during the day. Notable among these were unsuccessful bids of 12 cents for 39-inch 64-60s, for which most sellers are now asking 12¼ cents for 1917 shipment. On the other hand, some nice business was done on 35, 39, and 48 inch sateens and twills for the clothing trade, as well as on wide plain goods for the same users. The activity of these cloths is largely due to the fact that they are still below comparative market levels. Spot printcloths closed this way:

39-inch, 64-64s	12c	39-inch, 60-52s	9½c

United Cigar Drops Jersey Charter.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 22.—A certificate was filed with the Secretary of State here today, showing the dissolution of the United Cigar Stores Company with an authorized capital of $2,000,000, as a New Jersey firm. The concern is now incorporated in Delaware. The United Display Advertising Company and the United Chemists Company which were associated with it also filed certificates of dissolution here.

SHERIFF'S SALES.

HENRY BRADY, SHERIFF'S AUCTIONEER, sells this day, Tuesday, Oct. 23rd, 1917, at 12 o'clock noon, at Rotunda, County Court House, all the right, title and interest of the Big Three Amusement Corporation, a New York corporation, and to a certain Bond for the sum of $5,000 made and executed on the 6th day of March, 1917, by the Braddon Amusement Corporation, a domestic corporation, to Max J. Kramer of the City of New York, together with a certain mortgage securing the said bond made and executed on said day by said Braddon Amusement Corporation to the said Max J. Kramer, and recorded in the office of the Register of the County of New York on the 8th day of March, 1917, in Liber 501 of Mortgages, page 491, which said bond and mortgage was thereafter duly assigned by said Max J. Kramer to Maurice L. REAL ESTATE FIELD

An important deal in the upper Fifth Avenue retail section was closed yesterday in the purchase by Charles G. Thorley of the five-story commercial building at 2 East Forty-sixth Street on plot 30 by 100, adjoining the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue. The property, which was held at $300,000, was acquired from the Two East Forty-sixth Street Company, affiliated with the Manhattan Centre Company, of which V. Blaine Warner is President. The sellers bought it in 1912 from the Jesse Seligman estate and converted the old house into trade uses.

Mr. Thorley occupies for his florist store the building on the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street, on which he has a lease for several years. That property was recently purchased by Felix Isman from the Harper estate.

The Herbert Gulick Company was the broker in the sale of 2 East Forty-sixth Street.

Tenant Buys Greenwich Street Building.

The six-story business loft at 480 Greenwich Street has been sold by Charles Geyer to the tenant, George F. Weimann. The structure occupies a plot 60 by 79.10 on the southwest corner of Hubert and Greenwich Streets.

Investors Buy Tenements.

David Lion has sold the four-story flat at 312 East 124th Street, which he recently purchased from Miriam Fisher of Paris, to S. Attanasio, who owns the adjoining house at 314, which he recently purchased from Mr. Lion, giving him a plot 39 by 100.

John T. Wall sold for the estate of Charles E. de Jonge the five-story brownstone tenement 318 West Forty-ninth Street, on a plot 26.6 by 100, to Joseph Hecht for investment. This is the first transfer of the property since 1888.

Recent Buyers.

Selah B. Masten is the buyer of the plot on West 227th Street near Adrian Avenue in the Marble Hill section. The plot was resold by Frederick Brown, operator, through A. N. Gitterman.

Orme Wilson, Jr., is said to be the buyer of the easterly half of the seventy-foot lot on the north side of Sixty-fourth Street just east of Fifth Avenue, sold recently by the James J. Hill estate. Mr. Wilson's home is at 11 East Sixty-fourth Street, adjoining.

Bronx Sales.

Kurz & Uren, Inc., sold for the Intervale Holding Company, Mose Goodman, President, 1,392 Franklin Avenue, near 170th Street, a five-story new-law apartment, on a plot 37.6 by 100, to an investor.

The Public Square Realty Company, represented by Moskowitz Brothers, purchased the five-story forty-family apartment house, 83.6 by 100, at 2,132 to 2,150 Daly Avenue, from the estate of Pincus Lowenfeld and Lowenfeld & Prager. The property was held at $110,000. Solomon Gellich was the broker.

Fred Simon purchased from the Valhalla Corporation 1,263 College Avenue, a new-law tenement, on a plot 50 by 85. In part payment the buyer gave 545 East 146th Street, a tenement, on a lot 25 by 100, located near St. Ann's Avenue.

Queens Borough Sales.

T. G. Colton has sold to A. Kutsukian the dwelling and plot 100 by 100 on the northeast corner of Washington Avenue and Lincoln Avenue, Rockaway Park.

P. Mollenhagen sold to S. Finkelberg the plot 100 by 125 on the west side of Debevoise Avenue 100 feet north of Maple Street, Hollis.

The First National Bank of Jamaica, L. I., sold 248 Union Hall Street, Jamaica, L. I., a frame cottage on a plot 25 by 150, to Samuel Sullivan of Utica, N. Y., A. G. Thompson was the broker.

New Jersey.

L. N. Nicholson & Co. sold at Lyndhurst, N. J., to William P. Williams, a six-room house on Valley Brook Avenue on a plot 37.6 by 125 for $3,500; also, to William T. Robinson an eleven-room house on Stuyvesant Avenue for $10,000.

Westchester County.

The Robert E. Farley Organization sold a plot on Morningside Road in the Nepperhan Heights section of Yonkers, N. Y., to Watson & Brenner of Yonkers for improvement.

Griffen, Prince & Ripley, Inc., sold for Mrs. Victoria Ridgeway Babcock a plot with a frontage of 172 feet on Elm Rock Road, Bronxville, to Harry Leslie Walker, who will build a residence for his own occupancy. The property is part of the old Ridgeway estate. The balance of this property is being resubdivided and will be sold in half-acre plots.

Commercial Leases.

The Herbert Gulick Company leased the store at 23 and 25 East Forty-seventh Street to Miss Moore of Boston; also the store at 10 East Forty-sixth Street for Harris & Vaughan to Tree & Co., jewelers.

Worthington Whitehouse, Inc., leased for a term of years the store and first floor at 13 West Forty-sixth Street for Phebe Brisbane, to be used as a tea room.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased the building at 102 Water Street, recently purchased through the same brokers, for Joseph P. Cullman to the Picano-Capaldo Company, Inc., from Nov. 1, at $2,400 per annum.

William A. White & Sons leased the store at 1,706 Park Avenue to Martin Fisher.

James A. Dowd has leased for the W. & E. Realty Company the five-story building at 159 West Thirty-fourth Street to Wragge & Medlin, and for Wragge & Medlin the store at 77 West Forty-seventh Street.

Private Dwellings Leased.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. leased 119 East Fifty-fourth Street, between Park and Lexington Avenues, a five-story American basement dwelling, furnished, for Alonzo Potter to Bayard Dominick of Dominick & Dominick, bankers; also 121 East Eighty-first Street, between Park and Lexington Avenues a five-story American basement dwelling, furnished, for Mrs. David Dows to John Sloane of W. & J. Sloane.

Pease & Elliman leased for Dr. Virgil P. Gibney to Miss Urania Woodman the four-story and basement dwelling, 44 East Thirty-fifth Street.

Mortgage Loans Placed.

The following loans have been placed by John Finck: $31,000, at 5½ per cent., for the 540 West 163d Street Realty Company, covering premises at 544 and 546 West 163d Street; $15,500, at 5½ per cent., for J. Bernstein and H. Greenwald; covering 141 West Sixty-second Street; $50,000, at 5½ per cent., for the Morgan Steam Laundry, covering 700 Mott Avenue; $19,000, at 5½ per cent., for the 25 West 136th Street Corporation, covering 1,353 Avenue A, northwest corner of Seventy-second Street; $25,000, at 5 per cent., for Henry B. Anderson, covering 105 East Fifty-seventh Street; $27,000, at 4½ per cent., for Otto Doepfner, covering 332 to 336 East Seventy-seventh Street; $130,000, at 4½ per cent., for F. G. Schmidt, covering 11 East Forty-second Street; $18,000, at 5½ per cent., for Christian Wollersen, covering 546 West Forty-eighth Street; $22,000, at 5 per cent., for Abraham Rice, covering 607 Fox Street, and $45,000, at 5 per cent., for the Merrill estate, covering 1 Gramercy Park.

Realty Notes.

The Taxpayers' Association of the Tenth, Eleventh, and Seventeenth Wards will celebrate the forty-fifth anniversary of its organization this evening with a banquet at the Hotel Astor.

The nine-story Fullerton apartment house, at 116 to 120 East Fifty-eighth Street, 57 by 100.5, between Park and Lexington Avenues, was transferred as a gift from Annabella Curtis to B. Farquhar of Hastings-on-the-Hudson. It is subject to a mortgage of $300,000.

THOMAS A. EDISON

Builder of Civilization

This is Edison Week, The Week We Honor Him

By Edwin C. Barnes

WHEN there threatened to be more telegrams than wires to carry them, the need for a cheaper carrier of telegrams became an urgent necessity of commerce. Thomas A. Edison, super-American engineer, supplied that necessity with his mysterious quadruplex telegraphy, by which four messages are sent over one wire at the same time—two in each direction.

When Alexander Graham Bell found that his wonderful invention, the telephone, could carry the voice only a few miles, an improvement that would transmit the voice any distance became the imperative need of the world of commerce. Thomas A. Edison, super-American mechanician, supplied that need with his surprising carbon telephone transmitter.

When the world was small and houses few, people retired early and artificial light was not a great nocturnal need.

But when the world became large, and houses many, light loomed large as a crying necessity. And Thomas A. Edison, super-American scientist, supplied that necessity with his unparalleled incandescent lamp and lighting system.

That was building civilization.

When life was simple and there was little strain on man, diversion was not a national need.

But when society grew complex, man felt the strain, and relaxation in each home became a human necessity. Thomas A. Edison, super-American inventor, supplied that necessity with his astonishing discovery—the phonograph.

When life became still more intense, home entertainment failed to furnish sufficient diversion, and a theatre in each hamlet became the nation's need. Thomas A. Edison's super-American imagination supplied that need with his bewildering moving pictures.

That was building civilization.

When England and Germany, in 1914, placed an embargo on carbolic acid and threatened to paralyze American industry, Thomas A. Edison brought into being in four weeks a plant that could produce two thousand pounds of carbolic acid per day.

That was preserving civilization from the iron heel of autocracy.

When business was small and there were few letters to write, correspondence could be done by hand. But when big business came into being, and letters by the billion had to be written by busy executives, a swift, efficient, economical correspondence system became a burning business necessity. Thomas A. Edison, super-American business engineer, supplied that necessity with the unprecedented Edison Dictating Machine and Edison Dictation System.

Not all business men have yet come to realize that Mr. Edison's system of dictation is one of his greatest achievements.

Not all business men have come to understand that Mr. Edison's dictation system will not only reduce the cost of correspondence, but actually enable every dictator and stenographer to produce BETTER LETTERS.

But when the business world comes to a full realization of the Edison Dictating Machine and the Edison Dictation System, the business world will echo as above—

As Richard Wagner soothed the ear; as William Shakespeare amused the mind; as Michael Angelo pleased the eye, so Thomas A. Edison, super-American engineer, has built civilization.

This is Edison Week, the week we honor Thomas A. Edison. He is seventy years of age—still working eighteen hours per day and more—still sleeping six hours per night and less—working day and night to help America—to help America preserve civilization from the grinding greed of autocracy.
